Speculation on Move to End War

SAIGON (UPI)—Dr. Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Saigon tonight on a special mission that some political figures believed signaled a breakthrough in his secret Vietnam peace talks in Paris. North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho, who met Kissinger in Paris, was flying to Hanoi but called his trip routine."

Kissinger's blue and white Air Force Boeing 707 made its way through thick rain clouds into Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Air Base where he was greeted by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Frederick Weyand, commander of U.S. forces in South Vietnam.

Kissinger entered a waiting U.S. Embassy limousine and sped off, ignoring a waiting crowd of newsmen.

The belief in Saigon was there had been an important development, but South Vietnamese officials were divided among themselves over whether Kissinger was flying here to dump President Nguyen Van Thieu or to assure him his political future was secure.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong peace negotiators in Paris at the last session on Thursday issued statements that there could be no peace settlement until the Thieu government was dissolved. They seek a coalition government.

The Miami Herald, in a report from Bonn, said today Kissinger is going to Saigon to ask Thieu to step down and be replaced by an 'interim coalition regime." Correspondent William R. Frye, citing no sources, said:

'The United States and South Vietnam can have a cease-fire if President Thieu will step down and be replaced by an interim coalition regime. If he insists on retaining power, Washington may attempt to negotiate a cease-fire and prisoner exchange applying only to American forces."

The White House declined to comment on the speculation, and Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler cautioned reporters not to expect dramatic results from Kissinger's trip. He said Kissinger would be in Saigon for two days of talks with Thieu and there would be a "general review of all aspects of the Vietnam problem, including the negotiations in Paris."

Kissinger last met Tho and Chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy in Paris on Monday. The nature of the talks was not disclosed but administration sources said Tuesday in Washington that Kissinger would discuss with Thieu "substantive ideas" that were raised in Paris.

Kissinger is to brief President Nixon when he returns this weekend. Kissinger flew to Saigon from Switzerland where he had been visiting his parents on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

Tho, a member of the North Vietnam Politburo who outranks even the chief negotiator, left Paris today aboard a scheduled Soviet Aeroflot airliner via Moscow. He also is expected to stop off in Peking.

Tho told reporters at Le Bourget airfield that speculation surrounding his trip was generally not correct.

'My voyage today is within the framework of my usual comings and goings between Hanoi and Paris," he said. "Since yesterday there has been a lot of speculation about my departure. In general, this speculation does not coincide with reality, and could also lead to inaccurate conclusions."

"I'm sure Dr. Kissinger is going to reassure President Thieu," said one high-ranking government source. "President Nixon—if he is consistent—would not make any decision on Vietnam without consulting Mr. Thieu. He has always kept the president informed."

But many other officials, including some of Thieu's opponents, viewed Kissinger's visit as an indication there was a breakthrough in the Paris peace talks despite a White House warning against such speculation.

Meanwhile, President Nixon is expected to announce shortly that 14,000 to 19,000 U.S. troops will be brought home from Vietnam, administration sources said today.

The remaining 20,000 to 25,000 troops in Vietnam could be the "residual" force that the President on several occasions has said will stay in Vietnam until prisoners of war are released and the missing in action are accounted for by the Communists.

The President's 10th troop withdrawal announcement since taking office could come before he flies to Florida early next week for the Republican National Convention, the sources said.

Some type of statement had been expected from Nixon shortly since he had announced June 28 that by Sept. 1 only 39,000 troops would remain in Vietnam.

The President's June 28 order also specified that no draftees would be sent to Vietnam unless they volunteer for duty. The order did not affect an estimated 4,000 draftees in Vietnam or assigned to go there when it was announced.

It was not known if the new withdrawals would affect those draftees.

While administration sources disclosed Nixon's plans on Vietnam, the President today was at Camp David in Maryland's Catoctin Mountains.

Nixon was working with White House aides on domestic legislative and administrative work. He was planning to turn next to drafting the acceptance speech he will deliver to the GOP convention when he is nominated for a second term.

Harriman Charges...

YORKTOWN, N.Y. (UPI)—W. Averell Harriman says when he left the Paris peace talks in 1969 he handed President Nixon a chance for successful peace negotiations "on a silver platter" but Nixon allowed South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu to scuttle it.

Harriman, President Lyndon Johnson's chief delegate to the talks, said Nixon gave Thieu virtual veto over American positions in the talks in order to maintain a government in South Vietnam beholden to the United States.

During a luncheon interview at his country estate, Harriman said that by January, 1969, "all the procedural questions were settled which we thought made it possible to begin really serious negotiations.

"Unfortunately they never took place. President Thieu, I believe, consciously scuttled the negotiations," Harriman said.

Harriman said the North Vietnamese had signalled—both by withdrawing nearly 90 per cent of their troops from the northern two provinces of South Vietnam and by "words" at secret talks in the fall of 1968—that they were prepared to begin serious negotiations.

The 80-year-old diplomat and former New York governor said it was this opportunity to which he and Cyrus Vance, his deputy in the talks, referred in their joint statement Saturday supporting Democratic vice presidential nominee Sargent Shriver's statement that Nixon "blew" a chance for peace in 1969.

By the fall of 1968, Harriman said, he and Vance had overcome the most difficult obstacles—getting the North Vietnamese to begin negotiations and to accept the presence of South Vietnamese representatives.

Starting in October, 1968, Harriman said, there were several indications that fruitful negotiations could begin. Principal among them was the North Vietnamese withdrawal of "22 regiments out of 25" from the northern two provinces of South Vietnam.

What was more, Harriman said, "We had our discussions, we had our understandings which made it possible for President Johnson to stop the bombing. We had many private talks, none of which have been discussed publicly and I don't intend to do it now."

The beginning of formal talks was delayed at least two months—from October, 1968 until about two days before Nixon's inauguration—first by Thieu's refusal to participate, then by the issue of the shape of the table.

On January 29, 1969, Thieu stated he would refuse to engage in secret talks with the National Liberation Front (Viet Cong). He changed his mind and agreed to such talks two months later, but Harriman said it was by then too late; the Communists would no longer talk to Thieu.

In March of 1969, Harriman said, Thieu "made a public statement...that under no circumstances would he ever agree to change the constitution to let the Communist party operate in South Vietnam nor would he ever agree to any coalition government.

"But as those two points were the essence of any agreement, tht ended the other side's willingness to talk to him . . . From then on, the other side has refused to negotiate with President Thieu as they do today," he said.

"The opportunity for negotiations started almost the day that President Nixon took office and that opportunity was lost because the administration didn't pursue negotiations in private and President Thieu refused to negotiate in private.

...and Lodge Answers

BOSTON (UPI)—Henry Cabot Lodge said Tuesday there was no "golden opportunity" in the 1969 Paris peace talks because North Vietnam never budged from its stand demanding the United States unilaterally withdraw from South Vietnam and depose the Saigon regime.

Lodge, the U.S. negotiator in Paris starting in 1969, said Sargent Shriver, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, never mentioned that there was such an opportunity until last week.

"I was in touch with Shriver during the period after I went to Paris, and there was no talk of a change in the North Vietnam position," Lodge said in a telephone interview from his Beverly, Mass., home.

"I don't understand why the people in power in 1968, if they had such information, waited until 1972 to tell us about it."

Lodge said that in "a little more than a year that I was in Paris, there were perhaps five or six secret negotiations."

But he said no breakthrough of the type described by Shriver appeared in prospect, on the basis of his consultations with the White House and State Department.

Shriver, former ambassador to France, said President Nixon missed "a golden opportunity" for fruitful negotiations after he took office in January, 1969, letting it elude him by giving South Vietnam President Thieu virtual veto power over the U. S. position.

When he arrived in Paris, Lodge said, the enemy established these conditions as necessary to end the conflict:

"The United States would have to withdraw unilaterally from South Vietnam.

"The United States would have to overthrow the government and put a Communist government in power."

The North Vietnamese negotiators, he said, never changed these positions during the time he was in Paris.

Lodge said he did not believe the withdrawal of Vietnamese troops north of the Demilitarized Zone in October, 1968, could be interpreted as any kind of signal.

In 1969, the U.S. government was "grasping at straws" looking for any possible avenue to extricate the nation from the Vietnam War, Lodge said. Any indication there was such a possibility—from Shriver or anyone else—would have been relayed immediately to President Nixon.

Lodge credited Cyrus Vance, deputy negotiator, with being "helpful" to him. But he said Vance gave no indication of any shift in the North Vietnamese position.

Lodge said the U.S. position was to have mutual withdrawal by both powers, an intenationally supervised cease fire and internationally supervised elections.

"We informed tne North Vietnamese that if Communists were elected, we would abide by the results."

It is a fallacy to believe the United States could make South Vietnam do anything the United States wanted, Lodge said.

"The fact is our power was very much overestimated," he said. "The thought was then and is now that all we had to do was press a button. It was not true, nor could it have been true in 1969."

Valley Residents Hear State Transportation Plan

By TIM SCHUSTER

POUGHKEEPSIE

A statewide master plan by the State Department of Transportation that proposes the expenditure of $50 billion during the next 20 years was aired to the public of the Mid-Hudson Valley Tuesday, with strong suggestions heard from representatives of Ulster and Dutchess Counties.

C. David Locks, director of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress, stated that he had consulted with planning directors of all seven counties covered by Pattern and found the plan "difficult to appraise because of its lack of specificity."

Noting the emphasis on policy rather than on projects, Locks said, "We are encouraged by its thrust," adding that the public cannot be expected to give intelligent views without more hard facts."

The two Poughkeepsie hearings were part of a series in 15 locations throughout the state in August. The plan shows a marked trend away from the emphasis put on highway construction in previous years and toward other methods of mass, and especially urban, transportation.

Herbert Hekler, representing the Ulster County Planning Board and the Ulster County Legislature, brought out five points pertinent to residents of the county.

Echoing the composite views of these bodies Heckler said, "The pendulum has swung entirely to the other side," with rural areas being neglected. He cited transportation problems in Kingston, Saugerties, New Paltz and Ellenville areas.

Hekler asked for a stronger land use control to protect existing arterials from becoming obsolete. He pointed out that Ulster County was not in the Urban Areas Plans because it is not included in any regional planning department. Poughkeepsie and Newburgh were well represented, but Kingston was not mentioned.

He also took issue with the DOT's plan to return many lesser state highways to localities to maintain, saying that doing this without proper funding could lead to "revolt."

Areas of particular significance in Ulster County that he considered should be part of the plan were the Kingston-Saugerties corridor and the possible extension of Route 208 from Wallkill to New Paltz.

Several Dutchess County speakers concentrated on one item dear to their hearts—the improvement of Route 9, especially between Poughkeepsie and Fishkill. This was recommended by, among others, Town of Poughkeepsie Supervisor Edward Schueler; and county representatives Anne Bucholz and Joseph Paolucci.

While the DOT master plan asks for 50 billion, it gives as its minimal objective $26 billion, with $486 million of the former amount scheduled for the Poughkeepsie-Dutchess area.

Some proposed new plans for the Mid-Hudson area would be: a bypass route on Route 9W around the western portion of the City of Newburgh; a NY 208 and NY 94 corridor to connect with a freeway route being developed in New Jersey and improve north-south service in Orange County; construction of a new bridge across the Hudson River adjacent to the present Newburgh-Beacon bridge.

Regarding Stewart jetport the plan said, "Stewart Airport, while potentially an important regional facility, is 65 miles from Manhattan and, unless current studies indicate that it's locational handicap can be overcome, is not likely ever to be an adequate fourth jetport for the metropolitan area."

The plan's most significant emphasis is on urban areas; on service rather than solely capital facilities; and on the public-private transportation relationship.

Nicholas Sinacore, regional officer of the DOT, said that people may write for copies. He said that the final plan is expected to be submitted to the governor in December.

New York Gang War:

Massive Probe Is Underway

NEW YORK (AP) — Members of two warring underworld crime families will be subpoenaed to testify before a Manhattan grand jury that convenes next week to hear evidence on what police call the mistaken-identity slayings of two meat company executives.

A spokesman for Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Tuesday night that the investigation would focus on last Friday's killings and on "all the ramifications and possible links" of the shootings with earlier gangland slayings.

One report quoted informed sources as saying that more than 600 underworld figures comprising virtually the entire membership of the feuding Mafia families of Joseph Colombo Sr. and the late Joseph "Crazy Joe" Gallo would be subpoenaed for the probe.

Scores of members of the two families have been questioned by police since the slayings by a two-gun assassin in the Neapolitan Noodle, an Italian restaurant on East 79th Street, last Friday night.

But police said they still had no solid lead to the man they believe was a hired professional killer brought in from out of town by the Gallo faction to rub out several members of the Colombo family who were in the restaurant at the time.

Officials were reported today to have learned from Mafia informants that the Colombo group was there for a major meeting to decide whether to turn to the narcotics business to rebuild the family's declining revenues.

Police say the Colombo group had just left the bar when their places were taken by a party of kosher meat wholesalers. Apparently mistaking them for the underworld group, the gunman opened fire, killing Sheldon Epstein, 41, of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Max Tekelch, 48, of Woodmere, N.Y. Two others in the party were wounded.

One of the alleged targets of the plot, Alphonse "Allie Boy" Persico, appeared in federal court Tuesday on an unrelated gun charge and professed to have no fear for his life.

Persico, 43, later posted $100,000 bond and went free. On Saturday, Jerry Langella, said to be Persico's bodyguard, was also held in $100,000 bond on the same charge.

Police say that Persico, Langella and three other Colombo adherents, Charles Panarelia, Ernie LaPanzina and Joseph Gentile, were in the restaurant awaiting two other members of the family for the meeting.

Joseph Colombo Sr. was shot 14 months ago as he prepared to lead an Italian-American Day rally in Columbus Circle and has been in a semi-comatose state ever since.

At least 15 persons have been killed in the ensuing gang war, including "Crazy Joe" Gallo, who was thought to have been behind the Colombo shooting.

HAZARDOUS DETOUR — Town of Esopus Supervisor George Freer (R) and Planning Board member Tom Johnson view one of the Salem Street Penn Central Railroad crossings in Port Ewen that will be used extensively by motorists should traffic be detoured by the proposed closing of the Rondout Creek Bridge. Freer has consistently maintained that this and other crossings are hazardous, and that the State Department of Transportation should build a new Ulster Arterial bridge over the Rondout Creek, rather than perform repairs on the existing span. According to the state, the repairs would necessitate the structure's closing for six months, forcing traffic to detour through Eddyville. (Photo by Powell)

Proposed Senior Citizens Project ...October Groundbreaking Looms

By JON POWERS

TOWN OF ULSTER

The forecast of an October groundbreaking for the Town of Ulster's proposed 125-unit senior citizens housing project now appears even more realistic following Monday's public hearing on the plan.

Some 60 persons attended the hearing; all who spoke were unanimous in their enthusiastic endorsement of the proposal.

The plan calls for construction of a 125-unit garden apartment development on a 15-acre site west of Ulster Avenue Mall behind the Chambers School. The project will consist exclusively of one bedroom apartments for low and moderate income senior citizens.

If groundbreaking takes place, as expected, in October, the apartments should be ready for occupancy by late 1973.

Monday's public hearing was conducted by the Urban Development Corporation, which will subsidize 95 per cent of the construction and operation of the development, with the assistance of state funds and an FHA mortgage. The remaining five per cent will be borne by the builder, who will also act as landlord when the buildings are completed.

Daniel Keane, a UDC official who works out of the Mid-Hudson Area office in Kingston, explained that the corporation is now mandated to wait for 30 days for comments addressed by interested parties to UDC's Board of Directors. Once the 30-day waiting period has passed (after Sept. 14), the Mid-Hudson Area office will make formal application with the Board of Directors for final approval of the project. The Board of Directors, note Keane, will review the entire transcirpt of Monday's public hearing before making a final determination in the matter.

Once approval is received by UDC's Kingston office, groundbreaking will begin.

Representatives of Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress also attended Monday's hearing. Pattern was contracted to conduct feasibility studies for the project.

According to Dave Forester, a vice-president of Pattern for Progress, the private planning group has endorsed the senior citizen housing plan for the Town of Ulster.

Forester said that there are currently 851 senior citizens in the Town of Ulster; 482 reside in multiple households, 180 live alone. "While it's obvious that they all have a roof over their head," said Forester, "They're not all living in the type of housing they would prefer."

Forester noted that there are three major reasons why senior citizens in the township favor the proposed apartment complex: so they can reside near persons of similar age and interests; because they are tired of maintaining their own homes; and because they are looking for living costs that they can afford.

Statistics compiled recently, added Forester, indicated that the senior citizen population in the Town of Ulster has increased by 28 per cent since 1960, compared to 15 per cent countywide, emphasizing the need for housing for the elderly in the township.

Evelyn Scheffel, president of the Town of Ulster Senior Citizens Club, said there would be no difficulty renting all 125 units. It was noted that 200 informal applications have already been received. Town of Ulster residents will have first opportunity to rent the apartments.

Rents for the one bedroom apartments will range rom $130 to $145 monthly. Rental subsidies will be available to those who fall under "low income" status.

Plans for the housing project were first propsoed in 1969 by the Senior Citizens Club. Town of Ulster officials gave their support to the project and helped solicit assistance from UDC.

COG...More Problems

By WADE BURKHART

ULSTER HEIGHTS

The Children of God, who are the subject of eviction proceedings brought against them by their landlord, and who received a well-publicized visit from Ulster County Sheriff William Martin last week, now have another problem to contend with. This problem is with their cesspools.

The cesspools at the COG settlement in Ulster Heights were inspected recently by county health inspector Lee Augustine, and found to be deficient.

Augustine said Tuesday that the COG had to do three things to satisfy the Ulster County Health Department. One of their two cesspools must be covered over adequately, the other must be both covered and fenced in, and the COG must take steps to install a sewage system "adequate to their needs," according to Augustine.

According to Ulster County's acting director of environmental sanitation, Fred C. Wadnola, the health department was under the impression that the COG settlement was a "temporary residence," and did not need a certificate from the department. He said Augustine was sent to check on it, found a certificate was needed, and cited the COG for the uncovered and inadequate cesspools.

Augustine's letter to the COG was dated Aug. 14, and the COG have 30 days from then to correct the violations.

Wadnola said if they failed to correct the violations, an informal hearing would be held. If the hearing had no effect, the COG could finally be taken to court to get the condition corrected.

A COG elder, who identified himself as Rodent, said the COG were 'looking into" what they had to do, and he believed they would fix the cesspools.

Rodent said the COG had not yet received word of the ruling of Town Justice Maurice Rosenstock in their eviction proceedings.

The proceeding was brought against the COG by The Renaissance Project, the New Rochelle-based anti-drug group, from which the COG lease the old resort hotel they are staying in in Ulster Heights.

Rosenstock's ruling is expected to be made known later this week.

Even if the COG should not be evicted, their lease has been terminated by Renaissance, and according to Renaissance attorney Stephen Schoeman of New Rochelle, will not be renewed "under any circumstances."

Martin visited the COG settlements in Ulster Heights and Cragsmoor twice last week, according to COG members. The first visit, according to COG members, he was looking for "missing persons," and presented no warrant. Supreme Court Judge John L. Larkin of Kingston signed a writ of habeas corpus requiring the COG to produce a Melissa Moody, and COG members say Martin brough this writ on his second visit, but COG members say that the Moody girl was not at the settlement.

'Meals on Wheels' Underway

RED HOOK

Meals on Wheels is expected to get underway in Northern Dutchess County in September, volunteering nutritionally sound meals to residents who are unable to make their own.

This non-profit food service is already underway in many communities across the nation, including Kingston and Poughkeepsie with variations of this format.

Meals on Wheels of Northern Dutchess will be available for the elderly, the homebound, the physically handicapped, the convalescent, or any others who are unable to prepare nutritionally sound meals for themselves.

The areas to be served include Red Hook, Rhinebeck, Rhinecliff, Tivoli, Milan, Nevis, and parts of Clermont.

Beginning Sept. 19 one meal will be provided daily Tuesday through Saturday. Meals will be prepared in the Red Hook United Methodist Church kitchen under the guidance of a trained dietician with the base price $1.50 per day or $6.25 per week. Fees will be adjusted to meet individual needs, and full or partial allotments will be given if needed.

Food stamp authorization will be given to the program by the Food Nutrition Service of New York, and funds have been asked for through the Dutchess County Committee for Economic opportunity

Funds and volunteers are being solicited from service organizations and churches within the communities being served, and volunteer cooks and drivers are urgently needed.

Cooks are asked to volunteer there services for a one-week period from 9 a.m. to noon. Drivers are asked to help pack food hampers and to deliver food to clients. They will meet at the church at 11 a.m. and should plan to arrive back around 1:30 p. m. A one hour food handling course has been set up with Dutchess County Department of Health for the first week in September.

Those interested in receiving the service or in volunteering to assist in the described manner may contact: Red Hook Drug Store, or Northern Dutchess Pharmacy. A volunteer will contact you if you leave your name and phone number.

Those who have been active in organizing Meals on Wheels are: The Rev. Orion Davis; Mrs. Howard Brownell; Mrs. William Brooks; Mrs. Walter Schreiber; Mrs. Fred Brammer; Mrs. Kenneth Williams; and Mrs. Joseph Ary.

Platform Committee Hearings

Voices of Dissent From GOP Liberals

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A few voices of dissent today jarred generally placid hearings of the Republican Platform Committee as GOP liberals called for an unqualified pullout from Vietnam, busing to aid desegregation and the legalized use of marijuana.

The proposals were offered by Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York and supported by a handful of other witnesses. The 108-member committee seemed certain to spurn them in drafting a platform to the liking of President Nixon for next week's GOP convention.

The voices of 75 prominent Republican women, including U.N. delegate Shirley Temple Black, also were heard. They issued a statement late Tuesday demanding "more positions for women at every level of our party" and a strong women's rights plank.

Javits told platform drafters he would not offer a formal Southeast Asia plank, "knowing well the position of the President on Vietnam," but he declared:

"I believe the time has come to terminate completely our active commitment to this war and to end all U.S. participation in it. It is time that the South Vietnamese carried on the war themselves and that we withdraw without qualifications."

Javits urged the platform writers to "support the efforts of the courts to eliminate de jure (legally prescribed) segregation of the schools, including where necessary and reasonable, the remedy of busing."

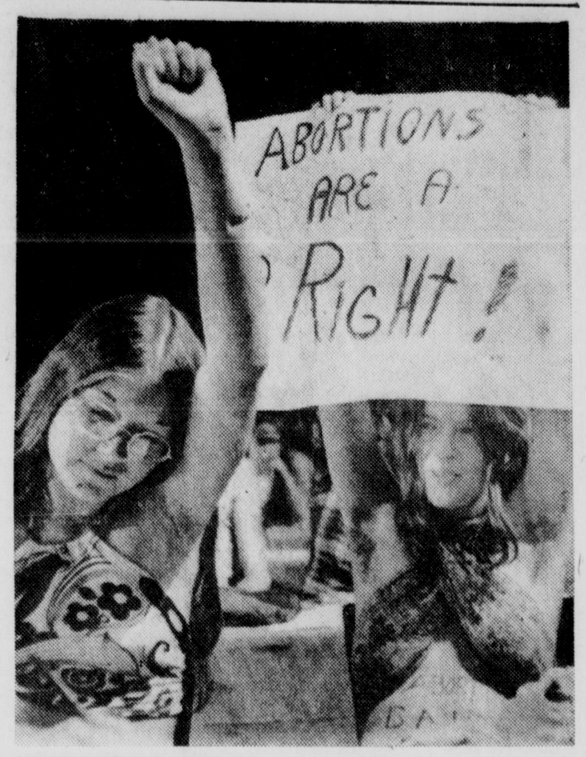

His position closely approximates a Democratic platform plank which says busing must continue to be available "to eliminate legally imposed segregation and improve the quality of education."

Javits proposed "a strong national effort to respond to the problem of drug abuse, prevention and rehabilitation."

But he said he agreed with the President's National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse that Congress should decriminalize the personal possession of marijuana.

He proposed the platform say, "We will support the decriminalization of marijuana where held in small quantities for personal use in private."

The appeal of the GOP women for equality in the party as delegates, candidates, officeholders and administrators was organized by the bipartisan National Women's Political Caucus.

Elderly, Young Demonstrators Form Alliance

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Elderly Miami Beach residents and young protesters plan to join in political action during the Republican National Convention and organizers say they will put President Nixon's policies on trial in a "community court."

"The young people won't be the only demonstrators at the Republican National Convention," said 70-year-old Max Serchuk. "The senior citizens also have some gripes . . ."

The complaints may not be the same but there seems to be a mutual feeling of alienation from the political process.

"We realized we had several things in common, that we were being generally ignored by the administration," said Pamela Cole, 23, a San Diego State College student.

The alliance blossomed during the Democratic conclave last month. Senior citizens met the Zippies, Yippies and other nondelegates in a carnival atmosphere at Flamingo Park.

Serchuk, head of the Dade County Council of Senior Citizens, said the oldsters have joined with the young people "in an investigation of the administration because we learned .. in July many of these youths were aware of, and sympathetic with, the needs of senior citizens."

Four young people and four of the elderly will sit as judges when a mock trial convenes next Monday to "try" the Nixon Administration's policies Serchuk said.

He said the investigation would hear not only the complaints of the elderly but also will listen to presentations from all the groups here — Vietnam veterans, blacks, labor representatives, Mexican-Americans, women, Indians, welfare recipients and gay activists.

"We want to hear their stories," Serchuk said. "They will be heard in a general court of the community where everyone will have a chance to state their views.

"It may be that the judges will not agree with the ideas of everyone who comes before them," he added. "They aren't there to rubber stamp everything that is put before them."

On Wednesday, when Nixon is to make his nomination acceptance speech, hundreds of old and young demonstrators will march with the verdict to the President's Miami Beach headquarters in the Doral Hotel, according to a scenario prepared by protest leaders.

Serchuk said he will be there to personally present the complaints of the senior citizens.

"I will contend that the Nixon administration turns a deaf ear to the needs of the elderly in such areas as providing adequate housing and decent nursing homes," he said. "And we need a national health security program which he is not providing."

Confident McGovern Pledges To End Wage-Price Controls

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, claiming greater confidence than ever that he can beat President Nixon, has pledged to end wage-price controls within 90 days after taking office.

With little advance fanfare, the Democratic nominee declared he would order a return to a free market upon ending the Vietnam war and reducing military spending.

In comments to a group of Illinois labor leaders Tuesday night, McGovern said: "When the war is ended and waste is stopped, we can end wage and price controls, and I think that can be done within 90 days of the inauguration. And I'm committed to that goal."

McGovern's economic pledge capped a day of campaigning Tuesday in Ohio and Illinois in which he asserted that Nixon himself was at least indirectly involved in an attempt to spy on Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington.

McGovern planned to court the farm vote today after reaping a new round of labor endorsements Tuesday.

As he addressed a cheering group of United Auto Workers near General Motors' Lordstown, Ohio, plant the 1.4-million-member union announced it had voted overwhelmingly to endorse the South Dakotan.

At the same time, the International Ladies Garment Workers, with 450,000 members, tendered its support by way of a unanimous executive-board decision.

On the minus side, the 380,000-member Indiana AFL-CIO declared it would follow the lead of national federation President George Meany and remain neutral.

And McGovern's much-awaited meeting with Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, whom McGovern forces helped oust from the Democratic National Convention last month, was called off for another week. The senator said Daley had called him at Lordstown to ask a postponement for "urgent personal reasons."

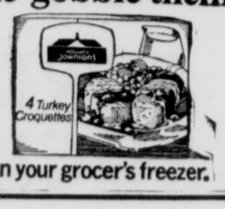

McGovern's revised schedule called for a visit to a small family farm near Springfield today, then an address to perhaps more than 15,000 persons at the Illinois State Fair, followed by a conference with state party and Farmers Union leaders.

McGovern said after his earlier appearances in Ohio, including a traffic-stopping handshaking tour of Youngstown, that he was "considerably more confident that I can win this election than I was that I would win the nomination in the first place."

The candidate also unveiled his strongest line to date on the June 17 incident in which five men, some with financial and professional ties to Nixon's reelection committee, were arrested inside Democratic headquarters in Washington.

At one point, McGovern referred to the quintet as "Mr. Nixon's crew." Asked if that means he thinks the President is personally involved in the apparent bugging attempt, he replied, "I lay it at least indirectly to him."

Dr. Arnold Vs. Saugerties Board... 'Soon Resolved'

SAUGERTIES

Dr. Dexter O. Arnold and the Saugerties Board of Education locked horns again at a recent school board meeting, but it now appears that the differences that have polarized the two parties may finally be resolved, although not necessarily to everyone's satisfaction.

Peter Kramer, clerk of the Board of Education, announced Monday night that the Commissioner of the State Education Department has set September 6 as the date for a hearing on Dr. Arnold's appeal of his dismissal by the school board.

The hearing will be held at 1 p. m. on that date in the Regents Room of the Education Building in Albany. The hearing is open to the press and public.

Dr. Arnold, the Superintendent of Schools, was fired by the Board of Education on June 30. But he appealed his dismissal to the Commissioner of Education, who agreed to review the case and conduct a hearing to determine if the dismissal was justified.

The Board of Education has declined to give specific reasons for its firing of Dr. Arnold, stating that the charges will be made public at the hearing.

In the meantime, Dr. Arnold and the school board continue to have their differences. The latest surfaced at the meeting.

Dr. Arnold had previously refused to recommend High School Principal Daniel Lee for tenure, "in the best interests of the district." He then posted the High School principal's position as vacant.

But the Board of Education would have no part of that move. It unanimously passed a resolution directing Dr. Arnold to "cease and desist" from posting the principal's position as vacant.

In addition, the school board ordered Dr. Arnold to "recognize Mr. Lee as principal, and to give him the direction, respect and cooperation afforded all school administrators."

The board then passed a resolution continuing Lee's salary and his position as principal.

Lee is currently working under a three-year contract that expires in 1975. Although the Superintendent is the only official who can recommend tenure status for a district employe, the Board of Education contends that its contract with Lee takes precedence over Dr. Arnold's actions.

There was another flurry of debate between Dr. Arnold and the board later in the meeting, after a local news correspondent said she received tax rate information from the Superintendent's office before it was officially released by the board. Dr. Arnold denied that contention. The Board of Education said the matter will be investigated.

Board president Robert Francello then directed that all releases to the news media must first be approved by him or district clerk Peter Kramer.

Tax rates for the district were announced. Saugerties residents will pay $136.704 per $1,000 of assessed valuation in 1972-73, an increase of about $10 over the past year. Woodstock residents residing in the Saugerties district will pay $36.475 and Town of Ulster residents will pay $168.292 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

In other matters, Francello noted that tentative agreement on a contract with the Saugerties Teachers Association has been reached. The measure must be approved by the STA membership.

School will open on Sept. 6, with faculty meetings on Sept. 5.

It was noted that the High School music room has been enlarged: the kindergarten room in the Village Library has been renovated; fire alarms in each classroom in the district have been connected to local fire districts.

Paltz Teachers...Limitation

NEW PALTZ

The members of the New Paltz Teachers Association will be limiting their involvement in non-teaching duties until they get a contract, according to Ronald Noelle, the teachers' chief negotiator and member of the association's executive committee.

Noelle said today that the teachers voted Tuesday to support the executive committee's recommendation that the teachers limit their non-teaching involvement.

Non-teaching duties include the coaching of athletic teams, and the supervision of school clubs, among other duties.

Initially, the teachers will limit their involvement "as little as possible," Noelle said. Teachers will perform all non-teaching duties except the supervision of clubs in the high school, according to Noelle.

However, he said, the longer the teachers go without a contract, the more non-teaching duties the teachers will cease to perform. Referring to non-teaching duties, Noelle said, "By the end of September there won't be any activities if there is no agreement."

The purpose of dropping the non-teaching duties, according to Noelle, will be to allow teachers to get out to the public to explain their position.

New Paltz teachers are to be working on a Middle States Association evaluation this year. Work by teachers on that will stop if no contract is settled, Noelle said.

The last activity to be stopped will be the coaching of interscholastic sports. Noelle said this will be to make sure the students involved had an adequate coaching in the fundamentals "for their safety and welfare."

The New Paltz Board of Education, under the provisions of the Taylor Law, set the terms and conditions of employment for the district's teachers after holding a legislative hearing earlier this summer.

Noelle said the teachers regarded this as a "closed contract" and could not accept this "philosophically."

The two big problems the teachers find in the terms and conditions of employment set by the board, are the salary and the lack of class size guidelines. Noelle said the teachers were seeking a five per cent increase plus their step increment. This is about what PERB factfinder Nicholas Falcone recommended.

The board's terms call for about a 4½ per cent increase across the board for the teachers, with no step increase according to board vice-president Jerry Bart.

Falcone recommended a starting salary of $7,900. The board set a starting salary of $8,000. Last year's starting salary was $7,460.

Noelle said the board had not, as was previously reported, followed the recommendations of Dr. George Smith, then the acting surpervising principal. Noelle said the salary package recommended by Smith would have amounted to $30,000 more than the one the Board settled on.

Noelle said a guideline for class size had been in the teachers' contract for the past five years. He said it was a flexible guideline, and had worked fairly well.

The board's terms contain no class size guidelines. Bart said the board believed it to be a prerogative of the board to set class sizes.

Bart said the decision made by the teachers had not altered the Board's official position. He said the board still considers extra curricula activities to be a part of the district program, with money in the budget to pay the teachers involved in them.

Bart said the official position of the board with regards to negotiations was that they had been concluded for this year.

Bart said the board still hoped everything would "proceed as normal" this year.

City Dems Select Perry

KINGSTON

Eugene Perry of 80 Yeoman's Street has been endorsed by city Democrats to run for county legislator from Kingston, filling the vacancy created by the withdrawal on Monday by William (Pucker) Davis, The Freeman learned today from sources in the Democratic Party.

Lawrence E. Woerner, city chairman, however, would neither confirm or deny the report, telling The Freeman, "I can make no comment on that report, today."

Perry, a committeeman from the 10th Ward of the city, was reportedly endorsed at a special meeting of the city Executive Committee on Tuesday night, only hours after Davis announced his withdrawal.

Davis, a withdrawing, stated several reasons: his loss of the Conservative nomination, allegedly because the Conservatives failed to file his nominating petition with the County Board of Elections by Aug. 10 deadline; health problems; and the fact that liberals in his party (the McGovern forces) were opposed to his Conservative endorsement and that conservatives in the party would be opposed to him if he supported McGovern.

Perry, who up until several months ago, was the owner-proprietor of Perry's Restaurant at North Street and Delaware Avenue (now Pier 7) made an unsuccessful bid for nomination to run as a county legislator at the city convention in March of last year.

His nomination this time must be endorsed by a majority of the three-member County Committee on Vacancies which includes County Chairman James T. McCardle, City Chairman Woerner and County Vice Chairman (Mrs.) Rose Hogan. McCardle is reportedly in vacation in Cape Cod. The committee has until midnight, Thursday to make a decision.

The Democratic candidate will face Republican Harry C. Kapreilian who was appointed by Gov. Rockefeller two months ago to fill the unexpired term of the late William E. Edelmuth who died in May. This year's race for legislator will be for the remainder of Edelmuth's unexpired term which runs out on Dec. 31, 1973.

Boy Injured In Collision

KINGSTON

An 8-year-old boy was injured shortly before 9:30 p.m. Monday when his bicycle reportedly collided with the rear of a car at Hone and Pierpont Streets, according to police.

The boy, Hannibal Rodriquez of 95 Hone Street, was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance and treated for leg injuries, police said.

According to a report of the mishap, Telesford Torres, 44, of 146 Spring Street, backed his car from Pierpont Street to enter Hone Street. The vehicle was stopped when the bicycle hit it, police noted.

Proposal Shrugged Off by State GOP Leaders

Steingut Seeks Special Session to Enact Flood Relief Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — The top Democrat in the State Assembly says the legislature should be called into special session to enact a relief plan for the victims of flooding caused by Tropical Storm Agnes in the Elmira-Corning area last June.

But Assembly Minority Leader Stanley Steingut's proposal Tuesday was shrugged off as "a meaningless gesture" by Senate Republican Majority leader Earl W. Brydges and Sen. Warren Anderson, R-Binghamton, the likely successor to the retiring Brydges as majority leader.

"Once we in Albany know what we can expect from Washington, and only then, can we take the necessary steps to rebuild the community facilities which have been destroyed and provide the assistance needed on the local level," Brydges and Anderson said.

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea has proposed legislation to ease the tax burden in flood-damaged areas, but he said this could be done at the regular 1973 session.

Steingut issued his call for a special session in a letter to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

He said he was acting "without political motivation" as a result of a tour of the Southern Tier region where "my heart went out to the unfortunate victims of this natural disaster."

While the Brooklyn Democrat was making public his suggestion, S. William Green, chairman of the Federal Regional Council, announced that federal approval had been granted for urban renewal programs in Elmira, Irwin, Painted Post, Riverside and South Corning.

Other applications are expected from Corning and Salamanca, he said.

The State Urban Development Corp. can now begin acquisition and demolition of damaged properties in preparation for redevelopment, even before final funding arrangements are approved.

Federal funds will pay three-fourths of the cost of the renewal programs, with the state and localities contributing one-eighth each.

Steingut listed several steps he believed the legislature should take to assist the flood victims.

He called for creation of a blue-ribbon panel to pass on applications for aid and authorization for the State Home Finance Agency to issue 35-year mortgages and refinance existing mortgages to replace or rehabilitate damaged houses.

The minority leader also asked for speeded efforts to provide low-rent mobile homes, licensing of contractors and repairmen, increased funds for the Job Development Authority, reassessment of property in the affected area, rehabilitation of roads and bridges, emergency supplemental state grants to localities.

Also reconstruction grants to school districts, continuation of state school aid for students displaced by the flood, hiring preference on disaster projects for unemployed persons in the area, allowing the Crime Victims Compensation Board to pay claims of persons injured by the flood, reestablishment of the Office of Civil Defense to supervise a flood alert system, appropriation of $7 million to complete planning for dikes and dams in the region, and funds for amphibious rescue vehicles.

Fischer, Spassky Draw in Game of Blunders

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — Boris Spassky and Bobby Fischer—the Russian world chess champion and the American challenger—played what may go down in history as the game of the blunders. The difference was Fisher could afford to make errors, Spassky could not.

The challenger wriggled out of a 20th move error and a hopeless position to accept a draw after 40 moves in the 14th game. He retained his commanding three-point lead, 8½ to 5½, and needs only another four points in nine games to capture Spassky's title.

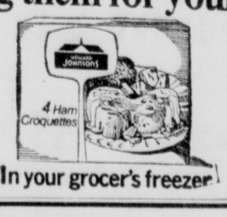

But at one stage it looked as if the Russian had pulled off a sensational victory and breathed new life into the $250,000 contest. After postponing Sunday's game, "not feeling well" after a disastrous 13th game loss, Spassky had the challenger at his mercy. Fischer had played his 20th move and outside the packed exhibition hall three of the champion's seconds commented.

'It's a blunder. It'll cost him the game" said grandmaster Nikolai Krogius. Eyfim Geller, the recognized boss" of the Russian team, smiled and said "Spassky got pawn for free." Ivo Ney, the third member of the team, chatted excitedly with Spassky's wife, Larissa, who signed autographs for Icelandic children.

A short time later the scene changed. Geller chainsmoked once again, Ney stopped in his tracks and Krogius rubbed his forehead and said with a glance at the closed-circuit television: "Spassky fell into a trap I spotted five moves ago. What a terrible mistake."

Larry Evans, the U.S. grandmaster, agreed and said "poor Spassky. He missed a dead draw in the 13th game and threw away a win tonight. A very sad way to lose your world title."

Gunmen Shoot Catholic in Kneecaps

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen shot a young Roman Catholic man in the kneecaps early today—a common punishment used by the Irish Republican Armys (IRA) militant Provisonal wing for those who cross it.

"We expect this will be the first of many such punishments," an army spokesman said.

Residents of the Glen Road housing projects in Catholic Andersonstown who heard two shots shortly after midnight found a red-haired young man lying in the street. He had bullet wounds in both knees.

Although the Provisonals frequently have used that form of punishment in the past, it was the first such incident since the Army moved in to occupy Roman Catholic strongholds in Belfast and Londonderry two weeks ago in "Operation Motorman.' 'Since that time violence has dropped to half its previous level and discoveries of arms and explosives have more than doubled, army spokesmen said.

Members of the Provisionals have said they suspect the smaller Official wing of the IRA, which is still observing a cease-fire, of making a deal with security forces by giving information on the Provisionals in return for immunity for themselves. The Provisionals have pointed out that all the leaders of the Official wing who were detained at Long Kesh Interment Camp have now been released .

Police sources said Tuesday they believe a gang of psychopathic killers they refer to as "the animals" may be responsible for many of the recent murders of both Catholics and Protestants.

The killings, which have sharply increased in the last six weeks, were first attributed to revenge squads of the IRA and the Protestant Ulster Defense Force (UDF), but the sources said evidence to indicate psychopaths is growing.

IRA sources agreed with the theory, and said they believe they know who one of the killers is — a young Protestant man who lives in the Old Park district near where night watchman Thomas Madden's body was found Sunday night. Madden, 46, a Catholic, had been stabbed many times and beaten before being shot.

Tuesday, the third anniversary of the British troops' arrival in Belfast to keep the peace, was relatively quiet with only minor incidents of violence reported.

Fatal Plane Crash in Greene Being Probed

CAIRO, N.Y. (UPI) — Federal Aviation Administration investigators are investigating the cause of a light plane crash which went down during a thunderstorm late Monday, taking the lives of its two occupants.

State police said the pilot, George Dennie, 50, and his wife, Lynn, 48, both of Scotia, Schenectady County, were killed instantly. The craft was registered to Dennie, at a mailing address he also maintained at Hagaman, in Montgomery County.

The single engine, four-seater plane went down in a heavily wooded, hilly area near this Greene County community shortly after Dennie had radioed the Albany Airport control tower for his location. The tower was about to supply the information when the plane dropped out of sight on the radar monitor.

Troopers said it was still not determined where the plane had departed and its exact destination, although they believed he may have been headed for Albany.

The call to the tower came about 8:45 p.m. and residents of the area said they heard a cash about 9. Still, it took searchers more than three hours to find the demolished wreckage and the two victims. The site was near the Harold C. Meyer Road.

The Dennie's lived at 1005 Cherokee Road, Scotia.

Political Compromise

A question that most puzzles the young and the idealistic among the electorate is how one politician can disagree violently with another politician prior to a primary or during a heated campaign, and yet—when it comes time to vote—cast his ballot in an apparent contradiction of his initial stand.

An excellent example of that is the attitude of such senators as Humphrey and Muskie as the Democratic convention drew to a close. Both had bitterly attacked the ultimate winner, Senator McGovern, in the state-by-state fighting preliminary to the climactic activities in Miami.

Yet, when the chips were down and when the South Dakotan ran away with an easy first-ballot victory, there were Humphrey and Muskie front stage center, arms linked in figurative and literal loyalty to the man on whom the hopes of the Democratic party will ride in these next three months.

Are they being hypocritical, dishonest, expedient or realistic?

A recent article by Jacob K. Javits, the astute senior senator from New York, provides a most excellent and comprehensive answer to the question.

Discussing what he terms the "All or Nothing" syndrome, Mr. Javits explains how he can actively support President Nixon and Vice President Agnew for reelection despite differing drastically with them on key issues.

His reasoned approach to a most perplexing subject well might serve as a model for the Republican National Committee in its forthcoming campaign. So cogent are his observations that they easily could be categorized as propaganda except for the very fact that his views seldom have coincided with the President's while as recently as a month ago he was urging Mr. Nixon to dump Agnew and to select some more moderate man as a running mate.

But, says Senator Javits, "I can support Mr. Nixon because he has been the most effective worker for peace and for the improvement of international relationships since the end of World War II."

The New Yorker adds, "I can support him because he is the first American President to endorse a guaranteed basic income level that may be the beginning of the end of the welfare tragedy; because on balance he is the best prescription for this nation at this point in history; because he has gone a long way to redeem his 1968 promise to end the war."

Senator Javits observes that one of the most disturbing qualities about the political process is the "all or nothing" syndrome. A healthy political system demands awareness of a gray area, he asserts.

And so the independent veteran from New York, at odds with Mr. Nixon on major domestic policies, nevertheless feels he can back the incumbent with clear and unfettered conscience.

Stated more simply, the senator merely is saying that one should vote for the man deemed capable of doing the best job.

Which is not a bad criterion.

On Centenarians

Nearly 7,000 men and women who have passed 100 years are listed with the Social Security Administration, which predicts the centenarian roll will rapidly expand.

Consider Mrs. Margaret Heckert, who when 95 was caught climbing her cherry tree without benefit of a ladder, and who then baked a cherry pie with the cherries she had picked. It was easy to see she'd make her mark, and she did. At 90, Joseph DeMuth, now 100-plus, carpentered and whittled hundreds of pairs of crutches, which he donated to hospitals and charities.

A good number of the centenarians are active workers—full or part time. Charlie Smith, born July 4, 1842, the oldest known living American, runs a small candy store. He didn't retire from work in a Florida citrus grove until he was 113.

The use of alcohol, tobacco, drugs, certain foods, religion—varies among the 100-year-olds. Augustus Grant says "I never used alcoholic beverages, tobacco or carbonated drinks. I've always eaten regular meals and gotten plenty of sleep." Others credit their doctors. Ida Stillwell was "poorly" for 80 years, then outgrew her ailments, enjoys perfect health.

The centenarians have this in common, according to AMA findings: an easy-going disposition, a quick sense of humor, a desire to keep busy—physically and mentally, and a clear majority are lifelong church goers. Centenarians may not like to see themselves in mirrors, but most are beautiful, in ways the rest of us can't match.

Jack Anderson Says

More on PX Shoplifting

WASHINGTON — The armed forces follow a double standard of justice in dealing with shoplifters. The punishment, apparently, depends upon their rank.

We have obtained dozens of arrest records which accuse high-ranking officers of filching petty items from military PXs. We selected 23 of these cases for spot investigations.

We found only one retired lieutenant colonel who had been hauled into court. Five others were chewed out by their superiors. The remaining 17 were exonerated," or the charges were quietly dropped.

In contrast, enlisted men caught shoplifting usually faced formal charges. Related one inspector: "When officers are picked up for shoplifting, they are simply released. When enlisted men are stopped, they are turned over to the MPs, sent to general court and . . . convicted for petty larceny."

The inspector who complained about this discrimination, incidentally, was harrassed. Another security officer, who urged that high-ranking thievery be investigated instead of covered up, was fired.

Typical was the case of Col. Robert P. Gould, who was accused of pocketing a $4.75 eight-track tape cassette of "The Partridge Family Sound Magazine" last Christmas Eve from the PX at Andrews Air Force Base.

The arrest records indicate that a benevolent security inspector tried to signal Gould "in the hopes he would . . . pay for the tape." But the Colonel missed his cue.

Sleight of Hand

Once outside, the inspector was obliged to stop Gould, who denied that he had snitched the $4.75 item. He explained that he had left the tape inside the PX and offered to reenter the store to prove it.

Inside, according to the arrest record, Gould "bent over to show me where it was, and I observed him taking the tape from underneath his coat and placing it on the shelf and saying, "Here it is, right here."

The accused colonel, who heads an air-to-air missile program for the Air Force, denied he had lifted the tape. Subsequently, his superiors "totally exonerated" him of all charges.

Other brass hats, accused of light-fingered thefts, received similar soft treatment. Their reactions to our inquiries, in a few cases, are worth recording:

A retired Army general, caught swindling the Fort Myer, Va., PX of a 29-cent roll of splicing tape on July 7, first denied stealing the merchandise, then said he couldn't recollect "for sure" whether he had pocketed it. The Army, of course, gave him the benefit of the doubt.

A discomfited Air Force major was so embarrassed when he purchased a package of prophylactics from a female cashier, he explained to us, that he "completely forgot" to pay for two boxes of cigars.

The wife of a retired rear admiral, asked by my reporter Mark McIntyre about pinching a 95-cent bottle of Visine Eye Drops, threatened: "If you want to blow this up, you're going to get into a lot of trouble."

And when we tried to inquire about an Air Force colonel, who walked out of the Bolling Air Force Base PX without paying for three fishing lures, we were told he wasn't available for comment because he was out fishing."

Pentagon Pipeline

Black Box — Admiral Thomas Moorer, the Joint Chiefs chairman, was touring the links the other afternoon in a golf cart. He hauled along not only his clubs but an ominous black box that goes wherever Moorer goes. The box contains a security phone which enables the chairman to talk with U.S. installations around the world. In the midst of his golf game, Moorer placed an urgent call. But it wasn't to Saigon or some other trouble spot. He called his wife to tell her that he'd be home in 20 minutes.

Pampered Admiral — Vice Admiral G. E. Miller, commander of the vaunted Sixth Fleet, is properly pampered by his executive officer. The solicitous exec, Cmdr. W. T. Crawford, issued a stern order aboard the admiral's flagship, the USS Springfield. "To avoid establishing a pattern of having emergency in-port drills at a set time," directed the order, "and further to avoid inconvenience to the admiral, all emergency drills are to be held at random times after the admiral and chief of staff have departed for the day." A Navy spokesman said the admiral was unaware of the order and cancelled it after we called.

Military Glorification — The Defense Department publishes 366 different magazines and newspapers each year ostensibly to boost troop morale. In reality, however, the principle aim is to glorify the brass. In the first four issues of the new magazine, "The Engineer," for example, more than 40 pages are devoted to interviews or stories about the generals in the Army Corps of Engineers.

"We've Got to Dress Her Up a Bit Before I Take Her on the Road!"

Martin Nolan Says

Sargent the Salesman

WASHINGTON — The most flattering description of R. Sargent Shriver seems to be that he's "a good salesman." So was Prof. Harold Hill in "The Music Man." A good question about Shriver is: What has he been selling?

To the target McGovern voter — an ethnic, blue-collar admirer of George Wallace thinking vaguely about Nixon — Shriver may represent glamor, but his record represents the overblown rhetoric of the 1960s. If the Democratic party product is the same, he won't buy.

From the Merchandise Mart in Chicago, where he had married the boss' daughter, Shriver's first assignment from his brother-in-law, the President-elect, was to organize "a talent search" for the new administration. Shriver then presided over the selling of Dean Rusk, Robert MacNamara, McGeorge Bundy and those wonderful folks who brought you Vietnam.

The Peace Corps was his next assignment, where he acquired his salesman's credentials. Congress is not too high on idealism, but Shriver and millions of young Americans were. Concrete accomplishments of the Peace Corps may be more durable — if not noticeable — than the idealism that sustained them.

Lyndon Johnson gave Shriver his next assignment, the war on poverty. The director of the Office of Economic Opportunity discovered trouble right here in River City. Unlike the Peace Corps, the accomplishments of OEO were measurable. They came vividly in the urban riots of the '60s, flames kindled by grandiose promises and expectations.

Shriver deserves credit for many substantial accomplishments of the antipoverty program, but he cannot escape the blame for the "community action" shill that stirred endless political squabbling, enriched hundreds of consultants and professors, but left the poor still poor.

Shriver then packed his salesman's bag for Paris where he tried, with some success, to sell America to General de Gaulle. In 1968, in his one notable squabble with his in-laws, Shriver cast his loyalty with Lyndon Johnson when Robert Kennedy went against the President on the Vietnam war.

Richard Nixon sought a salesman to be ambassador to the United Nations and considered Shriver, but the deal fell through. But Shriver managed to match Arthur Goldberg's performance in electoral politics when he flirted with the idea of running for governor of Maryland in 1970.

The most charitable estimate that could be made of Shriver's Maryland effort is that he didn't know the territory. He didn't know the issues, either, and Gov. Marvin Mandel scared him off.

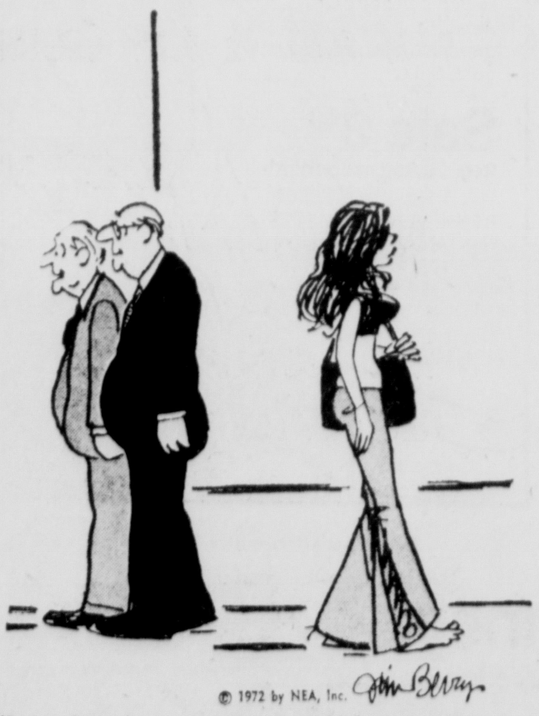

So Shriver finally ended up on George McGovern's taxi squad, sped to prominence by his own availability, plus key injuries and disabilities to others.

Maybe he is only holding the Kennedy family franchise, but his presence on the ticket will at least dispel the notion that McGovern stands for radical change. If Shriver continues a decade-long career of glib eloquence from a messianic mind-set, then voters may perceive that there is not much new in the Democratic line of products this year.

Shriver may bring strength and sincerity, enthusiasm and energy to his tasks. But if he is only selling bright new uniforms, the music will be an encore of the sour cacophony of the '60s.

He may yet be the best argument for the abolition of the vice-presidency, an office spurned by so many and finally given to somebody's brother-in-law.

"Remember when young ladies wouldn't dream of coming into the city unless they wore hats and gloves?"

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A Would-Be President's Thoughts

If I were president . . .

I would appoint Senator Eagleton as Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. He is competent, and more than competent — he's simpatico. Although George C. Wallace is not an attorney, he drew almost 10,000,000 votes out of 73,000,000 in the last election, and I would make him Attorney General and give him a chance to fight for what he thinks is right.

He is more active, more a gut fighter, than Robert F. Kennedy, who served in the same post without ever having appeared as a trial lawyer. I would establish firm price and wage freezes as FDR did in World War II. From grower to consumer, fair earnings would be set. These freezes would not be removed until the pressure of full employment — all but four per cent of the working pool — restored a free economy.

I would institute a flat tax rate with no exemptions, no loopholes. Oil depletion allowances would be 10 per cent; tax exempt bonds would be wiped off the books. To keep the American dream alive, no one, no matter how rich, would pay more than 50 per cent of his income in taxes.

All aid to foreign nations would be stopped, except disaster aid. Start an incisive investigation of all insurance companies, which use billions of dollars in premium payments to lend to business, and now refuse loans unless they are allowed to buy one-third of the action. These companies, by law, should be forced to invest 25 per cent of liquid surplus in government bonds.

Abolish all municipal police departments and county cops. Each state would have its own police department, with a chief and headquarters in the state capitol, deputy chiefs in each county seat, and police inspectors in charge of each municipal group. This would avoid duplication, keep all policemen working, and enable the small units to use a state clearing house for checking on lawbreakers.

Congressional action would give policemen more latitude, and less of a defensive posture, in apprehending criminals. A special squad of state police would have the task of weeding out sadists and thieves who should not be in uniform.

All government papers stamped "Top Secret" would be screened by a committee of responsible editors and officials for review. Retired teachers, instead of illiterate politicians, would be appointed to Boards of Education. The President would be permitted to make a public announcement at his whim, but could not preempt TV time on three networks.

The Chief Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court would appoint a committee of five members of the Court of Appeals to hear all charges of misfeasance and malfeasance against members of The Congress and other public officials. All hearings would be held in camera to spare the innocent.

All factories, public utilities, municipal sewage systems and other polluters would pay a daily fine in excess of what corrective measures would cost. Members of a major political party who campaign for the opposition would be formally read out of the party.

The millions of people on relief would be cut to those who, because of health or other valid reasons, are unemployable. All others would be cut adrift to survive or sink, as they choose. Pass a law preventing labor leaders and industrial tycoons from using union dues and corporate profits as contributions to political parties.

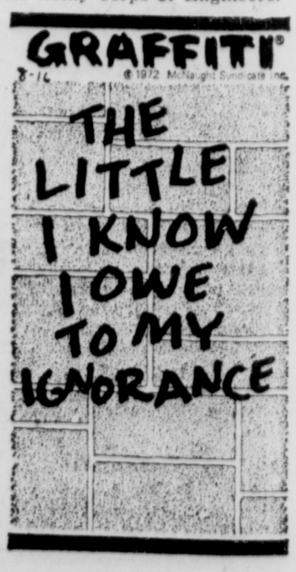

Urge the publishing industry — newspaper, magazines, books — to coalesce and form a private corporation to operate the U.S. Postal service. Stop public utilities and telephone companies from jacking rates solely to declare dividends to shareholders.

Place a tariff on such goods as are imported through the use of cheap labor. This will slow the balance of payments deficit and stop the dollar from flying aimlessly over the world of coolies. All military men on foreign station would be asked to bank at least 25 per cent of what they spend in other lands.

Start a 24-hour court in all cities over 25,000 population so that instant arraignment is possible for those who dread to spend a night in prison for a minor offense. Allow unimpeded wiretapping on anyone who has been convicted of a felony. Forbid it in all other cases.

Heads of families earning less than $6,000 should be exempt from taxes, unless they are property owners.

See how lucky we are? These are some of the things I would fight for IF I were President. Of the Chamber of Commerce, that is . . .

THE GOSSIP COLUMN

ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

By ROBIN ADAMS SLOAN

Q: Can the President stop the press from taking his picture or protect his privacy in any way? — G.E., Rochester, N.Y.

A: On organized trips the White House press goes along as a matter of course and freely reports what the President says and does. The White House doesn't try to control that. But on Presidential "movements," which may be a spur-of-the-moment helicopter jaunt to a friend, family or place of relaxation, the press is restricted to a small pool of reporters and cameramen. When White House aides shoo away photographers, demand their film or otherwise restrict coverage of the President's private actions, the press gives in — or else. The only reason the pool is allowed to be anywhere near the President in private moments is that something might happen that requires recording for posterity (or the President might want to make use of the press for his own purposes.) But if the White House staff or the President says it's off the record, the pool press respects the instruction. For instance, President's visit to Mrs. Nixon's relatives in Las Feliz, Calif. was covered by pool lensmen, but in the end they had to give up their film when the President decided it was all strictly private.

Q: What's new in the drug scene? — H.Y., Youngstown, Ohio.

A: The usual fright stories are going around, and unfortunately many of them are true. Cocaine is now the "hot" hard drug which has unfortunately gained in popularity because so many innocents believe it isn't habit-forming or harmful. This is not true. It can literally burn out the brain or cause death from overuse and overdose. The other bad scenes are the hundreds of kids on Quaaludes, aspirin-sized white "downers." In California these pills are called "quacks" and in New York, "floaters." Like all mood-mellowers, they are dangerous.

Q: What is the answer about the fluctuating trends and fads in the art world? How do these things get started? And what's the latest? — P.R., Boston.

A: Frequently the art auctioneers "make" the trends as they have with the recent rage for Victorian art. In England, both Sotheby's and Christie's have been selling Victoriana at incredible rising rates, employing interesting techniques for arousing public interest by catalogues and carefully publicized auctions. In other words, if the experts start telling the public that Victorian art is the rage, the public usually starts believing it and buying what the auctioneers offer for sale. Right now, Victorian art is "it," so look around in your attic.

Q: What has happened to General de Gaulle's widow? — P.L., New Orleans.

A: — The widow of France's greatest leader now lives as an almost total recluse in the little town of Colombey. She sees only her maids and the village priest for company and recently was given a goat by her children, who hope to divert mama from her incessant games of solitaire. Madame de Gaulle is rather embittered these days because she so detests President Pompidou and his wife, who now occupy the Elysee Palace that she and her husband once enjoyed.

Q: Now that the Simon half of Simon and Garfunkel has produced a record album, do you think Art Garfunkel will do a solo too? — E.L., San Francisco.

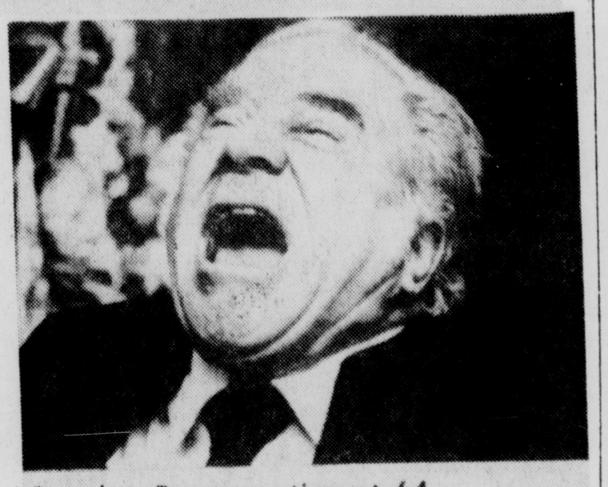

A: Yes, Art is working on one now with the help of Jimmy Webb of "By the Time I Get to Phoenix" and "MacArthur Park" fame. However, first on Webb's list of priorities is to produce an album for his little sister, Susan, who has written all her own songs for her LP. Susan just graduated from high school in June and the record will be her singer-composer brother's graduation present to her.

Q: Where has my old favorite, Lionel Stander, disappeared? He sort of vanished after making "The Gang That Couldn't Shoot Straight." — D.L., Anoramdale, N.Y.

A: Stander has been living in Rome since 1966 because he likes the weather and the low taxes. He's made about 28 Italian movies and occasionally will leave Italy to do a film if the price is right. Currently he's in London doing "Pulp," an English film with Michael Caine and Mickey Rooney. The 64-year-old actor recently took his sixth wife, a 26-year-old Dutch girl who is expecting their first child soon. Incidentally, Stander thinks "The Gang That Couldn't Shoot Straight" is one of the worst pictures he ever saw.

De Gaulle: Got their goat.

Stander: Progenerating at 64.

Three Words

Editor, The Freeman:

Dear Sir:

In 1968—a presidential election year—there was a slogan used that pretty well summed up the result of that race. The next morning many newspapers around the country heralded this slogan as their front-page eye-catcher. The three tiny words were echoed around the world and they in turn produced the expected sensations.

In 1972—a presidential election year—there is a new slogan being used that, hopefully, will pretty well sum up the result of this race. If so, I imagine that our news media will again utilize the slogan. And, as was the case in '68, the world will again echo and produce the expected sensations. This year it's even more important than ever that the result be the same as before, for our whole world depends upon it. We must prove Nixon's STILL the one!

Very truly yours,
JOHN M. D'ANNUNZIO

Human Rights

Editor, The Freeman:

Lucy Stone, born 13 August 1813 at West Brookfield, Mass., had to teach school for nine years to earn enough money to attend college. Her father didn't believe women should go to college. She graduated from Oberlin College in 1847. By then she had decided to spend her life in a plea for suffering humanity everywhere.

Single women could inherit, buy or sell property; they could work, collect and spend their salary. When a woman married, her life, in the eyes of the law, became merged with that of her husband. He could use or sell her property, forbid or require her to work and he collect her salary. Lucy Stone was determined never to marry.

Harry Blackwell read and signed a statement of protest against such laws before his marriage. His wife continued to use her maiden name. Together he and his wife, Lucy Stone, continued the plea for humanity. They went on lecture tours and were the publishers of an abolishionist newspaper the "Woman's Journal."

The New York State Legislature began to change the laws which discriminated against married women in 1848. I was shocked during the 1960s to find that the State of Oklahoma still has and enforces laws which discriminate against married women. The struggle today, as in the past, is not only for civil rights but for the right to be human.

Sincerely yours,
C.F.R. DISSOSWAY

Editor, The Freeman:

I just want to register my disgust with Mr. Bartow and all who indulged in the so-called sport of chasing a poor frightened creature around an enclosure. To my mind these people are sadistic and any parent who allowed their children to participate in this exhibition certainly is showing poor judgment to say the least, and it's no way to teach children to be kind to God's helpless creatures.

Mr. Bartow must be hard up to have to have this display of cruelty to get people to attend a county fair. Never before, when it was held in Kingston were there any goings on such as this.

The Ulster County Fair, in my opinion and many others feel as I do, is a disgrace.

Mr. Bartow and the participants in frightening a poor little creature have my complete contempt. DOROTHY GALITZKY

Scores Authorities

Editor, The Freeman:

Your Aug. 11 article describing charges levelled by the Children of God againt Sheriff William B. Martin may have sent shock waves through your establishment reader ranks, but most young people probably reacted with little more than a sigh of relief that, for once, the strong-arm tactics of the police finally reached Page One. Such events, in one variation or another, are commonplace when young people are confronted by the Martins of the world, who somehow feel that they have a moral prerogative over individuals whose dress or demeaner they consider personally repugnant. I know quite a few cops who are professionals, who treat their jobs as jobs and not as God-given powers, and those I respect. But hopelessly inadequate pay scales and very poor screening methods allow infiltration by undesireables, even to the higher levels of authority such as sheriff or district attorney. Vogt's contention that Martin did not need a warrant to enter COG property was about as outrageously silly as a DA can get, and his refusal to conduct an investigation simply served as further evidence of collusion among the authority figures. The same goes for the FBI, who refused to confirm or deny receipt of a simple complaint. They all know when to clam up when one of their buddies is caught with his pants down.

British Offering Racial Refuge

LONDON (AP) — The British government said it is preparing to offer refuge to 60,000 colored people of Asian extraction being expelled from Uganda. But they may find themselves as unpopular in Britain as they are in their East African homeland.

Labor party leader James Callaghan said he regrets that British passports were ever issued to the Asians in Britain's former African colonies.

Francis Boyd, a columnist for The Guardian, wrote that the welcome for the "lost souls" from Uganda will be "somber at best."

"Where are the houses for these people, the jobs or the school places for their children?" asked a letter writer to The Guardian, B. Dalton.

The Uganda Asians and those in neighboring Kenya and Tanzania retained their British citizenship when their countries became independent. This entitled them to emigrate to Britain at any time. But five years ago Kenya cracked down, to end the Asians' hold on the country's commerce, and the resultant influx into Britain touched off a racial scare among lower class whites fearful of the competition for jobs and cheap housing. The Labor government responded by sharply restricting immigration.

Now President Idi Amin of Uganda has given the holders of foreign passports in his country 90 days to get out. Most of them are of Asian extraction, with an estimated 60,000 holding British passports, and an unknown number of others holding Indian or Pakistani papers. Britain's Conservative government says it will honor the British passports, but so far it has come up with no concrete plans.

Britain is one of the more densely populated countries in the world, with 587 persons to the square mile — about 10 times as many as the United States. Many of its 55 million people are beset by economic ills and shortages of housing, schools and hospitals. There are nearly one million people out of work.

Trouble between white and colored communities in the cities is coming increasingly to the surface. Rioting in Liverpool last week was blamed largely on racial antagonism in a district where housing is in short supply or of poor standard.

Ellenville Fire Quelled

ELLENVILE

All units of the Ellenville Fire Department responded at 10:10 a.m. Tuesday to a fire at the Burnis Metal Company, 18 Pine Street.

Firemen said the fire began in a large fuse panel and did extenive damage to the plant wiring system. Firemen extinguished the blaze with carbon dioxide and dry chemicals.

Firemen were recalled at 11:20 a. m. Napanoch firemen did standby duty after being called by mutual aid. The plant will be closed until the extent of the damage to the wiring can be determined, firemen said.

Marlborough Accepts Bid

TOWN OF MARLBOROUGH

The Marlborough Town Board accepted the low bid on a pick-up truck for the highway department at its recent meeting.

The low bid was received from Louis Smith Chevrolet, Inc. of Highland. Their bid was approximately $4,375, according to Supervisor Michael Canosa.

In other action, the board set a speed limit of 40 m.p.h. for the Old Post Road in Marlboro.

Manufacturer Recalls City Snorkel Truck

The Kingston Fire Department's snorkel truck is back in the shop again, this time due to a manufacturer's recall to correct a defect in the front wheels.

Acting Fire Chief Robert L. Maines told The Freeman Tuesday that the department was notified early in July by letter from American LaFrance, manufacturers of the $72,000 vehicle, that it was being recalled because of "potentially defective front hubs." An American La France representative picked up the truck on July 17 and drove it back to the factory in Elmira for repairs. Chief Maines said the firm gave no indication when the truck would be returned to Kingston. Repairs will be made at no cost to the city.

This is actually the third snorkel truck the city has had delivered from American LaFrance. The first truck was ordered in 1967 and delivered in early 1968, at a bid price of $67,000. That truck didn't fit in the Central Station firehouse and was returned to the manufacturer.

A second truck was delivered late in 1968, that one with automatic transmission at an additional cost of $4,200. The fire department found numerous defects in the hydraulic system of that truck and it was returned. Truck number three was delivered in January of this year. It is (was) housed in the new fire station in Broadway East off Meadow Street.

The snorkel truck, according to Chief Maines, is a highly specialized piece of equipment which under certain circumstances could be used. Its bucket at the end of the snorkel can reach a height of 90 feet, meaning the truck will be used primarily to fight fires at either Kingston or Benedictine Hospitals. According to Chief Maines, the truck has been used only once (truck number two) on a fire call

Alton Quick

Alton Quick of Mohonk Road, High Falls, died suddenly Tuesday afternoon at Benedictine Hospital following fatal injuries he received after being hit by a motorcycle. Born in Accord, a son of the late Elijah and Mary Miller Quick, he was a retired superintendent at Lake Mohonk. Surviving are his widow, the former Ida Sheeley and the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Lulu DuBois of Chittenango, N. Y., Vernon E. Quick of High Falls, Mrs. Sadie Marshall of Rosendale, Mrs. Jessie VanDermark of High Falls, Muriel Quick of Cottekill, Frederick V. Quick of Cottekill and Mrs. Dora Dunne of Kingston. Funeral services under the the direction of the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Main Street, Rosendale, will be private at the convenience of the family. There will be no calling hours.

Area Man Dies in Mishap

TOWN OF MARBLETOWN

A 69-year-old High Falls man became Ulster County's 30th traffic fatality of 1972 on Tuesday, when he was hit by a motorcycle as he was walking his dog along the side of Mohonk Road in the township.

Ellenville State Police identified the victim as Alton Quick.

BCI Investigator Robert F. Greaves said the motorcycle was operated by Ignatz Orlich, Jr., of Lucust Drive, Clintondale. The 1970 vehicle was traveling from High Falls to New Paltz at about 11:10 a.m. when the wheels reportedly hit a bump or hole in the road at the intersection of Clove Road. The operator lost control as the motorcycle slid off pavement and reportedly hit quick knocking him to the ground.

Orlich was thrown from his vehicle.

Both men were taken to Benedictine Hospital in Kingston. Quick was pronounced dead on arrival. Orlich was treated for bruises and contusions and later released.

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, who investigated with Investigator Greaves and Troopers Robert K. Baker and Richard G. Bergin, reportedly gave a verdict of accidental death and noted that Quick died of a crushed chest.

Greaves said no charges were made against the motorcyclist.

Businessmen Have Plan Reservations

TOWN OF ULSTER

The Ulster Businessmen's Association has some reservations about the proposed development plan for the Town of Ulster.

UBA members at Tuesday night's meeting expressed feelings that generally coincided with views expressed at the public hearing held by the town Monday night. They feel that the major problem in the town is the business growth along Route 9W and that the proposed development plan does nothing to alleviate the problems already existing there.

The development plan would have no official status in itself but is a prerequisite for adoption of a zoning ordinance by the Town of Ulster, which has no zoning regulation at present.

A committee headed by Louis DiDonna is still trying to get a meeting with Department of Transportation officials in Albany to discuss the possibility of widening Route 9W into a four-lane undivided highway from the Kingston city limits to the approaches to Route 199. Efforts to arrange a meeting have been stalled for the past two months because DOT officials are tied up with flood relief work in the southern and western parts of the state.

Members were told that UBA membership plaques for display in business establishments were ready and would be distributed by John Warren in the near future.

Investigate Fire Cause

TOWN OF ESOPUS

Fire officials are now endeavoring to determine the cause of what they termed a serious fire that burned through the upper floors of a three-story house in the Ulster Park section of this township Monday night leaving eight families homeless.

Fire Chief James Tubby and men of the Esopus Fire Department responded to an alarm at 6:15 p.m. after fire was discovered in the upper floor rooms of the house located at Ulster Avenue and Union Center Road. Fifty men from the local units were at the scene more than four hours.

St. Remy Fire Company was dispatched to the scene through mutual aid to assist the local firefighters. Port Ewen Fire Company were on standby alert at the Esopus firehouse.

According to available information the fire damage was confined to the rooms on the upper two floors, but heavy smoke and water damage was reported throughout the structure.

The fire apparently erupted in one of the apartments on the top floor of the house and burned through partitions to other areas of the building before the flames were brought under control.

As far as could be determined all occupants of the house managed to evacuate their homes without incident. The names of the people who lived there were not available today, but it was reported they found shelter elsewhere for the night.

Fire units reported back in service shortly before 10:30 p.m., according to available reports.

Arson Case To Grand Jury

KINGSTON

A 19-year-old volunteer fireman accused of two counts of arson in connection with suspicious fires that occurred in the city several weeks ago, today waived preliminary examination in City Court and Judge Hubert A. Richter referred the case to the grand jury.

Norman T. Buzzanco of Kingston was continued in bail of $500.

Two other volunteer firemen, John Francis Williams, 22, of 50 Rock Street, and Daniel C. Markett, 21, of 499 Delaware Avenue, both of this city, are awaiting grand jury action. Markett, charged with two counts of arson had a preliminary hearing in court last Friday and his case went to the grand jury. Markett is free on $500 bail.

Williams, who also was accused of being a deserter from the U. S. Army, waived his rights to a pre-trial examination. He was remanded to the county jail on Aug. 11. Williams is accused of three counts of arson fourth degree.

The cases against two other volunteer firefighters are pending. They are Paul Saulpaugh, 21, of Kingston, and Michael Milano, 21, of Hurley. Both are accused of arson as the result of a police investigation.

Woodstock Town Board Sends Resolution to Rocky

TOWN OF WOODSTOCK

A resolution to be sent to Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller asking him to reconsider his position on opening Overlook Mountain to the public was passed at Tuesday night's Woodstock Town Board meeting.

Earlier this year the governor vetoed a bill sponsored by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell which would have provided a non-vehicular pedestrian easement to allow access to state lands on Overlook Mountain for all citizens without fear of trespassing on privately owned property.

The bill, which had passed both houses of the Legislature and was supported by the Dr. Henry Diamond, Commissioner of Environmental Conservation, was the result of a chain of events set in motion when C. Powers Taylor of Hawthorne, Fred Mortenson of Yonkers and other members of the Be-No Lodge purchased considerable acreage on Overlook, formed a small hunting club and barricaded the access road up the mountain with a barbed wire fence and a padlocked gate in September, 1969.

Since the mountain had been a favorite picnic and hiking area for over half a century, there were numerous objections from science teachers, scouting groups and many others.

The owners remained adamant, however, in the face of public outrage and in spite of pressure by the Department of Environmental Conservation which maintains a fire tower atop Overlook. They said repeated vandalism of their cabin-lodges by trespassers was responsible for the decision to close the road off to the public and that only forest rangers would be provided with a key to the gate.

In other action by the town board, a resolution was passed to advertise for bids for a new patrol car to replace another vehicle, and Sept. 5 was set as the date for a public hearing on rules and regulations for the town landfill site.

A request from the two town justices to attend the state Magistrate Association meeting at the Granit Hotel in Kerhonkson in September was granted.

The Board also accepted the resignation of Wayne Underhill Jr. as a member of the zoning board of appeals and appointed Dwight E. Harris to fill the vacancy.

High Falls Flea Market Is Planned

HIGH FALLS

Residents of the High Falls area can spend a fun-filled day Saturday, with two events scheduled. A flea market, sponsored by the High Falls Civic Association will be held at the High Falls Fire House from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and a chicken barbeque, sponsored by the High Falls Community Church, will begin at 4 p.m. on the church grounds directly opposite the fire hall.

The flea market will feature local artists and craftsmen and well-known antique dealers from the area. Light refreshemtns will be served.

The church-sponsored barbeque is an annual event featuring a menu prepared by Community Church members. Tickets may be obtained from any church member or at the door.

Send Two Representatives

Two members of the Kingston Jaycees will represent the local unit the New York State Jaycee Convention in Binghamton Aug. 18 and 19.

David Favor and Robert Hoffman will be attending the sessions at State University of New York at Binghamton and will give reports on Operation Flood Relief and Operation Venus. The Kingston Jaycees have been recognized for the two projects as being leaders in the district.

Operation Flood Relief raised more than $1,800 for the Red Cross and the Lend a Hand Fund in Elmira to aid victims of Hurricane Agnes.

During Operation Venus, educational seminars were given on veneral disease to high school classes, church groups and local groups as well as on local radio and television programs.

Graham Film

His Land, a feature motion picture produced by the Billy Graham Association will be shown Friday, Aug. 18, at the Faith Tabernacle, 73 Broadway, Tivoli, starting 7:30 p.m.

Two Testify In Trial Of Youths

KINGSTON — BCI Investigator Richard J. O'Hara and Teresa Murphy of Wawarsing testified for the prosecution Tuesday in the burglary trial of two Napanoch youths in Ulster County Court.

Gary Everett Joray, 18, of 7 McBride Street, Napanoch, and David Michael Whitworth, 24, of Yama Hills Road, Napanoch, were indicted by the Ulster County Grand Jury on charges arising out of the alleged entry into the building of a Michael Luczlew of Rt. 55 in February.

Assistant District Attorney John T. Dall Vechis is representing The People and Frank Spada is counsel for the defendants.

Judge Raymond J. Mino is presiding.

$20,000 Violin Stolen From Resort

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP) — A 283-year-old violin valued by its reported stolen from a resort in the southern Catskills Tuesday.

State Police said the instrument, a rare Rugieri concert violin, was taken from a cottage at the Mohonk Mountain House a resort at Lake Mohonk near here, according to its owner, Robert Rudi of New York City.

Rudi, who is appearing at the resort, said the theives also took four bows that were with the violin and its case. He said the value of the bows was in excess of several thousand dollars.

He termed the loss "heartbreaking" and said that although the instrument was insured it was irreplacable and a work of art.

"It's like losing a child," Rudi said. "I'd much rather have the violin back than the money."

The instrument, described as a Grand Patern model, was made in 1689 by Francesco Rugieri, a contemporary of famed violin maker Antonio Stradivarius, at Cremona, Italy.

Cane Completes Study In Management Institute

KINGSTON — Len Cane, Executive Vice President of the Chamber of Commerce of Ulster County, has just completed his fourth year of study in the Institute of Organizational Management. Cane attended the personal development program at the University of Delaware. His first three years of classes were conducted at Syracuse University. Other Institute sessions are hosted by Texas Christian, Michigan State, Univ. of Georgia, Univ. of Colorado and Santa Clara.

Cane, the president-elect of the New York State Chamber of Commerce Executives, joined in the multi-year sequential program with 300 participants representing 25 states and several foreign countries.

The program at Delaware included 27 hours in regular and elective curriculum plus "bonus" voluntary sessions in the evening. Univeristy professors from all over the country are selected to lecture and lead discussions in their respective fields of interest.

The formal program, plus freewheeling discussions with Chamber and Association colleagues from all over the opportunity for the Chamber executive to bring to his home community a host of ideas and methods of continued improvement.

Wealthy Rancher's Son ... 'Remembers Nothing'

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI) —The son of a wealthy rancher says he cannot remember a thing about the week he was missing and feared a kidnap victim.

John R. Kazanjian, 33, walked into the police station Tuesday and told investigators he "remembers nothing." Authorities throughout the state, including the FBI, had been alerted when he disappeared from a field where he was irrigating crops Aug. 8.

The day after he disappeared his wife received a note which said: "We have your husband. We will contact you as to what we want later."

Police said there was no other communication after the note.

Kazanjian said he thought he picked fruit in the Porterville, Calif., area last Wednesday.

The only clues in the disappearance were a 100-yard trail of footprints ending in dense foliage near a pickup truck Kazanjian had been driving.

His father, John "Casey" Kazanjian, was a star football player at Stanford University during his collegiate days.

The Tulare County Sheriff's office said it was 'possible" Kazanjian was not a kidnap victim. A spokesman added the results of the investigation would be turned over to the dstrict attorney's office.

Contract Ratified

RHINEBECK — The Rhinebeck Teachers Association ratified its contract with the Board of Education at a special meeting Monday night.

Beginning September, the basic starting salary for a teacher with a bachelor's degree will be $8,085, an increase from $7,700. The board had ratified the contract a week ago.

The two parties agreed two weeks ago to negotiate without the aid of their attorneys after no progress was made following the submission of a report by a Public Employment Relations Board fact finder and a legislative public hearing on the report a week later.

In other action Monday, the board appointed four teachers for the upcoming school year. Appointed were: Susan Stielmann, Junior High School English; Ruth Quick, home economics; Susan Nightingale, full-time elementary substitute and Joan Molonot, speech therapy.

Rhinebeck Teachers Association President Richard Clare stated that the contract is for two years and that the teachers feel it is a fair contract. He added that the two factions started talks about a week ago without their professional negotiating attorneys because they felt they had progressed as far as they could by that method. More details on the contract settlement, which is the first to be ratified in Dutchess County this year, will be jointly released shortly."

Field Day Set

The Town of Esopus Lions Field Day is set for Saturday, Aug. 19, starting at 12 noon at Ross Memorial Park, Port Ewen. All Town of Esopus children may attend the annual event. There will be awards for games and refreshments for all.

Clean Up Scheduled

PHOENICIA — The Shandaken Conservation Council will hold a clean-up at 2 p.m. Saturday to prepare the new recycling depot behind McGrath's Market for duty as a reception center for glass, aluminum beverage cans, and papers collected in the town's recycling drives.

Mrs. Charlotte Jacobsen, chairman of the Council, asks volunteers with brooms and brushes to help get the building into good shape.

New York State Budget Department Supports Training School Drive

ALBANY — Assemblyman Benjamin A. Gilman (R-C, 95th District) announced that the New York State Department of the Budget has officially gone on record behind his drive to utilize the closed New Hampton Training School in the Town of Goshen.

Quoting Department of Budget Executive Assistant Charles Palmer, Assemblyman Gilman said, "The Budget Department is not only fully aware of Mental Hygiene's and my request for the use of the facility for the transfer of the Mid-Hudson Psychiatric Clinic but is fully behind the move and encouraging it. However, the Budget Department is not in a position to grant final approval until such time as Office of General Services formally transfers the property to Mental Hygiene. When that step is completed we have been assured budget approval will be forthcoming immediately."

Gilman said OGS has recognized the Mental Hygiene request for the property and is completing its necessary paper work before fullfilling the request which one spokesman said, seems simply a matter of processing with no apparent reasons for delay or non-approval."

The forecast date for reopening New Hampton as the expanded Mid-Hudson Psychiatric Clinic is at present November 1. It is anticipated it will mean the opening of more than 100 new jobs for staff and patient care personnel, job openings Assemblyman Gilman noted, "which are vitally needed to compensate for state employee layoffs in the Youth Division, Narcotics, Corrections and Mental Hygiene during the past year since New Hampton closed."

Assemblyman Gilman concluded, "Job applications for the New Hampton institution should be filed with the Director of Personnel, Dr. Tichben, at Matteawan.

SIGN OF THE GOOD NEIGHBOR.
The American Red Cross

Nixon Welcomes Gilman

During a recent conference of Republican candidates for Congress in Washington, D.C. President Richard M. Nixon personally welcomed Ulster County's Republican candidate from the new 26th District. Gilman, who represented Orange County in the Assembly for the past six years, is seeking to represent all of Orange, Rockland and southern Ulster in Congress.

Spada Named Head

MIDDLETOWN — Ulster County Republican Chairman Albert Spada has been named an honorary chairman of the $50 a plate Gilman for Congress '72 Kick-Off Dinner, Sept. 24 at Meadowbrook Lodge in Vails Gate. The dinner is being held for Assemblyman Benjamin A. Gilman who is the Republican candidate for Congress in Ulster County's new 26th Congressional District which takes in all of Orange County, Rockland and southern Ulster.

Named with Spada are Dr. Carmine Freda, Rockland GOP chairman and William E. Doulin, Orange Republican chairman.

Heading the dinner committee are: Richard H. Stover, president of the Empire National Group, Inc.; Peter Dudan, chairman of the board and chief executive of Marine Midland Bank of Southeast New York, N.A., and Joseph Alfano, president of the First National Bank of Highland.

Journal chairman for the event is Ralph A. Russo of Middletown.

The formal affair will begin with cocktails at 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 7.

An announcement of the principal speaker for the evening is expected from National Republican Headquarters within the next few days.

Ticket information is available through local Citizens for Gilman chairmen or by contacting Citizens for Gilman at: Box 443, Middletown, New York 10940.

'Little' Fair Is Scheduled

GRAHAMSVILLE — The 93rd annual Little World's Fair will be held at the Grahamsville Fair Grounds Friday and Saturday, rain or shine.

The fair will feature many agricultural exhibits and the usual midway rides and attractions. Friday there will be a horse show in the morning and several tractor driving and pulling contests in the afternoon. The evening entertainment will feature a live rock band and a demonstration of western type square dancing by the Tri-Valley Squares with audience participation after the demonstration.

On Saturday cattle judging, a dog show and a gymkhana are scheduled for the morning. Highlights for the afternoon include a horse pulling contest at 1 p.m.; a fire fighting demonstration at 3 p.m. and Chief Bright Canoe and Mohawk Indians show at 4:15 p.m. The Calicoon Center Hometown Band will perform at 8 p.m.

Paltz Class Is Planned

NEW PALTZ — A third caning class will be sponsored by the Huguenot Historical Society of New Paltz Aug. 18 through Sept. 15.

The course has been given since May 19 for a nominal fee and has proved very popular. Mrs. Anna Coons, an expert in the craft, will continue as instructor.

Anyone interested in signing up for the course may call Deyo Assembly Hall for further information.

Dutchess County Fair...A Balanced Program

RHINEBECK

Many people base their visit to the Dutchess County Fair on what events are scheduled for that day and evening, and the fair in its 127th year this Aug. 22-27 has taken pains to insure a balanced program.

The annual six-day event begins on a Tuesday, "Family Day," with children under 16 admitted free until 6 p.m. Some of the highlights are harness racing at 12:30 and 5 p.m.; a program titled 'Pennies in the Haystack" for children from 1:30 to 5 p.m.; free stage shows at 3 and 8 p.m.; dog obedience demonstration; Polish Dance Night and a fireworks display.

Daily highlights beginning Tuesday are hourly "dancing waters" shows; a "new convenient model home" display; and Paul Lacross, billed as the "world's fastest, fanciest gunslinger, knife and tomahawk thrower," who will give four performances daily.

Also beginning Tuesday and continuing through Saturday are three performances daily by the Herrick Marionettes, ventriloquist Vicki Taylor and Ronnie, and the Estelle and Alfonso Mickey and Minnie Mouse Review. Another Tuesday through Saturday feature will be the Hall of Health.

Being held Tuesday through Friday will be the 'Search for Talent" with the finals set for Saturday. Also beginning Tuesday will be spinning and weaving demonstrations.

Wednesday has been designated "Welcome Neighbor Day" in accordance with fair tradition. Some of the more popular events are expected to be the pony show; an afternoon performance by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic; stage shows at 2 and 8 p.m.; an evening band concert; dance night and the second evening of fireworks displays.

One of the biggest crowd pleasers over the years has been the Joie Chitwood Thrill Show, daredevil auto maneuvers, which will begin a two-day stand on Thursday, "Thrill Show Day." Also on the card of special entertainment and exhibitions will be the English horse show; performances by the Hudson Valley Philharmonic; dog obedience demonstrations; stage shows; a band concert and another Dance Night.

Friday has been proclaimed "Jazz Festival Day" with performances by a high school Dixieland combo and "Giants of Jazz" scheduled for the evening. Also featured for Friday will be an English horse show; a senior citizen program; Hudson Valley Philharmonic concerts; a 4-H fashion show; and a lamb carcass auction.

'Dutchess County Day" Saturday is expected to be one of the peak crowd days. A Western horse show; pony races; the last show by the Philharmonic; a 'battle of the bands" by country and western groups; a square dancing exhibition and a wool fashion show are some highlights.

Dutchess County Fair executive S. Richard Lloyd has promised a live stage show by folk singer Don McLean as the evening sendoff Sunday on "Fireman's Day."

It is fireman's day because one of the largest fireman's parades will be held in a 3:30 grandstand revue.

Other outstanding events promise to be the "Stars of Tomorrow" winners of the week-long search for talent contest; the New Frontier singing group; the Willie Hutson Gospel Train singers and a final 1972 Dance Night.

Postal Unit For Visitors

RHINEBECK

A mobile post office and postal exhibit will be open to visitors at county fairs around the East this summer, including the Dutchess County Fair from Aug. 22-27.

The conveniently located unit will provide necessary local postal services to the fairs' staff and exhibitors, while offering visitors a closeup of post office operations and an opportunity to view and purchase a selection of special stamp issues, postal art, and related items.

The mobile office will be in Somerville and Flemington, N.J. and Danbury, Conn. in addition to Rhinebeck.

The unit is actually designed as an emergency post office, maintained on a constant standby basis and ready to service any community where regular postal service may be affected by natural disasters, damage to the regular post office, construction delays, or other causes.

For example, when highway construction recently cut off access to the post office in Thiells, N.Y. a mobile post office was promptly dispatched to maintain full service for residents and businessmen.

Some of the philatelic items available at the post office will be stamp posters and the "Stamp and Stories" book, detailing the history of the Postal Service.

Pilot Project Gets Funding

POUGHKEEPSIE

A pilot project for two and three year old mentally retarded children in Dutchess and nearby Ulster Counties has received funding from the federal government for the 1972-73 school year, according to Walter R. Neidhardt, president of Rehabilitation Programs, Inc.

Jerome Reznick, executive director, stated that during the first year of the grant five to seven severely to moderately retarded and/or multiple handicapped children will be served on a half day basis.

The grant will provide for two part time teachers, medical, physical, occupational, speech therapy and social work assistance.

Reznick pointed out that the organization's education and clinic committee and staff have been planning for this project for several years. The Day Training Center is being assisted at a much more rapid pace as a result of lowering entrance ages from four to three years of age.

Reznick added that it is important to begin to identify the mentally and multiple handicapped infant at an early age, bring to bear as much assistance to the family as possible, and then to begin working with the infant with an interdisciplinary team approach.

Staff has already been selected to begin work with this program in the Fall, and five families have already been approved to have their two and three year old children begin the program.

Many Aiding Cancer Program

STAATSBURG

A "Ground swell of community involvement" has begun in Dutchess County's Swim-A-Thon fund raising program for the American Cancer Society, according to Herman Weil, chairman.

The program has been dubbed "Lengths for Life" and employs pledges by private persons and companies for each swimming pool length swum by volunteer swimmers.

A list of participating pools or recreation centers involved includes: Red Hook Recreation Park; Hyde Park Swim and Tennis Club; Clinton Recreation Park; Millbrook Golf and Tennis Club; the Town of Washington pool in Millbrook; Spratt Park and Pulaski Park in Poughkeepsie; Baird State Park; the YMCA, Jewish Community Center, and Poughkeepsie Tennis Club, all in Poughkeepsie.

Private pools may also be used, said Weil, and information may be obtained by calling the Dutchess County Unit's headquarters at 6 Raymond Avenue, Poughkeepsie, at 452-2635. The program will be completed by Aug. 17 All proceeds will be donated to the unit.

Woodstock Area News

Area Bavarian Festival... Puppet Show, Band Slated

WOODSTOCK — Among featured events at the Woodstock Bavarian Festival to be held Saturday and Sunday will be a puppet show for children and a seven piece band for dancing and singing.

The puppet show, "The Ballad of Becky DeMilt," is based on a story of a witch who once lived in Mink Hollow. Presenting the show will be members of the Puppet Tree company, Susan Bean, Michael Bartuccio, Allan Edmands, Joanna Kaufman and Steve Kaufman.

At a recent joint meeting of the Onteora Lions Club and the Woodstock Rotary Club, the organizers of the festival, final plans were discussed.

Members of the organizations have urged the public to "don their ledehosen and join the festivities." Imported German clay mugs will be on sale at the festival for individual use.

German food and beverages will also be available, as well as other refreshments for children.

The festival, to be held at Andy Lee Field in Woodstock, will be open from noon to 7 p.m. both days. The puppet show will be presented at 2 p.m. each day.

Tickets for the event are available from members of both sponsoring organizations and Ridge Liquors and Masons General Store in West Hurley, the Corner Cupboard, Woodstocker, Rondout National Bank and the National Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties in Woodstock. Children accompanied by an adult with an advance ticket will be admitted free to the festival. Tickets will also be available at the gate.

Folk Singer Tops Bill

WOODSTOCK — Folk Singer Tom Paxton will headline the attractions at the Woodstock Democratic Picnic, Sunday Aug. 27, from 2 to 7 p.m., at the Woodstock Estates, 145 Tinker Street, Woodstock.

Also featured will be a steak dinner with a special children's plate available.

Additional entertainment will be provided by Robin Weatterau's and, a local Dixieland group, and by Sue Bean and her puppets. Also on hand will be actress Piper Laurie, and Newsweek columnist, Joe Morgenstern.

Events will include a fund-raising event with an original lithograph by Albert Handell, and an auction. Games and grab bags for the kids will be available. Ron Sanders, folk dancer, will lead the gathering in dancing.

Maurice Hinchey, Democratic candidate for State Assembly will be on hand to greet the crowd.

Advance tickets are available at the Wapner Real Estate building, Woodstock, on Mill Hill Road, second floor., from 1 to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Drug Forum Is Planned

WOODSTOCK — Two psychologists, Jay Wenk and Arthur Joseph, known to the Woodstock community for their work in organizing The Place to help cope with drug-related emergencies and crisis intervention, will be presented at the last Friday Forum of the season at the Art Students League on Aug. 18.

The discussion will be devoted to the general areas of psychology and psychotherapy under the theme title, "Thinking Out Loud."

Joseph, a psychotherapist, has helped found several rehabilitation centers in New York.

Wenk has worked as a counseling psychologist at Greehaven maximum security prison for the Narcotics Addiction Control Commission of New York, and for two years on a special program in Bedford Stuyvesant for the board of education.

4-H DRESS REVUE — Members of the West Hurley Knives and Needles Unit of the 4-H participated in a dress revue on Friday night, Aug. 11 at the Ulster County Fair. In the group were (L-R) Judi Powers, who modeled a red poncho; Carol Myer, in a skirt with bib in blue; Linda Rice in a purple skirt and vest; Leigh Ash, wearing a blue bib and maxi dress; and Barbara Myer in a blue pantskirt and bolero. Miss Ash is a member of the Hurley Hermits. Miss Rice was selected to participate in the New York State Fair in Syracuse. Adviser for the West Hurley unit of the 4-H is Mrs. Ernest Myer. LPA Players Weekend Fare

Electra and Colors, two original plays by Walter Talley and Neal Thompson, comprise the seventh production of the 1972 Season of Summer Theater presented by the LPA Players, Route 42, Lexington. The two plays will run Friday and Saturday begining at 8:30 p.m.

Electra is a multi-media production, freely adapted from Euripedes, Sophecles, and Seschylus by Walter Talley. The tragic story of the fall of the House of Atreus is given here a new and unconventional treatment in Mr. Talley's use of film, ballet, and mime. Joanne Pliskin portrays Electra, while Meryl Schaffer and Michael Fels fill the roles of Orestes and Clytemnestra.

Mr. Talley is on the faculty of the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. In addition to directing, Mr. Talley has also composed the original music, as well as creating the choreography. The films are by Mark Greenwald. Wade Giamp created the "theatrical environment", while Jean Elliot and Ellen Henebry designed the costumes. Jonathan Lawson did the lighting.

Taking minimal props from a clothesline, using a colorful ladder and a few bright stools, the cast, in 'raggamuffin" jeans and patched shirts give a new look at an old story. From the Bible to Mother Goose, members answer such questions as what Jonah did in the whale to why Little Red Riding Hood subscribes to "Karate."

Neal Thompson is the director of Children's Theater International in New York Cty. For further information, contact Tom Dardis, publicity director, Lexington for the Performing Arts.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT G. OLIVE of 23 Plattekill Drive, Mt. Marion, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at a party given August 5 at Skyline Restaurant in Catskill. Mr. and Mrs. Olive are former residents of Elmira. Married Aug. 2, 1947 in Methodist Church in Welsburg, N. Y., Mrs. Olive is the former Lorraine H. Updegraff. Mr. and Mrs. Olive have three children: Mrs. Pamela J. Maxfield, Thomas G. Olive who is serving in the U. S. Navy stationed at Norfolk, Va., and Jeffrey R. Olive. The party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Maxfield. Relatives and friends attended from various parts of the state. (Fitzgerald Studio)

Christian Women's Club Luncheon

Members of the Kington-Ulster County Christian Women's Club are planning a "Country Fair Day" for Monday, August 21 at the Governor Clinton Hotel. Festivities will get underway at 12 o'clock. All women in the area are invited to attend and those who wish to join the fun may wear old fashioned country dresses.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Mrs. Ralph Howell of Mill Neck, N. Y., wife of one of America's leading architects. Mr. Howell designed the State University buildings at Albany, N. Y. and the United States building at the 1965 Worlds's Fair.

Soloist for the lucheon will be Mrs. Dorothy A. Narel, women's page editor of the Daily and Sunday Freeman.

DOROTHY A. NAREL

Mrs. Narel, who has reported women's news for the past 17 years at The Freeman, is organist and choirmaster for St. John's Parish in West Hurley. Music has always been her avocation although she confines practically all her musical efforts these days to the church. Mrs. Narel studied with Mrs. Blanche Lorraine Saylor in New York and with well known composer and director Carl Mueller in Montclair, N. J.

Another feature of the afternoon will be a display of many handcraft articles by local women.

A Nursery is provided for pre-school children. Reservations for the luncheon and the nursery should be completed this evening with Mrs. Ray Newton of Saugerties or Mrs. Donald Sweeney of Codwise Street, Kingston.

Meat Prices at Same Levels This Week

Consumers will find meat prices at substantially the same levels as they were last week, according to the New York State Market and Consumer Information Service. Looking on the brighter side, however, a fair number of "specials" will be available in many stores. These sale items are real budget savers and are worthwhile shopping around for.

Beef features will run mostly to chuck cuts such as chuck steaks from 55 cents to 59 cents, blade cut chuck at 59 cents, arm cut at 79 cents, semi-boneless around 89 cents, and boneless roast at 98 cents. Specials on short ribs will run around 69 cents, hamburger 59 cents to 69 cents, ground chuck 79 cents to 99 cents, frankfurters 49 cents to 79 cents, liver from 59 cents to 69 cents, and shoulder roast from 79 cents to 89 cents.

Pork sales will feature such items as ham from 53 cents to 69 cents, loin cuts from 69 cents to 79 cents, smoked center and center cut rib chops at 89 cents, bacon from 69 cents to 89 cents, smoked picnic at 49 cents, and sausage at 89 cents.

Lamb is not likely to be featured to any extent. However, in one area there will be some imported lamb as follows: leg of lamb 89 cents, shoulder roast 49 cents, and chops from 59 cents to 89 cents.

Veal, which remains scarce and expensive, is not likely to be featured.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST

Dear Mrs. Post:

What should you do when there are a few little children who like your house? By that I mean they like it so much they never leave. What if they start opening your front door and walk in? And then if the door is locked, they cry. If you try to send them home, they won't go. The parents think that you are going to keep an eye on them. Sometimes they are out before my children are even up. We would appreciate any advice you can give us.

Kaye

Dear Kay:

There comes a time when one must stand up and fight. Tell the children there are certain hours when they may come to your house, and a certain time they must leave. Since they will not believe you at first, lock your doors at other times, and let them cry. Don't give in.

Finally, talk to their parents. Tell them you have enough to do with your own children, and while you love to have theirs come to play, you will not be responsible for them all day long. Tell them the hours you have set with the children, and make it clear that you intend to stick to those hours.

Dear Mrs. Post:

My husband and I have been asked to be godmother and godfather to the fourth child of close friends. When Christmas rolls around we are wondering if we will have to give the other three children a gift as well as on to our godchild. We would like your opinion.

Constance

Dear Constance:

No, only the one gift is expected. Sometimes when the children are too young to understand, godparents do try to find a very small gift for each of the others, or they chose a gift which can be enjoyed by all the family. However, as the others grow old enough to understand the relationship, you need only remember your own godchild, and the godparents of the others should remember them.

• • •

Dear Mrs. Post:

As a young married couple, we have friends who come and stay overnight occasionally. We don't have a guest room but we have two separate, long couches. My question is, where do we put our guests?

I have always felt that the man of the house shouldn't be put out of his bed, but, on the other hand, they're the guests.

We are terribly informal, but how far should it go?

Cynthia

Dear Cynthia:

You and your husband should not move out of your bedroom for guests. It would cause too much confusion, since your clothing and all your personal belongings are in that room. The guests would only feel that they were imposing and making a lot of trouble if you did so. Couches, if they are long enough, convertible sofas, or daybeds all make adequate sleeping facilities for informal visitors.

For suggestions about to whom, when, how, and what to give, you will find my booklet "Gifts and Giving" most helpful. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper.

OFF TO THE STATE FAIR — Ulster County's Dairy Princess Catherine Sauer has her suitcase packed and is all ready to leave for the New York State Fair in Syracuse where she will compete for the title, New York State Dairy Princess. Accompanying Miss Sauer on the trip will be her mother, Mrs. Joseph Sauer of Mt. Marion. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Dairy Princess Going to Upstate Finals

Miss Catherine Sauer, Ulster County's Dairy Princess, will compete for the New York State title August 27-29 in Syracuse. Coronation ceremonies are scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 29 at 2:30 p.m., the opening day of the state fair, at Variety Showcase Theatre.

Miss Sauer, 17, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sauer of Mt. Marion, was crowned Ulster County's first Dairy Princess in ceremonies held June 27 at Governor Clinton Hotel, Kingston.

The first pageant of its kind given under the sponsorship of the American Dairy Association, the competition attracted applications from young girls whose fathers were either operating dairy farms or employed by one.

Miss Sauer was graduated with honors from Saugerties High School in June and was active in the French Club, intramurals, school orchestra where she played violin, and is the recipient of many awards including sewing achievements medals, agricultural medals and was named Jersey Girl of Ulster County in 1968.

Mrs. Juanita Mann served as chairman of the first pageant. The fullest support was given by Kingston area businessmen to the project which promoted the dairy industry, an important part of Ulster County life.

On the state level, Ulster County Dairy Princess will have a chance to win a cash scholarship up to $1000.

Food Marketing Tasks: Work Explained

Creative, satisfying, and nutritious meals don't just happen. A group of homemakers made this clear as they answered questions about their homemaking work. Food marketing was one task that required a great deal of attention, judgment, and planning, says Louise K. Breitung, Extension Home Economist.

Thinking required for food marketing tasks — In a recent study made at Cornell University, the wives of 208 young familes from Ithaca, New York were interviewed to learn more about the thinking required for homemaking tasks. Each wife named and described six homemaking tasks, three that were high and three that were low in attention, judgment, and planning.

Why tasks require attention, judgment and planning — Attention and judgment requirements for the food marketing tasks most often concerned money and price and quality and quantity considerations. The planning requirements came most often from procedural matters and timing.

Money and price. Most often, the attention and judgment requirements for food buying concerned value, best buy, economy, and price. The wives' answers included: check newspaper ads weekly before shopping for meats in order to get best buy; watch for food quality; comparison shopping takes time as well as thought; have to decide whether saving on a large container is more economical; have to decide if vegetables are fresh and reasonable in price for season; takes judgment trying to get the most value for the money.

Look Here Mrs. Homemaker

● Quality and quantity. Homemakers often mentioned paying attention to some aspect of the food quality and that judgment was needed in reaching a decision about whether or not to buy. Judgment and attention were both needed to decide how much to buy, to control the quantity purchased. Planning the quantity was also a factor, accompanied by checking items and amounts on hand, and deciding what to have and for what time span.

● Procedural matters. In planning the food marketing task, these homemakers emphasized the need for preparatory work and checking ahead before going to the store. They often made a list based partly on reading the newspaper ads and knowing the specials and where to find the best buys. Others made out their list according to the layout of the store to facilitate shopping and speed it up. Some planned the shopping because they wanted variation in meals, as well as ones that pleased their husband. Others wanted to period of time for which they make only one shopping trip for one or two weeks. They went through their cupboards to see what they needed and included on their list supplies other than foods.

● Timing. In planning the grocery shopping, these wives often mentioned a particular were buying groceries or wanted fresh food to keep. Timing was affected also by a desire to go when the baby was not tired, allowing sufficient time for the task, and when the car would be available. Going to more than one store meant not only the time involved but deciding what would be bought where. Grocery ads, featuring specials for the week, influenced when the task was done, as did the likelihood of crowds. Crowds were noted more often in connection with problems and difficulties than with the requirements of attention, judgement, or planning.

What they like about food marketing — Most of the 60 homemakers (88 per cent) gave reasons for liking food marketing, frequently saying that they liked doing the task. Most often they ncted liking actions connected with seeing or looking, selecting, spending, and buying. However, they also said that it gave them a chance to get out of the house and provided them with a change of scene. They found the food marketing task interesting, rewarding, and derived pleasure from the results.

In contrast to the majority of the women who mentioned things they liked about food marketing, a few (12 per cent) liked nothing about the task.

What they dislike about food marketing — Most of the 60 homemakers (90 per cent) mentioned something they disliked about food marketing even though most of them liked it. They varied considerably in their explanations of what they disliked about grocery shopping. They noted often their lack of control over the timing, their inability to set their own pace, and the amount of time the task took. They complained about waiting in line. They disliked the high prices and having inadequate money; putting away the groceries; ways in which the family increased the amount of work; and crowds. In contrast to the majority of women who mentioned something they disliked about food marketing, a few (10 per cent) replied that they did not dislike anything about the task, that is, they liked everything.

Careful food buying worthwhile — The 60 young homemakers in this study evidenced a thoughtful approach to food shopping. This may surprise many persosn who have not considered all that can be involved in food buying. The homemakers explained their concerns and techniques for controlling their expenditures of money, time, and effort. They also verbalized some frustration with conditions beyond their control. Their explanations suggest ways of developing skill to accomplish the task more successfully. Indeed, their range of consideration pointed to the need to make plans, pay attention, and use judgment with most of the many decisions. For if this task is not done carefully, more work will be needed for other tasks that keep the family well nourished and fed.

Dear Abby

Plants Seeds, Himself In Tomato Patch

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

[© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.]

DEAR ABBY: Norm and I bought a little home in the suburbs, and last spring we planted a vegetable garden. We thought with the prices of everything going so high, it would save us money.

When our tomato plants got about half a foot high, Norm started singing to them! He'd take a sixpack of beer and a chair outside and plunk himself down right in the middle of the tomato plants and start to sing. The more beer he drank the louder he sang. (It's a wonder the neighbors didn't call the police.)

Norm claims it's a scientific fact that plants that get music produce more than plants that don't. Is there any truth to this?

NORM'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: My agriculture experts say yes! But a word of caution. Better buy your tomatoes. No matter how expensive they get, it's cheaper than drying out Norm.

DEAR ABBY: My problem may not seem important to some people, but it is a threat to my marriage.

Howard and I have been married for two years. We were happy at first, living in a small apartment.

I am an average housekeeper and must do all my housecleaning and laundry on Saturdays because I work during the week.

Howard wants me to work as we have no children and the money helps a lot, but lately he has become demanding about my housekeeping.

We have terrible fights about it almost every night. Abby, I just can't help it. When I get home after work I have all I can do to get supper, and I am just too tired to start doing housework! And we both leave for work at 7:30 a.m. and I certainly can't do anything in the morning.

I love Howard and don't want to lose him, but he has threatened to walk out if I don't improve my housekeeping. Please help me.

DESPERATE IN THE BRONX

DEAR DES: You have the following options:

1. Insist that Howard pitch in and help you. He lives there, too.
2. Straighten up after yourself in the morning and you'll have less of a mess at night. Tidy up the place after dinner if it kills you.
3. Quit your job, become a full-time housekeeper, and live on Howard's salary.
4. Hire some help and tighten your belts.
5. Continue as you are and risk a walkout.

DEAR ABBY: Now that women are becoming so aggressive even to the point of asking strange men to dance with them, new problems have developed.

I have taken my wife to a club where couples dance, and have had strange women approach me with, "Care to dance?"

Not knowing what else to do, I get up and dance. Later my wife gives me "what for" for leaving her to sit alone while I dance with a woman I've never seen before. But what else can I do? I hate to hurt a strange woman's feelings.

DANCING WITH TEARS IN MY EYES

DEAR DANCING: You can screw up the courage to say, "Thank you, but I'd rather not leave my lady alone." And don't worry about hurting a strange woman's feelings. Women who ask men to dance have pretty tough hides.

Problems? Trust Abby. For a personal reply, write to ABBY, BOX 69700, L.A., CALIF. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed evelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angleles, Cal. 90069.

Women's Day Set For August 30th At State Fair

SYRACUSE

A host of special guests and a multimedia musical featuring the Marion Digney Fall and Resort Collection is planned for the annual Women's Day Luncheon at the 1972 New York State Fair, Wednesday, Aug. 30 at 12:30 p.m.

Among the headtable guests will be two distinguished women from Washington, D.C., Mrs. Maria Hodgson, wife of the Secretary of Labor, and Mrs. Harriet H. Naylor, a director with the National Center for Volunteer Action. Both women will deliver brief messages during the luncheon.

Mrs. Hodgson, a former elementary school teacher, is very active in the field of education. She is a member of the National Reading Council, chairman of the widening horizons, office of Career Development Programs and a member of the President's Committee for Employment of the Handicapped.

Mrs. Naylor is a former director of the state's department of mental hygiene, and the author of numerous publications on volunteerism including the book, "Volunteers Today — Finding, Training and Working With Them." She was one of a panel of three persons who judged the 1972 N.Y. State Fair Community Service Awards Competition.

Also on the program will be the presentation of the 1972 Community Service Awards by Mrs. Nelson Rockefeller. This year seven community groups from all over the state will be awarded top honors in the areas of community improvement, helath, education, citizenship, conservation, fine arts, and history. The grand prize will be awarded to Interim Families of Ithaca, New York.

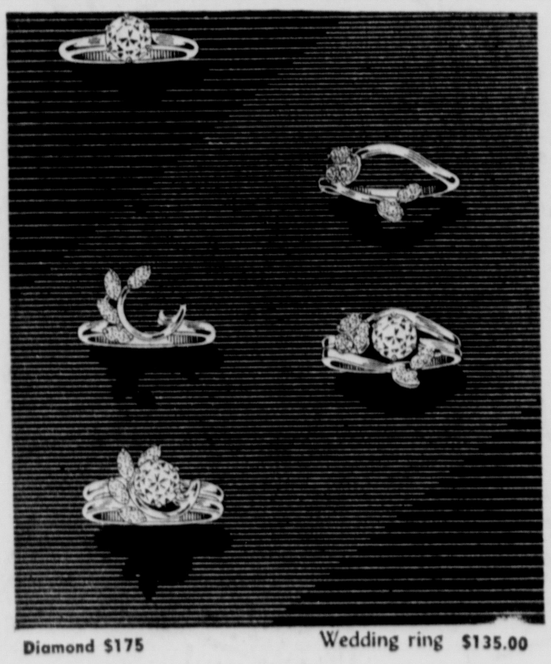

Guests at the Women's Day Luncheon will have additional tickets this year for "Fashions With Bea — A Multimedia Musical", immediately following the luncheon in the Auditorium. The show, open only to those attending the Women's Day Luncheon, wll be a Central New York premiere of the Marion Digney Collection for Fall and Resort.

The show, conceived and produced by local songstress Bea Solomon, is an entirely new concept in fashion shows. Instead of commentary, color projections by Vivian Geiger will illustrate fashion details while on stage Bea Solomon will sing and provide continuity for a fast-moving story. Local women wearing the Digney clothes will also participate on stage as models and Stephanie L. Johnson will provide piano accompaniment. Mrs. Beryl Digney, the designer's mother, will serve as fashion coordinator for the show.

Blueberries: Canning and Freezing

The next time you can manage to get to the supermarket or a roadside stand to pick up a crate or two of blueberries for preserving, try to leave the family at home. Otherwise, chances are only about half of what you buy will end up in the freezer, or in the wonderful homemade blueberry jam that mother used to make.

The rest will be eaten by the kids practically on the spot.

Announce, at such a point, that these particular blueberries are reserved for preserves. They are yours, and yours alone, to do beautiful things with. In short, you want your "preserving" berries preserved.

Whatever way you decide to put them up, blueberries are a picnic to preserve and will make a picnic of some blue day come winter. They have a unique way of chasing the blues and it's too bad if they are only given the chance in the summertime.

Meantime, if the family needs a consolation prize right now, buy a few extra boxes and make up a Blueberry Camp-Out Cake, so-called because it's the kind of cake that carries well on overnight camping excursions. Even if the "excursion" is only as far as the backyard. Fact is, it never seems to last much further than the backyard. Pieces disappear almost as soon as the cake comes out of the oven. Unless, that is, you are very very firm about it.

Here are the simple directions for freezing; for canning and for making blueberries into the Camp-Out Cake.

HOW TO FREEZE FRESH BLUEBERRIES

Dry Pack: Transfer berries from pint boxes into freezer containers, leaving one-half inch headspace. Seal and freeze. (Or overwrap pint boxes with plastic seal, making sure that the seal on the bottom of the box is tight.). To use, rinse and treat as fresh berries.

Syrup Pack: Prepare medium syrup by dissolving three cups sugar in four cups hot water to get enough syrup to pack eight pints. Cool completely. Wash berries and drain thoroughly. Pack berries in containers, leaving one-half inch headspace. Cover with syrup: seal and freeze.

HOW TO CAN

Wash blueberries and drain thoroughly. Place in glass jars within one-half inch of top, shaking berries down while filling jars. Cover with boiling sugar syrup, leaving one-half inch headspace. (For thin sugar syrup, boil two cups sugar and four cups water together for five minutes to obtain five cups syrup.) Adjust lids and process in boiling water bath (212 degrees F.). Pint jars take 10 minutes; quart jars 15 minutes. Remove jars from canner and complete seals if jars are not self-sealing type.

Blueberry Camp-Out Cake

Three cups unsifted all-purpose flour
Two cups granulated sugar
One cup butter or margarine
Grated rind of one lemon
One-half teaspoon ground allspice
One tablespoon baking powder
One teaspoon salt
Three eggs, separated
One-and one-half cups milk
Two cups fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained

Mix flour with sugar. Cut in butter or margarine until particles are the size of small peas. Remove one cup of this mixture and reserve for topping. Add lemon rind, allspice, baking powder and salt to mixture in bowl. Beat egg yolks with milk and add to flour mixture. Beat until smooth and well blended. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold egg whites into mixture. Pour batter into a greased and floured 13 x 9 x 2 inch pan. Sprinkle blueberries over top. Cover evenly with reserved crumbs. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 49 to 50 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm or cold. Yield: one 13 x 9 x 2 inch cake.

PICK A BIG BEAUTIFUL blueberry cake to pack for the picnic or camp-out. This one, like the boxes of blueberries themselves, carries very well

NOW THAT'S STRETCHING A POINT!

Dear Heloise:

This suggestion should be of value to you and all your readers. It relates to the elastic in many garments.

I had three pajama pants of which the elastic in the waist had become so stretched that it was no longer usable. So what to do?

I cut the area out of the waistband which once was of an elastic nature, but washings had destroyed the elastic stretch.

Rubber soon loses its elasticity in hot water and soap.

I replaced these sections with medical elastic bandage. There is no rubber in this product. The elasticity is done in the weaving of the band. The bandage that I used to repair my pants was about forty years old — but with plenty of stretch still left!

P.S. I feel that I KNOW YOU PERSONALLY, Heloise. I have received so many nice hints from you.

Thank you kindly, it was my pleasure. Only wish we could share a cup of coffee and have a good long chat.

Because I was a Gray Lady, in the Red Cross Services many years ago (golly, how the time flies), I know about that bandage you speak of. It is fantastic the way it never seems to lose its stretch.

I'll admit I sure never thought of using it for anything like this. You might call it first-aid for falling pants!

Thanks for the idea.

love,
Heloise

Dear Heloise:

My teenage daughter had a problem with space. She collects large pictures of teenage idols and then has no place to put them.

We live in a mobile home and she has her own room, but space is limited. Her closet doors as well as her walls were covered with pictures. On several occasions, there are pictures on both sides of a sheet, so she had these hanging from the ceiling. What to do?

I suggested that she go to the local office supply and stationery store and purchase large pieces of poster board, some loose-leaf rings, and a box of reinforcements.

She made a huge picture book. A paper punch was used to punch holes in the poster board and in the pictures. She now has three different-sized picture books.

And — we can see her closet doors and her walls again.

Dear Heloise:

Here is an idea for keeping melting butter from turning brown in the hot pan.

Just put a small amount of cold water (one half teaspoon) in with the butter you are melting and, I'll guarantee you, the butter will not burn and it will not affect your recipe.

Dear Heloise:

My brother and I have to dust the living room on weekends and we have discovered some really neat tricks.

There is a bookcase in the living room that must have a million books in it — anyway, it seems that way when we have to dust them.

We finally found an easy way to do it. We use a nice wide, clean paintbrush and it is just perfect for dusting the tops of the books.

Dear Heloise:

We are a family of six and in the summer we all consume quite a number of cold drinks.

We were using paper throwaway cups but after everyone had several drinks, we were wasting cups and money!

We bought plastic glasses for each one of us and then had the problem of glasses all over the kitchen.

Then came our discovery. A six-cup muffin tin was painted and placed upside down on the kitchen counter. The glasses fit perfectly over the raised cups of the muffin tin. We put our names on the bottom of the glasses with a black felt marker.

Voila! An attractive rack for a blah counter—and so very handy!

Dear Heloise:

My husband came up with this idea:

After showering, he uses a squeegee on the wet walls to wipe down the soap and water from the tile.

It eliminates a lot of scrubbing later!

Mrs. Hunter

That's about the greatest yet! Eliminates wet towels, etc.

Loescher Family Reunion Is Held

The 31st annual reunion of the descendants of Sebastian Loescher, who came to West Camp in 1710, was held on August 6 at Clermont State Park with 79 persons attending. Elected for the coming year were Laurain Lasher of Westkill, president; Alfred Lasher of Kingston, vice president; Mrs. Jules Henkel of Saugerties, secretary; Mrs. Albert Tice, Saugerties, treasurer.

After a picnic lunch, various reports were submitted by the officers. Communications were noted from Mrs. J. V. Lasher of Margaretville; Mrs. Elizabeth Clough of Woodstock; and Gen. Edmund C. R. Lasher of Chicago.

A new birth during the year was reported: Brian G. Lasher, born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lasher Sr. of Saugerties. Family members who had died since the last reunion included Harold Lewis Lasher of Berkshire; Lauren Tice, Saugerties; and Mary Lasher Ford, New Haven, Conn.

Members decided to continue work on the family's genealogy. Information should be sent to Mrs. Jules Henkel, secretary.

Awards were presented to Mrs. Lauren Tice of Saugerties and Mrs. Martha Every of Kingston, oldest members at 90 years; Ronnie Rhynders of Red Hook, two years old, youngest; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lasher, Daytona Beach, Fla., greatest distance; Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Lasher of Selkirk, largest family group.

Persons attended from Kingston, Hudson, Germantown, Saugerties, Red Hook, Hyde Park, Lake Katrine, Selkirk, Ravena, Albany, Westkill, Tivoli, Staatsburg, Buffalo, and New Lebanon.

Also from East Rutherford, Harding and North Plainfield, N. J.; Daytona Beach, Fla.; and Winsted, Conn.

Next year's reunion will be held again at Clermont Park.

Tessie Parker Will Be Guest of Honor

A large attendance is expected Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Walnut Grove in Kingston for the testimonial dinner honoring Theresa (Tessie) Parker, the first president of the Ladies Society of Santa Maria and a well-known and respected member of the community.

The daughter of Frances Perry of 195 North Street in Kingston and the late Dominick Perry, Mrs. Parker was born in Kingston and attended local schools. She is married to Augustus (Gus) Parker and has resided in the Kingston Point area practically her whole life. She has been active in many neighborhood projects and has given many hours of leadership to various organizations. Mrs. Parker is employed at IBM.

Tickets are available from committee members: Joan Sinagra, Angie Carputo, Sue Benicase, Carol Weisner and Sue Polacco.

Area Activities Noted

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke of Highland, formerly of 106 McEntee Street, Kingston, celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary Saturday, Aug. 12 with a Mass at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Dominic Dolce in Highland. The Rev. Father McGarry of St. Augustine's Church was celebrant.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke are the parents of four children: Mrs. Harry Lebert, Mrs. John Markett, Mrs. Dominic Dolce and Francis X. Burke. They also have eight grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Approximately 40 relatives and friends attended the event.

Mrs. Arthur Britt, president, Lutheran Women's Guild, has announced that plans are completed for a Church Harvest Festival and Chicken Barbecue Dinner. The special event will be held on October 14, in the Church Assembly Hall at the corner of Spring and Hone Streets.

All the organizations of the Church are co-operating and all members and friends of the church are being asked to make and donate saleable items for the Bazaar and to take an active interest in the Festval. Mrs. Stuart Smedes and Mrs. Frank Doyle Jr. are co-chairmen.

The Saugerties Jayncees will re-open their Dancing School on September 16. The school will be directed by Mrs. Rose Fabiano who will offer classes in tap, ballet, acrobat and modern jazz.

Mrs. Fabiano, a member and former secretary of the National Association of Dance and Affiliated Artists, trained and worked at McElroy Studios in Brooklyn for 21 years. She also directed the Jayncee Dancing School in 1967 and 1971. Mrs. Fabiano now resides in Glasco with her husband, Frank and their four children.

The weekly classes of one hour's duration will be opened to students four years of age and older.

Registration is scheduled for August 26 and September 9 from 10 a.m. to noon at the Reformed Church Parish Hall, 173 Main Street, Saugerties.

For further information contact Mrs. Louis Opipare, Jayncee chairman, after 5:30 p.m. or Mrs. Ed Pfeifer.

Bank Urges Renewal

KINGSTON — The Ulster County Blood Bank has urged all its members to renew their present membership in the organization in order to assure thier uninterupted protection under the plan.

Those whose memberships are due to expire this month have been notified by mail. Members may renew their membership for one year simply by sending in the annual one dollar fee. That fee, it was noted, has remained the same since the Blood Bank was founded two years ago.

The annual $1 fee covers both the individual and his dependent family. In addition to the annual fee, members are called on from time to time to donate a pint of blood to the bank." The blood donation obligation does not necessarily occur annually; depending on the number of members, a person may be asked to donate blood once every two or three years, or more. The more members there are in the Blood Bank, the less frequently a member is called on to donate blood.

Under the Ulster County Blood Bank program, a non-profit member agency of the United Way of Ulster County, individual members and their dependents are covered for unlimited blood replacement in any hospital in Ulster County. Members are also covered for blood used outside of the county and within the continental limits of the United States. Blood is also furnished for certain types of surgery not performed locally.

To become a member, the new enrollee pays an initial fee of $3, followed by $1 in annual dues thereafter. Anyone regardless of age or physical condition, may become a member if they live or work in Ulster County.

The new enrollee is required to donate his first pint of blood within 60 days after membership begins.

For those unable to physically donate blood, there are several alternatives available: a substitute may donate blood in the member's place, or the member may pay the prevailing cost of blood ($27.50) each time his turn to donate comes up.

Persons interested in joining the Ulster County Blood Bank should write to C.P.O. Box "T," Kingston, or call the Blood Bank offices.

TYPICAL ULSTER COUNTY HOUSE FOR SALE IN SAUGERTIES.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, AUGUST 16, 1972 TWENTY-ONE

Ulster Home Buyers...Beware!

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON — Prospective Ulster County home buyers, beware! There is an illusion lurking which may cause you to wait for a better time to buy, but now is as good a time as any and things may be worse, according to area realtors.

The illusion: prices are up, so it is bad to buy.

All area realtors contacted by The Freeman agree that prices are up from last year, but they differ on how much. Some say prices are "much higher" and some say they have not risen any more drastically than in the past several years.

"Home values have kept up with inflation and sales prices reflect inflationary trends," Kingston realtor Howard L. Fox stated.

New Paltz realtor George E. Mead said a rise in home prices is to be expected during a year when a war is being terminated, and it is not unusual that prices are much higher.

Saugerties realtor Mary Lou Milne agreed that prices are up "very much" from the past and added that they are rising now and will continue to rise.

Now is the opportune time for buying, however, Kingston realtor George E. Rodriguez told The Freeman. Mortgage money is available at reasonable rates and on reasonable terms, he explained.

Most other realtors agreed that mortgage money is readily available. Mrs. Milne indicated, however, that financing may not be quite so excellent in the fall.

According to Rodriguez, there is a lack of good housing available below $25,000. On the other hand, there is a sufficient supply of houses for sale in the $30,000 to $50,000 bracket with more homes than buyers. He attributed the excess of houses to a slight overbuild."

Rodriguez added that prices are stabilizing in the $30,000 to $50,000 range.

Mrs. Milne placed the average price for homes in Ulster County between $35,000 and $38,000.

According to Fox, most people moving to Ulster County from other areas of the state or nation are "pleasantly surprised" with the prices in the area. Homes in Ulster County are a good value in relation to those in other areas, he added.

Where do people buying homes in Ulster County come from? Realtors contacted by The Freeman disagreed slightly on this matter.

According to Rodriguez and Mrs. Milne a majority of the home buyers come from Ulster County itself. Rodriguez attributed such a trend to upward mobility: better income, the desire for nicer homes, and larger families.

Mead said of the home buyers in his area that half come from within the county and half come from other areas. He said most of those coming from out-of-county are either from the New York City area or are transferred from other areas by their companies.

Woodstock realtor Alan Simmons said a larger percentage of those buying in his area come from New York, New Jersey or Long Island than in other areas in the county.

Most realtors agreed that people buying homes want to get away from crowded conditions. "The trend is definitely toward more suburban homes," Rodriguez said, explaining that many people no longer want to live in subdivisions or developments.

Fox said most people interested in buying a home ask for at least one acre of land with it, although they often settle for less when they see that houses with less land need not appear crowded together.

Several said that homes in subdivisions are continuing to sell quite well.

Of primary concern to many who buy homes in Ulster County are the schools. 'One of the first questions asked is about the school system," Mrs. Milne said.

Mrs. Milne added, "A house or land is the best investment today."

County League of Women Voters Support Proposed Charter

KINGSTON — Support for Ulster County's proposed new charter, which was referred back to the Legislative and Rules Committee of the Ulster County Legislature recently, has come from the four chapters of the Ulster County League of Women Voters.

Moira Walsh, president of the New Paltz League, in an address before the Legislature prior to its evening session, said the leagues of New Paltz, Woodstock, Saugerties and Kingston support the charter because:

- It will provide better government through a defined separation of powers with an integral systems of checks and balances.
- It will provide a full-time executive for a $26.5 million business.
- Through the elected executive it will provide for responsiveness to the will of the people.
- It will allow the legislative body to perform its primary functions.
- It will fix responsibility for the administration of county services.

Mrs. Walsh said the leagues feel that the charter "reasonably conforms to guidelines as approved by the membership of the four leagues in the county, after years of studying other forms of county government and other county charters."

The charter, which was referred back to committee could still be on the Nov. 7 ballot, if the Legislative and Rules Committee decides to make changes in it and hold another public hearing as well as another special meeting of the Legislature before Sept. 7.

According to informed sources, the prospect of such action is highly unlikely.

Dates Listed

STONE RIDGE — Registration dates for all students in grades five through 12, new in the Rondout Valley School District, will be Aug. 23 through 25 and Aug. 28 and 29.

The guidance staffs of the middle and high schools will be available 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 3 p.m. for counseling and program planning. Students should bring report cards and other records which will be helpful in planning their schedules.

Rondout Valley students who failed summer school courses should contact their counselor during the week of Aug. 21 through 25. Further information may be obtained by calling the high school or middle school.

Proposal Referred to Department

KINGSTON — The local chapter of the NAACP has referred the proposed Ulster County Charter to its New York State Conference legal department for opinion, but Everett Hodge, Ulster County President of the NAACP, says, "What I think is that we'll eventually wind up being opposed to this particular kind of charter."

Hodge chaired a meeting of the NAACP Monday night at the New Central Baptist Church on the Strand where the new charter was discussed.

"I franky think it's a bad document," Hodge told The Freeman. "There is too much power concentrated in the hands of one man, the county executive." And, Hodge also raised this question, "If the Executive officer has all the power, why do we have to have 33 legislators? They'd just be sitting there getting paid."

Hodge is also opposed to a provision of the proposed charter where department heads will serve at the pleasure of the executive. "I think it makes for corrupt government," he said.

Hodge also thinks the present system of county coroners is "a conflict of interest" and that "we should be moving toward a county medical examiner."

Hodge, a member of the NAACP State Board of Directors, will attend a meeting of that group in Glens Falls on Saturday. He will also attend the fall convention of the State NAACP in Binghamton Oct. 20-23 with "two or three delegates."

The NAACP, which has met at the New Central Baptist Church for many years, held its last meeting there Monday night. It will now meet at the Rondout Neighborhood Center on Broadway and Spring Street. The next meeting is Sept. 11.

Royals Stole It While Sparky Sat

By United Press International

Every time Bob Lemon looked down to the New York Yankee bullpen and saw a left-hander warming up, he got a terrible feeling in the pit of his stomach. The thought of Sparky Lyle, the major leagues' most effective relief pitcher of late, can make a manager's insides turn.

But luckily for Lemon and his Kansas City Royals, New York Manager Ralph Houk decided to give Lyle a second straight day of rest Tuesday night. Instead Houk called on another lefty—Rob Gardner—in the ninth inning to try and protect a 6-4 lead. But Gardner is no Lyle, who has 27 saves already this season and has been fantastic in relief the past three weeks as the Yankees have fought their way into the pennant race in the American League East.

With runners on second and third on one out, Gardner gave up a two-run single to Steve Hovley and the game was tied 6-6. Richie Scheinblum then sacrificed Hovley to second and Gardner gave up a game-winning single to Lou Piniella.

"Everytime I saw a left-hander I thought it was him (Lyle)," said Lemon. "Seeing him wouldn't have surprised me but knowing Ralph (Houk), this might help them from here on."

In other American League games Chicago edged Milwaukee 2-1, Boston shut out Texas 3-0, Cleveland defeated California 3-2 in 10 innings and Minnesota downed Detroit 7-6 in 13 innings.

The Yankees fought back to tie the game in the seventh inning and finally went ahead in the ninth. Mike Hedlund, the Royals' starter, was working on a three-hitter and a 4-0 lead. But Hedlund walked Roy White and gave up a run-scoring double to Ron Blomberg. Celerino Sanchez was hit with a pitch and that was all for Hedlund. Paul Splittorff came in and got John Ellis on a fly but pinch-hitter Felipe Alou slammed a 3-2 pitch over the left field wall for a three-run homer.

The Yankees went ahead in the ninth when Bobby Murcer singled in two runs with two out.

The Royals had taken a 4-0 lead in the first inning off Mike Kekich. Fred Patek singled, stole second, was sacrificed to third and scored on Scheinblum's single. Piniella walked but was erased when Cookie Rojas grounded into a fielder's choice. Paul Schaal then crashed his third homer of the season.

Dick Allen used his speed on the bases to set up the winning run in the White Sox' victory over the Brewers. The victory moved Chicago to within a game of first-place Oakland in the West.

After Mike Andrews homered for Chicago in the fourth inning, Allen walked. Then loser Tom Parsons appartently had Allen picked off but the White Sox' slugger took off for second and slid in safely. When the throw from first baseman George Scott went wild, Allen went to third. He scored on a single by Rick Reichardt.

Rookie John Curtis hurled a three-hitter and Reggie Smith slammed two home runs to pace the Red Sox over the Rangers. Luis Aparicio singled in the ninth for the Red Sox for his 2,500th career hit, making the little shortstop only the 47th player in major league history to accomplish that feat.

A two-out single by Frank Duffy in the bottom of the 10th inning gave the Indians a come-from-behind victory over the Angels. California had taken the lead in the top of the inning on Bob Oliver's run-scoring single.

But Duffy lined a single off reliever Steve Barber to score Ray Fosse from third base with the winning run.

Run-scoring singles by Graig Nettles and Rod Crew drove in runs in the 13th inning to provide the Twins with their victory over the slumping Tigers. The loss, Detroit's sixth in its last seven games, dropped the Tigers 1 1-2 games behind the idle Baltimore Orioles in the East.

DIRT FLIES — Dick McAuliffe of the Detroit Tigers scoops up the dirt as he is forced out at second during first inning of Tigers game with Minnesota Tuesday. Tossing to first for the double play is Rod Carew (29). Twins won, but Tigers maintained half game edge on third place Yanks who also lost. (UPI)

Davis Plays With Peace of Mind

By United Press International

Spiritual peace of mind appears to be paying its own dividends on the ballfield for Los Angeles outfielder Willie Davis.

Davis began reciting Buddhist chants earlier this season when he saw the inner strength and peaceful effects they brought to his wife, and he has to be more than satisfied with his own improvement since he started.

After hitting two home runs in his last game on Sunday, Davis slugged another one Tuesday night along with a single and a sacrifice fly to pace the Dodgers to a come-from-behind 8-6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Davis drove in three runs and scored two.

In his last 24 games, Davis has driven home 23 runs and he has 10 hits in his last 25 at-bats.

The score was tied at 6-6 in the bottom of the sixth when Davis came to bat with Bill Buckner on first base and one out. Davis knew just what he wanted to do.

"I put it in my mind to hit it out," he said. "I'm no genius but I got my pitch."

The victory enabled third-place Los Angeles to close within two games of second-place Houston in the National League West since the Astros dropped a 3-2 decision in 10 innings to Montreal. However, Cincinnati maintained its 8 1-2 game advantage over the Dodgers by whipping Philadelphia 3-0. Elsewhere, San Francisco beat Chicago 7-5, San Diego beat St. Louis 7-1 and New York whitewashed Atlanta 5-0.

The Dodgers were trailing 5-2 when they rallied for four runs in the fourth inning. Chris Cannizzaro, Claude Osteen and Buckner all delivered run-scoring singles and Davis brought home the go-ahead run with his sacrifice fly.

Pete Richert, pitching two-hit ball in 2 2-3 relief innings, got credit for his second triumph in three decisions.

Mike Jorgensen singled home the winning run with two out in the bottom of the 10th inning to provide Montreal with its victory over Houston. The Astros had tied the game in the ninth. Reliever Mike Marshall gained his 12th victory against three losses.

Don Gullett, replacing injured starter Wayne Simpson in the second inning, scattered four hits and struck out eight to register his fourth victory against seven defeats for Cincinnati. A walk to Pete Rose and singles by Johnny Bench and Tony Perez in the first inning proved to be the only run the Reds required to beat Philadelphia.

Garry Maddox hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning and followed with the first grand slam homer of his career in the sixth as San Francisco beat the Cubs. The Giants managed only six hits off Bill Hands and none off reliever Bill Bonham, but in addition to Maddox' two homers Ken Henderson had a homer in the fourth. Don Kessinger and Jim Hickman hit home runs for Chicago.

Fred Kendall hit a two-run homer to highlight San Diego's 11-hit attack against St. Louis and Ed Kranepool and Tommie Agee homered for the Mets against Atlanta. Jim McAndrew, with eighth inning relief from Tug McGraw, boosted his record to 9-3 for New York.

Landry Is Confident Even Without Staubach

By United Press International

Tom Landry isn't throwing in the towel now that quarterback Roger Staubach is lost to the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys for almost three months.

"I still feel pretty good about this season," the Dallas coach said Tuesday. "I'm pleasd with the performance of Craig Morton. Craig has been performing extremely well for a long period of time. Now that he has this opportunity to play, I think he will show what he can do. I know he feels a little pressure right now stepping in like he has.

"Last year when the decision (Staubach over Morton) went against him, he took it like a man. But he expected to work hard and move back into the top spot. He knows he is a good quarterback and I've been saying all along he's a good quarterback.

'I think we are in a better frame of mind at this time this year than we were last year," Landry added. "We were impatient last summer. We felt we had the Super Bowl (lost to Baltimore) under control and we lost it. This year our attitude is not so much to make up for past performance. We are the champions. Our attitude now is to work on specific problems on personnel and mechanics."

The Cowboys will activate Dan Reeves, a former star running back with the Cowboys and most recently a Dallas coach, as backup quarterback to Morton. Reeves was forced to retire prematurely with bad knees but Landry says they're good enough for him to play quarterback. He is expected to be activated for the Aug. 26 game against the New York Jets.

Elsewhere in pro football, offensive tackle Dan Yochum, Philadelphia's No. 2 draft choice from Syracuse, has decided to join the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian League rather than play for the Eagles. Yochum supposedly had come to terms on a three-year contract with Philadelphia on Monday but never reported to camp. An Alouettes spokesman contacted Eagles' General Manager Pete Retzlaff and informed him of Yochum's decision.

The Los Angeles Rams waived safetyman Tom Curtis, a three-year veteran, and placekicker Ron Svarc and said that cornerback Clancy Williams would be lost for about two weeks with a sprained knee. Williams, who had been subbing for regular Jim Nettles, was hurt during a practice session. His injury leaves the Rams with only one available left cornerback—rookie Jiim Massey of Linfield—for this weekend.

Chuck Noll, the Pittsburgh coach, reported that 24 of his 63 players were suffering from the flu while the Houston Oilers say running back Woody Campbell will miss Saturday's game against Green Bay because of a death in the family.

Jerome Barkum, the New York Jets' No. 1 draft choice, took part in his first drill with quarterback Joe Namath and feels it'll take some time to work into shape. The Jets will meet the New York Giants Sunday and their three top draft picks—Barkum, linebacker Mike Taylor of Michigan and receiver Gary Hammond off Southern Methodist—probably will miss the game.

Unfold Stadium Plans

NEW YORK (UPI) — The House That Ruth Built 49 seasons ago is finally changing with the times.

Yankee Stadium will contain all the comforts of modern living in a major face-lifting process to be completed in 1976 under the new modernization process unfolded by New York's Mayor John Lindsay Tuesday.

The timetable for modernizad tion at the Stadium calls for renovation to begin at the end of the 1973 baseball season. The Yankees will play in Shea Stadium during the 1974 and 1975 seasons and return to the modernized Yankee Stadium for the start of the 1976 season.

"This is the first step in renovating Yankee Stadium and making 'The House That Ruth Built' an even greater attraction for present and future generations of New Yorkers," said Mayor Lindsay.

"This administration regards the modernization of Yankee Stadium and the retention of the Yankees as vital to the continued strengthening of our City's recreational, economic and cultural base," the Mayor continued.

Yankees' Resurgence For Real—Blomberg

By IRA FUSFELD

BRONX

When Ron Blomberg's playing days are over he's going to make one heck of a public relations man.

Ask the Yankees' youthful, left-hand hitting first baseman for a minute and he'll give you ten. Ask him a question and he'll give you a reply worthy of a story.

So we did and he did and we did and here's the result:

Ron Blomberg has more confidence than your everyday rookie. He wants to play, likes to play, and feels he can play. But when he's not playing he doesn't brood, especially now that the Yankees are making a serious bid for the pennant.

"We've really got desire now," said Ron when asked about his team's resurgence. "We're just as loose as a goose out there. Everybody wants to win. We get one run ahead in the seventh and eighth inning and we know we've got Lyle out there.

"When we fall behind we feel we're gonna win. Everybody's cheering everybody else up. Nobody's cracking under pressure. We really feel we have a great chance to win it. We can't give up.

RON BLOMBERG

"You know," Blomberg continued, "When I was in the lower minor leagues we were losing 15-1 going into the last inning. Would you believe we scored 15 runs and won the game? That's what I mean about not giving up."

How about you Ron?

"Well, you know this is my first time at first base and I've made a few mental errors, but I'm only 23 years old and I want to learn."

And what about not playing against left handers?

"I guess it would bother me if we weren't winning, but right now we're going so well I'm ignoring it."

Then it was back to the pennant race.

"Listen, I know we're not going to win every game. You know if the Phillies won all the rest of their games they'd win the pennant. But we have a great chance. We can't give up."

EXTRA BASES . . . . . Blomberg's not the only Yankee who's sky high. Those who we talked with all feel their team is a legitimate threat and chalk up the sudden surge to such things as momentum, better hitting, Celerino Sanchez, and Sparky Lyle. Manager Ralph Houk is one who believes that the addition of Sanchez and the John Callison-Ron Swoboda platoon are the biggest keys.

Saugerties Moves to State Legion Finals

NEWBURGH

Separately, the Saugerties High School baseball team and the Onteora High diamond force didn't create many waves in their respective leagues last season. But put the best from each club together and watch out.

And that's just what the Lamouree-Hackett American Legion Post of Saugerties did in fielding their entry in the New York State tournament.

Would you believe Saugerties is in the final round? That's right. The Sawyers beat Manhattan, 4-1, here Tuesday to earn the right to play Utica in Saturday's 2 p. m. finale at Doubleday Field in Cooperstown. The winner of that one goes on to the regional championships at Keene, New Hampshire.

Saugerties' semi-final win came on the strength of Dan Brown's three-hitter and some timely hitting by Tom Whittaker, who drove in three runs.

Brown was a Daily Freeman All-County pick from Onteora and Whittaker received a similar nod as a representative from Saugerties.

The Sawyers jumped out to a 3-0 first inning lead in the semi. Jim Whiteford drew a base on balls to start the frame. Then Jerry Malgieri bunted for a sacrifice, but when Manhattan attempted to get the lead runner, all hands were safe.

Whittaker followed with a base hit knocking in a pair and Mike Bond added a third ribby with a single.

Manhattan got one back in the fifth as Vin Martino reached on an error and Al Mtladosi cracked a run-scoring three-bagger. But he was stranded at third and the losers never again threatened.

Saugerties could muster only four hits in the game off Manhattan's Sal Luna, but the winners made each one count. Luna fanned nine in the contest while walking four.

Brown, all-everything at Onteora and headed for Drew University in the fall, struck out seven and passed four. Brown's Onteora mates Charlie Mazzola and Bruce Hurley also grace the Saugerties starting nine.

Members of the Saugerties High squad also in the Legion lineup besides Whittaker are Whiteford, Malgieri (one-year removed . . . he graduated in 1971), Rich Koegel, Bond, and Mark Bach.

The team is managed by Jeff Bond and coached by Craig Helsmoortel.

Schatzel's Triple Engulfs Market

KINGSTON

Gary Schatzel tripled Jess Caprotti home in the bottom of the ninth to give Boulevard Gulf a 14-13 win over W. P. Market in a City Slow Pitch League B. Division slugfest at lower Hasbrouck Park.

There were 39 hits in the game but nary a homer.

In other league action, Central Hudson edged Polacco's in extra innings, 8-7; Keyser's downed Colonial Cash Register 10-5; Lou's Subs trounced Circle Cab 10-1 behind the five-hit pitching of Bob Clausi and LaLima's outslugged Edgar II, 11 to 9.

Ernie Bodie and John Dawson collected four hits apiece for W. P. Market. John Miller stroked a single, double and triple. Jack Schatzel slammed a double and three singles for Boulevard. Gary Schatzel added a single, double and triple and Rob Astalos poled a triple and two singles.

Bob DeWitt and Gary Miller contributed a homer and two singles apiece to the CH squeaker over Polacco's. Tim Garvin homered and singled. Bob Nerone paced the losers with three singles.

Norm Good stroked three singles for Keyser's against Colonial. Joe Palen contributed two doubles. George Rolfe led the Cash Register boys with a single and two doubles.

John Carter, who batted tenth, hit the only homer in the Lou-Circle contest. Bob Gorsline stroked a double and two singles. Al DiBernardo and Gene Carpenter had single-double combinations.

Steve Foster unloaded a double and two singles for Edgar II. Jim Donovan added two doubles and Lou Tiano a single-double combination.

Ruth Goldin Winner Twice

KINGSTON

It was Ruth Goldin Day in the Ulster County Tennis Championships Tuesday. The defending woman's singles champion and part of the top seeded doubles tandem breezed to impressive victories.

In singles, she overpowered Ann Roberts in straight love sets, 6-0, 6-0 and then teamed with Judy Sykes for an impressive 6-0, 6-1 victory over the team of Pat Piton and Nancy McKenna to move into the semi-final round.

Ruth, fresh off a victory in the Redwood Tournament at Middletown, seems to be in top form again this year and her power serve and forehand overwhelmed Miss Roberts.

Third-seeded Barbara Badalato upset second-seeded Chris Miller 6-1, 5-7, 6-4 to move into the finals of the women's singles where she will meet the winner of the Goldin-Judy Hevesi match. Mrs. Badalato out-rallied Miss Miller in the long three-set match.

Second-seeded Dick Smith and Dick Little moved into the semi-finals of the men's doubles with a convincing 6-2, 6-0 victory over Nick Fowler and John Roberts.

Bill Zeeh, the tournament's No. 1 seeded player and defending singles champion, teamed with Mara DiDonna for a 6-0, 6-4 win over George Martin and Leslie Wilkes in mixed doubles.

This evening's schedule starting at 6 p.m. at Forsyth Park: Bill Zeeh vs. Robert Ricken; Dick Smith vs. Pete Writer; Mary Fowler - Barbara Badalato vs. Judy Sykes-Ruth Goldin.

Jones Radio and TV rallied with four runs in the fifth to edge A. J. Farms 6-4 and retain first place with a 10-1 record in the Red Division of the Saugerties Softball League. The loss eliminated A. J.'s from the pennant race. Mickey Bush won his 10th game against one loss.

Buono and McConekey's split a doubleheader, beating Jaycees 14-4 and bowing to Cable TV, 5-3.

John Dunston's two-run single sparked the big sixth inning for the Jones boys. Mike Mahar slammed his fourth homer. Tim Murphy hit his third homer for A. J.

Angelo Castillo's four singles and three by John Granwehr paced B&B's win over Jaycees. Bob Dodig hit a double and homer, Bob McCaig a single and two doubles and Mickey Iannone a three-run homer.

Bob Tammany led Cable TV two singles and a double. Mickey Iannone socked his second homer of the day. Billy Perks singled and tripled.

Possible 20-Year Sentence For Maple Leaf President

TORONTO (UPI) — Harold Ballard, 69-year-old president of Maple Teaf Gardens, faced a possible 20 year prison term today following his conviction on 47 fraud and theft charges involving $205,000.

Judge Harry Deyman, who stated Tuesday there was a "clear pattern of fraud," set sentencing for Sept. 7. Ballard could receive a 20 year prison term or a suspended sentence.

Defense Attorney J. J. Robinette said he would call character witnesses at the Sept. 7 hearing and ask Judge Deyman to consider Ballard's advanced age and past reputation when passing sentence.

"It seems to me that a clear pattern of fraud emerges from a consideration of the whole of the evidence," Judge Deyman said in his 122-page written report.

Witnesses had testified that about $82,000 of Gardens money was used to pay for extensive repairs and remodeling of Ballard's home and summer cottage, as well as for gifts for his children.

Ballard maintained he did not know the repairs were being charged to the Gardens through altered invoices.

"I simply cannot understand a businessman of Mr. Ballard's stature seeing thousands of dollars of improvement without making sure he knew what the cause was," Judge Deyman said.

"I find it completely incredible that a businessman of Mr. Ballard's acumen could have goods and services of such variety and cost furnished to him to his knowledge without expecting to pay for them."

The theft charges involve the 1962 sale of the Marlborough amateur hockey team to the Gardens by Ballard and his late partner, C. Stafford Smythe.

The Crown charged that from 1964-70 about $123,000 worth of checks intended as payment for the Marlborough team were deposited in a private bank account.

Judge Deyman's verdict Tuesday was the culmination of a four-year investigation by police, federal tax investigators and special prosecutors of the Ontario Attorney General's office.

A number of documents seized from Gardens offices in 1968 were presented by the Crown during Ballard's six-week trial, which ended on July 14.

Mizerak Opens With Easy Win

CHICAGO (UPI) — Defending champions Steve Mizerak of Woodbridge, N.J., and Mrs. Dorothy Wise of San Francisco scored first-round victories Tuesday in the national pocket billiards tournament.

Mizerak, a grade school teacher and winner of the title the last two years, defeated Pete Spencer of Morton Grove, Ill., 150-60 in tne first round of the men's division in the double-elimination competition.

Mrs. Wise, a 57-year-old grandmother who won the women's title the past five years, defeated Sandra Peters of Union, N.J., 75-52.

Former champions Luther Lassiter of Elizabeth City, N.C., and Irving Crane of Rochester, N. Y., were upset in their opening matches.

Marist Old Home For Carnesecca

By STEVE KANE

POUGHKEEPSIE

Personable Lou Carnesecca, the head coach of the New York Nets, visited the Marist College Summer Basketball Camp Tuesday for a rare off-season appearance, and it was a home coming of sorts for the veteran ABA mentor.

"I owe it all the Marist Brothers," he said. "They ran St. Ann's on the east side. They took a lot of us kids in to play ball. We had some great rivalries then — and we all stayed out of jail."

With 70 youngsters sprawled on the gym floor, Carnesecca, a sprightly figure in gray slacks and basketball shoes, gave an animated lecture then fielded questions for his interested audience. There were some pretty good questions:

"The Dunk Shot?" he whirled on his interrogator, "I say bring back the dunk shot — and bring back the clock. It's the most exciting play in basketball. You stopped it because they thought and it electrifies his team. They stopped it because they though somebody like Jabbar would dominate the game. He dominates it anyway."

A small boy in a big sweatshirt ventured, "What are you going to do without Rick Barry?"

Carnesecca stopped for a moment as if hit with an awful remembrance, "Son," he replied, "do you know what a Novena is?"

Later, Carnesecca expounded at length on several subjects. One of his favorites was the prosposed merger of the American and National Basketball Associations.

"It's gotta come. The owners just can't afford to keep paying out this kind of money to kids — the fans won't pay it, and there're the ones who eventually do."

But if the merger did come and you found yourself in the same division with the Knicks, Celtics and Bullets, then what would you do?

"Wear football helmets."

There is something incongruous about watching a professional basketball coach help a boy who's hoping he'll make the jayvees next year, but Carnesecca somehow makes it fit. Life emanates from the man, and a crisp sense of the humorous underlies the surface.

"You've got your back to the hoop . . . move to the pass get-him! Get him!"

He produces response.

What about Rick Barry, we asked?

"A player like Rick gives a team a big league status right away," he said. "Right now it looks like the decision to make him go back to San Francisco will stand, but he told me if he can't play in New York he's going to retire."

"Outside of him we're young. Even our audience is young. You don't find the sophistication in our place that you see in Madison Square Garden, but we've got some real knowledgeable fans."

How do you feel about signing underclassemen out of college?

"Well, it can't really go on much more or well be killing our farm system. Most of them are not ready for the pros anyway."

But you signed Jim Chones?

"He wanted to come, so we figured we'd get him before anyone else did. But he's an exception. It is wrong to draft these kids, and I don't mean from a morality standpoint."

How will Brian Taylor fit into the Nets?

"He has the tools and potential to be a great ballplayer. He knows defense, he just needs a little more weight and experience."

How many years is your league away from the NBA?

"Two. They're up here, and we're down here (he waved his hand.) The thing you have to remember is that we're both getting older."

"Anything else I can help you with?" he asked.

"No," we replied and shook his hand, "and thank you very much, Mr. Oarnesec . . ."

"It's Lou."

A coach for over 20 years, Lou Carnesecca assisted the legendary Joe Lapchick at St. John's University for seven years after an impressive high school career. For the next five years he guided the Redmen to a 104-35 won-lost record and five consecutive post-season tournaments.

Now a resident of Jackson Heights, Carnesecca is in the midst of a five-year contract with the Nets as vice-president, general manger and head coach. Last season his surprising club went to the ABA championship before losing to the Indian Pacers.

Barry Appears Satisfied

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (UPI) — Rick Barry, star forward for the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association last year but court-ordered to play for the Golden State Warriors of the National Basketball Association this season, said Tuesday night that his contract difficulties with the Warriors were not serious and that he may be ready to agree to terms by Saturday.

Barry, a former NBA All-Star and the only player ever to lead both pro leagues in scoring, said his statements earlier this week about retiring if Warrior owner Franklin Mieuli failed to meet his contract demands were not a threat but were nevertheless not empty words. "It's not a threat, I'm just making a simple statement of fact. If the contract is resolved, I'll play. It's just economically not feasible for me not to play pro ball.

Sires Race To Blake

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oc Blake pulled out of second at the half at Monticello Raceway Tuesday night to take a three-length victory in a $22,823 New York Sires Stakes trot.

Del Cameron drove Oc Blake around the mile in 2:05 4-5 for a payoff of $22.60. Money Problem was second and Petron Chips third.

At other New York State harness tracks Tuesday, there were these results:

Quick Brew pulled quickly out of fourth in the backstretch to take a one-length victory over Disarming in the $1,500 featured pace at Vernon Downs. With Bill Arthurs in the bike, the winner toured the mile in 2:03 and paid $7.40. Betty Bingo was the show horse.

At Saratoga Harness, Jimmie Freehall paid $6.80 with a half-length win over A Q Perfecta in the featured $1,300 pace. Ray Simsler brought Jimmie out of second in the stretch to victory and a mile time of 2:04 4-5. Up To Win was third.

Norbet took charge on the far turn at Yonkers Raceway and proceeded to an easy 1½ length victory over Mooney Hanover in the featured $5,000 pace. With Herve Filion in the bike, Norbet covered the mile in 2:04 2-5 and returned $4.80. Challenger Lobell came home third.

With Fred Haslip in the bike, Flawless Sparkler set a new lifetime mark of 2:05 in Batavia Downs' $2,800 featured mile pace, beating Valley Master by one length and leaving Daring Paul at third. Flawless returned $8.80.

Rosner's Hooples exploded for five runs in the seventh inning to sink Boo's Tavern 10-4 and clinch the Blue Division pennant in the Saugerties Softball League.

Rosner's won 11 games and lost two to capture the title. Boo's and Village Cobbler are tied for second with 8-4 records.

Tom Greco fashioned a seven-hitter for his 11th victory in 12 starts for Rosner's. The winners collected 11 hits off loser Joe Maines (1-1).

Bob Sinnott knocked in four runs for the Hooples on a single and triple. Dee White slammed two doubles and a homer, Bob Gilmore singled and double and Jack Whitaker had a single-triple combination. Boo Schaffer led the losers with a double and homer. Don Minkler and Joe Maines rapped two singles each.

In other Blue Division action, C & L Aquarium outslugged Village Cobbler 13-9 and Helsmoortel Insurance had a 10-run fifth inning to down Mahogany Ridge Cs, 12-7.

The C&L victory was a major upset that kayoed Cobblers' pennant chances. Gary Richardson led the winners with three hits and two RBIs added two singles and a double. Greg Chorvas went single-triple, Bud Miller, single-double and Tom Abate, three RBIs. George Terpening and Bill Bonelli had three hits each for the losers.

Steve Thornton no-hitted Helsmoortel's until the fifth inning when the big explosion occurred.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on
40,000 miles	Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

32 Additional Units Planned for Holiday Inn

KINGSTON

Added elegance as well as a $650,000 expansion is planned for Kingston's Holiday Inn with 32 new units to be added and additional dining and banquet facilities for 350 persons.

Louis Sturman, who with Irby Cooper own the inn on Washington Avenue near the Thruway traffic circle, announced this week that construction is scheduled to start immediately.

The new units will be added to the west and the banquet facilities will extend to the east toward Washington Avenue.

The present facility opened in February of 1969 with 122 units. The addition will bring the total of deluxe units to 154. The 32 new rooms will feature the same accommodations as the present ones, including two beds, wall-to-wall carpeting, color TV, telephones and sound proofing but they will be more lavish in furnishings and decor, Sturman said. Steam baths are and will be available.

Elegance will also be found in the new banquet and dining facilities which will be furnished in gold and brown including a ballroom executed in Regency style complete with chandeliers.

Al Sottile, restaurant manager, explained that the motel will be able to accommodate as many as 650 persons at one time for such events as conventions and large dinners. The expanded banquet room will be designed in order that it can be divided into smaller dining areas to accommodate all types of affairs, including weddings, anniversaries, parties and meetings.

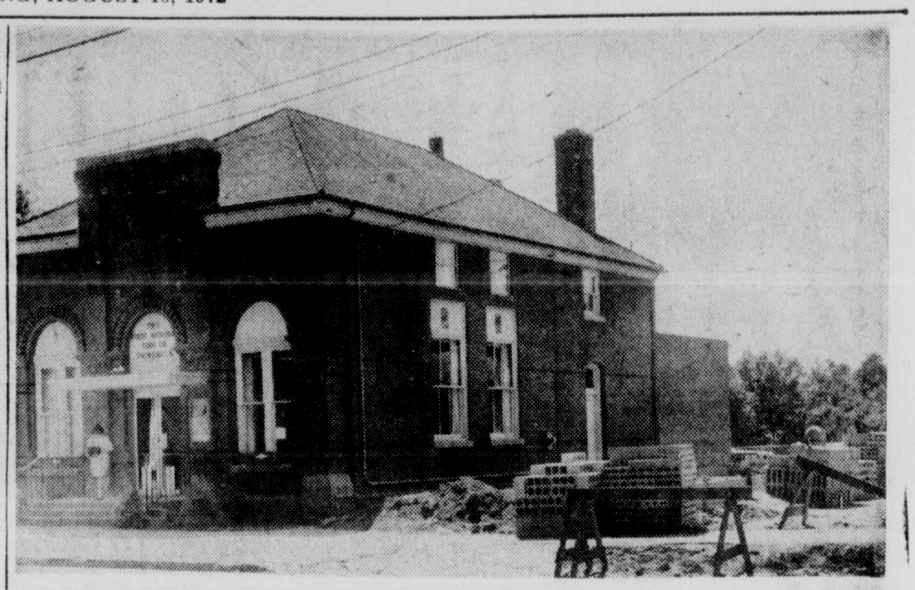

A dance floor will be built-in Sottile said, and an extra bar will be installed in the banquet area. Changes are also planned for the cocktail lounge which will be enlarged as will the lobby and the laundry which takes care of all the motel and restaurant's linen service.

Sturman expressed pleasure that the expansion is needed and is possible and that more part and full time employes will be hired from the Ulster County community.

He said he hopes to have the new dining and banquet facilities completed before the Christmas and New Year's holidays and that the new motel units will be opened after the first of the year.

Bob Lloyd is the innkeeper and William Bond Associates of Memphis, Tenn. are the architects.

Sales Increase For Big V Stores

FLORIDA

A. Richard Rosenberg, President of Big V Supermarkets, Inc., owners and operators of 12 Shop-Rite Supermarkets in the Hudson Valley, today announced results for the first six months of 1972.

Sales increased by $2,350,000 to a record $32,382,000 from $30,032,000 a year ago. Net earnings however, declined to $161,231 from $337,849 in the six months ending June 26, 1971. Earnings per share were 16 cents on 1,006,427 average shares outstanding versus 42 cents on 800,000 average shares outstanding a year ago.

Rosenberg said "The decline in profit was due to the extreme competitive price pressure in the Supermarket industry. This forced Big V to reduce its gross profit margin dramatically and to spend additional amounts of money for advertising in order to protect its share of the market. We believe future profits will be enhanced by the actions taken during this quarter.

"Our expansion plans are proceeding according to schedule. On May 16, 1972 we opened our 12th supermarket in Newburgh. Our 13th store in Monroe is now nearing completion, while the 14th sotre in the Albany area is being readied to open early in the Fall. This means that Big V will have 14 large, modern supermarkets in operation by the end of 1972, and should achieve its goal of $70,000,000 in sales for the year 1972."

A Shop-Rite store in the Kingston area is located at Shop-Rite Square, Ulster Avenue Mall.

Three Bankers Attend School

MADISON, WISC.

Three residents of Kingston, N.Y., were among 922 banker-students from 50 states and Washington, D.C., who attended the 20th summer session of the three-year School for Bank Administration held July 23-Aug. 4 at the University of Wisconsin.

The record 922 banker students included 37 women from 18 states ranging from Alaska to Florida and Rhode Island to California. The total included 388 freshman students, 270 juniors and 264 seniors. The students also came from Canada, Puerto Rico and the West Indies.

The school is sponsored by the University of Wisconsin and the Bank Administration Institute, and is one of the more than 500 short courses and conferences held on the Wisconsin campus at Madison throughout the year as educational public services for all citizens.

Subjects tackled by the banker-students include bank accounting, bank auditing, and bank operations. They also must submit extension problems between summer sessions. Evening seminars follow the regular daytime classroom sessions, where the banker-students get an opportunity to hear discussions on supplementary subjects.

Kingston, residents attending the session were Walter D. Colclough, Bankers Trust Hudson Valley; Brian E. Donnelly, Bankers Trust Hudson Valley and Albert E. Tutsel, Rondout National Bank.

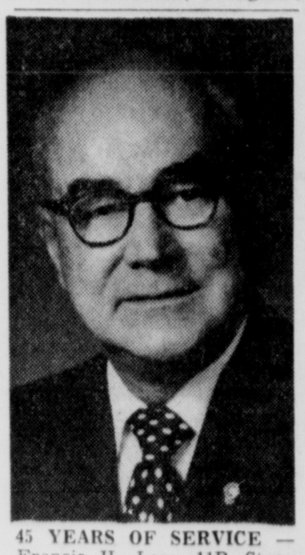

Local Shell Dealer Receives Certificate

ATLANTA, GA.

Dan Dailey, 757 Albany Avenue Extension, Kingston, N.Y., has graduated from Shell Oil Company's Dealer Management Development Course. He was awarded a certificate of achievement at a luncheon held in Albany, N.Y., recently.

He completed a five-week course covering all phases of modern business management, customer service, and the latest advances in automotive servicing techniques, including various pollution control procedures, tune-ups and air conditioning.

A 10-year veteran in the service station field, Dailey is proprietor of the Shell station on Wurts Street, in Kingston.

45 YEARS OF SERVICE — Francis H. Law, 11B Stony Run East, will celebrate his 45th service anniversary this month with the American Telephone & Telegraph Company. He is operations manager with the company's Long Lines Department in Rosendale. Law is a member of the Mid-Hudson Chapter, Telephone Pioneers of America, an organization for those in the telephone industry for 21 years or more. Married to the former Irene McCloskey, the Law's have three children and six grandchildren.

LEGAL NOTICES

INVITATION TO BIDDERS
Sealed proposals will be received, publicly opened and read in the Board of Education Business Office, Administrative Center, 61 Crown Street, Kingston, New York by Ira M. Shaw, Associate Superintendent for Business Management, on Wednesday, August 23, 1972 at 10:00 a.m. for "GROCERY BID".
Copies of specifications and conditions may be obtained at the above address.
LOUIS A. SALZMANN, Clerk
Board of Education

PUBLIC HEARING
A public hearing will be held by the Village of Rosendale Zoning Board of Appeals to consider an application by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Eriksen of Kerhonkson, New York, for a special use permit to operate a home for retired adults at 17 Hardenburgh Lane, Rosendale, New York. The meeting will be held on Thursday, August 31, 1972 at 7:30 p.m. in the Village Hall on Main Street.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS: STATE DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION, ALBANY, N. Y. — Sealed proposals, for the projects described below, will be received until ten-thirty o'clock A.M. on September 7, 1972 by the Director of Contracts and Claims Bureau, Department of Transportation, Administration & Engineering Building, Room 108, 1220 Washington Avenue, State Campus, Albany, N. Y., when they will be publicly opened and read. Proposal for each project must be submitted to the Bureau of Contracts and Claims in an appropriate bid envelope with the name and number of the project plainly endorsed on the outside of the envelope. Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check or bank cashier's check, payable to the order of the "State of New York, Department of Transportation" for the sum specified in the advertisement and the proposal. The retention and disposal of the bid deposit, the execution of the contract and bonds shall conform to the provision of the Highway Law and the Specifications. Any projects in this letting that are on the Federal Aid Highway System are subject to the provisions of Title 23, U.S. Code, as amended, and are also subject to the applicable New York State statutes. In compliance with the provisions of Section 113, Title 23, U.S. Code, the minimum wages to be paid laborers and mechanics are included in wage schedules that are set out in the bid proposal. Maps, plans, specifications and proposal forms may be seen and obtained at the office of the Director of Contracts and Claims, The State Office of General Services, 270 Broadway, New York City and at the office of the Regional Directors noted below. Minority business enterprises will be afforded full opportunity to submit bids and the Department of Transportation hereby notifies all bidders that it will affirmatively insure that any contract entered into pursuant to this advertisement will be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder without discrimination on the basis of race, color or national origin. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Your Horoscope

Thursday, August 17

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are now overly eager to travel or in some way to exapnd your interests and extend yourself far beyond your present sphere of activity. Make sure, however, that during the morning you force nothing and that you do not get into any arguments. Then the rest of the day and evening are just great for you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are apt to want to use force to get something you want very badly, but use diplomacy instead. Make some new contacts who are worthwhile. Go to the right source for the information you want.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although the morning may be trying, do not indulge in self-pity, and later you can have much fun with the one you love. Your intuition is not good during day, but fine tonight. So be sure to follow it then.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Morning could prove difficult, but show you can still smile. Later in the day you can make better arrangements with a good associate. Know what your true position is with mate, others. Then you realize what is best to do.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you stop deliberating about that work ahead of you and delve right into it, you get it done for once and for all. Show you are most efficient. Plan time for rest in p.m., instead of going out and getting overtired.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Steer clear of one who has an eye on your assets during day and then be off with congenials for the amusements you desire. Show thoughtfulness for mate and come to a better understanding. Good manners are most important now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Showing consideration and thoughtfulness to those who dwell with you brings fine results now. Handle some basic matter well, though it requires some effort on your part. Prove you are an efficient person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Make preparations early to see good pals and business allies so you know exactly what to say and do. You can confer with one who can help you advance very quickly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Money matters are very important to you today, so get into all the ramifications of such early and watch the improvement by p.m. Listen to what a clever business expert has to suggest. Follow good advice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle personal affairs with others in a most diplomatic and intelligent way now, and this will help you advance. The afternoon is excellent for entertaining, or accepting some fine invitation extended to you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Much care in motion of any kind should be exercised now. Plan your activities for the near future most intelligently and widen your horizons. Get the suggestions you need from one who is an expert in your particular field of endeavor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Avoid that pal who likes to argue a good deal and get together with people who can help you be more productive. Personal affairs should be put off to the evening hours. Then handle them wisely.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) The morning is apt to be rather difficult, but later in the day you can take care of both career and civic matters efficiently. Find the right system for handling one who is vital to your happiness and welfare. Early to bed tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those highly sensitive young people who needs harmony and happiness in the environment early in life so the nervous system can strengthen itself naturally. Then your offspring can become a most vibrant and efficient person. An academic education is best here, since the mind is definite and thorough; then upon maturity fine opportunities will be seized and much made of them. Provide good religious background.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

QUICK KISSES: (Q.) I am 14 and I have a misunderstanding (I think) with my parents. They are very strict, especially my father. A boy named Joel asked me to go to a square dance. I liked him some and wanted to go. My parents talked it over and my mother got my father to let me.

My sister overheard this conservation:

Ma: "Are you going to let her go to the square dance?"

Pa: "No."

Ma. "You'd better start letting her do some of the things she wants to or she's gonna take off."

Pa: "Oh, well, all right. Tell her she can go."

I didn't see anything wrong with kissing Joel on the first date. The first kiss was out in the open. It was during one of the dances where the couple goes to the middle and gets to kiss each other. Then we kissed (short ones) twice after that (once right after the dance and once for goodnight). Those were the first times I ever kissd a boy.

I told my sister (she is retarded when it comes to common sense and I'm so mad at myself) and she told my parents. My father was shocked. He gave me a lecture and said I shouldn't kiss on a first date because then guys will want to smooch with me all night and they will think I'm easy.

This date with Joel was a double-date. I really don't think I'm old enough to single date. But what about doubling? I know Joel respects me. I found out about some things he had done and I was shocked. I told him (subtly, that I'm not that kind of a girl and he promised he'd never lay a hand on me.

I will never do anything behind my parents' back and I'm not ever going to give in to anybody. But what about double-dating regularly when I'm 15? And what about kissing on the first date—when you like the guy a lot?—Misunderstood in Pennsylvania.

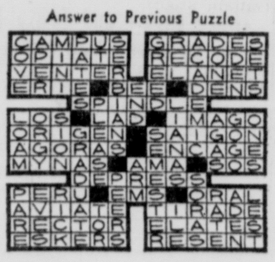

(A.) Most teens begin double-dating around 15. Many meet boys at movies and chaperoned events at age 14. Quick kisses at a square dance are not so serious or in such bad taste as a father might think—even on a first date. But this is something you won't want to overdo. Your father is right in saying too much kissing is bad.

Let your parents know they can trust you. Be honest and open with them and they'll be happier and more trusting with you. You have nothing to hide.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions and comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001)

Show Beat

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Tim Conway is a cheerful, happy, funny guy. He'd better be because I'm about to get him in a mess of trouble.

It's his own fault. He said it. He came right out and made these remarks about women. Making remarks about women nowadays is something like going into a lion's den and saying you prefer tigers.

"Women don't have as good a sense of humor as men," Tim said. "When a group of men get together, right away there's laughter—the guys make jokes. But a group of girls get together and—have you noticed?—the talk is about babies and school and sewing and cooking. They're too serious to laugh very much."

That's enough to get him into deep trouble with the girls, collectively. But then poor Tim compounded his problems by getting into trouble with one particular woman, namely his wife.

"My wife hasn't too much of a sense of humor," he said. "She's always interrupting my stories. I'll start a story, 'Last Thursday, I went' and she'll say, 'No, dear, it was Wednesday' and so I'll start again, 'Last Wednesday, I went to the store' and she'll say, 'No, dear, you were going to get gas.'"

This newsmaking conversation took place at the Disney Studio where Tim is starring in something called, "The World's Greatest Athlete." Tim was doing a scene with Roscoe Lee Browne, who was playing an African witch doctor and was in the process of shrinking Conway down to a more convenient three inch high size.

Every time the scene was done, Tim did it a little differently. The last time, he tossed in an ad lib line about how his only previous experience with magic was when he was visited by the tooth fairy.

Later he said he guessed that thought came to him because of a letter he had in his pocket. It was a note to his son, Patrick, 6, one of the six Conway kids, had left on his pillow and Tim was going to get it framed. It read:

"Dear Tooth Fary:

"I lost my tooth today but it fell down the drain. Will you please give me the money anyway?

Patrick"

Tim says that all his half dozen children are different. He says Patrick is the conniver in the crowd, "the one without fear." It was Patrick, for example, who hurt his hand with a hammer and when his father asked him exactly what happened, he showed him—cracking Daddy smartly on the hand with the hammer to demonstrate.

Tim has 12 variety show appearances lined up for this coming television season—six with Carol Burnett, four with Bill Cosby and two with Flip Wilson.

"I could have done one more," Tim says, "but I didn't want to. That would have made 13—and when I do 13 weeks on TV, I'm automatically canceled."

That, of course, is a reference to his rather tragic television history—except for McHale's Navy, his TV shows get dropped pretty quick. He says he might take a shot at another one but he's in no hurry. Guest shots and movie roles, like "The World's Greatest Athlete," keep him happy.

And he'll have to be pretty fast on his feet, pretty loose, to keep away from the women he has angered.

Hoss Cartwright Is Missed

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It was the first day of shooting on the 14th season of "Bonanza," and the cast and crew were understandably tense.

The company had resumed shooting without the jovial presence of Dan Blocker, who had starred as Hoss Cartwright from the beginning of the television series. He died May 13 of a blood clot in his lungs.

"Nobody said anything at first, which was a mistake," co-star Michael Landon recalls. "You could feel the uneasiness all day.

"Finally at the end of the day, each of us made a speech, and we all broke down. That was good. It acted as a catharsis and allowed us to get on with our work."

Landon recently finished directing a two-hour segment of "Bonanza" which will open the new season on Sept. 12. The show is called "Forever," and it's a love story that Landon had written for Blocker.

After Blocker's death, Landon patterned the script to fit himself as Little Joe. It's a bittersweet mixture of love, marriage and tragedy, with Bonnie Bedelia playing the Cartwright bride.

"The script is virtually the same as when I first wrote it for Dan," said Landon. "I added about three lines to tell about the death of Hoss. That's all that needs to be said. It's not necessary to discuss his death; you wouldn't do that in real life. The important things remain silent."

Mike Landon seems to be still in the process of adjusting to Blocker's death. They worked closely for 13 years, spending long days together on stages and locations.

"Our relationship was very close, although we seldom saw each other off the set," Landon remarked. "That was only natural. When you're together so much, you run out of jokes at the end of the day.

"We ran into real trouble about the seventh year: there were no more jokes to tell. Then we realized we had forgotten the ones we told each other seven years before, so we started all over again."

Both Landon and Blocker faced the problem of maintaining their enthusiasm for the series during its long run.

"I think Dan might have been bored until he found enough outside interests to occupy him," the actor added. Landon solved his problem by writing and directing several "Bonanza" segments each season.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

When your partner has made a game-forcing bid, your jump to game shows that the only thing extra you have to show is a good trump holding. You are making a slam try but warning your partner that he cannot expect anything extra from you in the high card department.

North's hand is just about ideal for this jump to game and it also makes things mighty easy for South to go to the grand slam.

South knew that there might be some little play to the grand slam contract when he bid it and when dummy hit the table he gave the hand considerable study before starting on his plan of campaign.

It was obvious that he had 13 easy tricks against a 2-2 trump break and that he would have to find the best play if trumps failed to behave nicely.

Therefore, after winning the club he played his ace of spades and continued with a spade to dummy's king. East showed out and South had to play on carefully.

It appeared that he would not be able to handle a 5-1 diamond break so he decided to play out dummy's ace and king of diamonds and hope for the best.

When both opponents followed it was all over but the shouting. He ruffed a third diamond high; led a trump to dummy's jack; ruffed a fourth diamond with his last trump; cashed the top hearts to discard a club from dummy. Took the ace of clubs; ruffed his other club and made the last trick with the jack of diamonds.

U.S. Bombers Destroy Power Plant Near Hanoi

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Air Force F4 fighter-bombers knocked out a suburban Hanoi industrial power plant Tuesday and shot down a North Vietnamese MiG21 fighter plane, military spokesmen said today.

In Cambodia, Communist rockets hit a refugee camp near Phnom Penh's airport, killing six members of a single family.

In a delayed report, the U.S. command confirmed that a U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom fighter-bomber was shot down Sunday by Communist groundfire near the northern edge of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams. Both crewmen were listed as missing.

The U.S. command also reported that a U.S. Army AH1 Cobra helicopter gunship was shot down Tuesday by groundfire near Quang Tri City, South Vietnam's northernmost capital that has been in North Vietnamese hands since May 1. One crewman was killed, the other wounded. Another Cobra chopper was grounded by Communist gunners in the Central Highlands but both pilots were rescued unharmed.

It was the second time in less than two months that U.S. planes have knocked out the Viet Tri steam power plant, 30 miles northwest of Hanoi, the U.S. command said.

While the F4 Phantom jets were bombing the power plant and a railroad bridge 15 miles away, three or more Communist MiG21 fighter planes rose to attack the U.S. planes. Other F4s assigned to protect the fighter bombers swung into action and when one MiG flew over the American formation, it soared into the sights of a Phantom and was shot down with an air-to-air missile, spokesmen said.

In the fighting for Quang Tri City, 435 miles north of Saigon, North Vietnamese troops advancing under cover of a 190-round barrage of 130mm artillery shells attacked South Vietnamese Marines at two points within a half mile of the provincial capital. The marines drove back the attackers, killing 19, but seven of the government troops died in the fighting.

A 20,000-man South Vietnamese force has been trying to recapture the city since June 28.

In Cambodia, the Communist gunners who struck at the country's main military and commercial airport Tuesday also damaged a hangar and a water system, the Cambodian command said.

The Communists also shelled the international telecommunications center at Cambaul, 12 miles southwest of Phnom Penh, with 27 rounds of 75mm recoilless rifle fire, seriously wounding four persons and cutting most telecommunications between the Cambodian capital and the outside world.

SALT Inquiry Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J.W. Fulbright has ordered an inquiry into Sen. Henry M. Jackson's allegation that the Russians "lied to President Nixon" in the final SALT negotiations in Moscow.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Tuesday he has directed the committee staff to question the Central Intelligence Agency about the report.

He asked Nixon for an explanation or denial.

Jackson, D-Wash., injected the allegation into the debate over the U.S.-Soviet interim agreement on offensive weapons and his amendment urging the United States to seek "equality" with the Soviet Union in any future permanent agreement.

Hope vanished for Senate action this week when Jackson and his opponents failed to agree on the time for a vote after a lengthy session with Senate leaders Tuesday.

But the House was scheduled to vote today on a resolution approving the agreement without amendment.

Jackson said the Russians told Nixon at the summit meeting in May that they had 48 Y class nuclear submarines deployed or under construction.

"We now know they had only 42," Jackson told newsmen. He said his information came from intelligence sources he declined to identify.

He said that Russian overstatement of submarine strength at the summit meeting could have affected the terms of the interim agreement which limits Russia to 62 submarines and the United States to 44.

The continuing debate prompted Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott to accuse both sides of "bullheadedness." He said there's no chance of Senate action before Congress recesses Friday for two weeks, and possibly for the rest of the year.

Six Terrorists Surrender After Hijacking Plane

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI)—Six armed terrorists who hijacked a domestic airliner with 96 persons aboard from Argentina to Santiago surrendered to police today after the Chilean government rejected their pleas for asylum.

The guerrillas commandeered the Austral Airlines BAC111 jet at Trelew, Argentina, and held the 90 passengers and six crewmen as ransom for their demands. The six had broken out of a maximum security prison at Rawson, a small town 15 miles away in the desolate Patagonia plains on the Atlantic coast.

Argentine Interior Minister Arturo Mor Roig said the jailbreak was masterminded by terrorists who coordinated a guerrilla attack from the outside with a riot by prisoners inside. In the shootout that followed, one guard was killed and another critically wounded, he said.

News dispatches from Trelew and Argentine Interior Ministry sources said 25 political prisoners, five of them women, escaped under fire. They split up into two groups, six in one and 19 in the other, and drove along different routes to the airport at Trelew in stolen trucks.

The six, armed with automatic weapons, arrived at the airport just as the twin-engined jetliner was taxiing for takeoff after a regular stop on a flight from Comodoro Rivadavia, 210 miles southwest of Trelew, to Buenos Aires, 675 miles to the north. They forced tower personnel to signal the plane to stop, boarded it and ordered the pilot to fly them to Santiago.

The other 19 escapees, including the five women, arrived too late for the plane and following negotiations, surrendered peacefully to army troops who were called to the airport.

Clark Gives Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Ramsey Clark, who has been called a dupe of Hanoi by President Nixon's backers, went before a Senate subcommittee today to tell what he saw during his trip this month to North Vietnam.

The former Democratic attorney general expected a friendly audience from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who called his judiciary subcommittee into session to take testimony on the impact of American bombing on North Vietnamese civilians.

Clark arrived back in the United States at the beginning of the week. He said U.S. bombs had struck civilian targets, including an isolated hospital, and reported he had seen bomb damage to dikes. Clark also said he had visited with 10 U.S. prisoners of war and found they were humanely treated.

He said he was told Sen. George S. McGovern's election would lead to the immediate release of some prisoners next Jan. 20 and the release of all of them in another three months.

Clark's statements immediately became presidential campaign issues. He and McGovern were lambasted by Nixon's lieutenants, and Clark also came under fire Tuesday from a prominent Senate Democrat—Washington's Henry M. Jackson.

John N. Mitchell, the former Republican attorney general and Nixon campaign manager, said Clark had been duped" into playing upon the "deep concerns" of the families of the POWs. He called on McGovern to explain whether he endorsed such outrageous conduct" and state whether he still considered Clark a proper candidate for FBI director.

Sen. Hugh Scott, the Senate Republican leader, contended Clark had allowed himself to be "used by Hanoi." Jackson said Clark should not have made general statements without saying that he was taking a conducted tour."

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird disagreed that the prisoners were being treated humanely. It is very inhumane," Laird said. Rep. John E. Hunt, R-N.J., said Clark was "projecting the Communist line."

But Clark refused to recant when asked in San Francisco about Mitchell's charge that he had been duped.

"How does he know I'm duped?" Clark asked. "Richard Nixon has asked him to say that to distract the American people from the truth. Let's stop trying to distract America from the truth."

City School District...'Good Year'

By LOUIS A. SALZMANN
Superintendent of Schools

KINGSTON

With the passing of the 1971-72 school year we can now take a look back at what we have accomplished. It has been a good year for the school district in many areas.

Our test results as reflected in the Regents examinations have been very good. Our graduating class, the Class of '72, had more high honor students — those with averages of 90 or above — than any other class in the history of the Kingston High School. The Class of '72 earned more prize money, scholarships, awards, grants, than any other class in history. Taken as a whole our academic achievement has been up to standard during the past year.

The drug program which was instituted at the start of the 1971-72 school year, and which was funded in part by the state, has operated very smoothly under the guidance of Richard Sheridan, drug education coordinator. The difference between the last school year and the preceding school year in drug problems has been astounding. During the preceding year, I had at least a dozen drug cases before me as superintendent of schools. During the last school year I had one.

I don't want to give the impression that the drug problem has disappeared in the Kingston schools, because it has not. What I am saying is that we are learning how to cope with the problems when they arise in the best interest of the children affected.

The program consists of classroom work as well as individual counseling by Sheridan and others. We have devised a standard procedure in handling drug problems as they come up. We try to involve as many people in the problem as we feel are necessary to reach a solution. In every case this involves parents or guardians of the student affected.

While in the beginning there was a hesitancy on the part of some parents to face up to the problem, we have managed to overcome this through our positive approach to the situation. During the coming year we will continue the same drug program and in addition we will also have the cooperation and support of the Ulster County Drug Commission through its administrator, Michael Wood.

During the recent school year we undertook an evaluation of our reading program, both the regular program of reading instruction and the remedial reading program. We have completed all the tests necessary for this evaluation and the data will be compiled early in the fall. At that time we will announce to the public what we have found.

Our move to the Administrative Center on Crown Street has had some very positive results. We now have under one roof the entire business department, pupil personnel services, including transportation, the superintendent's office, the board of curriculum and instruction departments of both the elementary and secondary levels, the tax office, our printing office, and most recently, the entire audio-visual department has moved from the East Chester Street warehouse to the basement of the Administrative Center.

As far as the operation of the district is concerned, having all these departments under one roof makes for a much smoother operation. On the other hand, the move has given us much needed space in several buildings. At the George Washington School, where the Board of Education and the superintendent's office were housed, we now have an enlarged library for the use of the 750 students at the school.

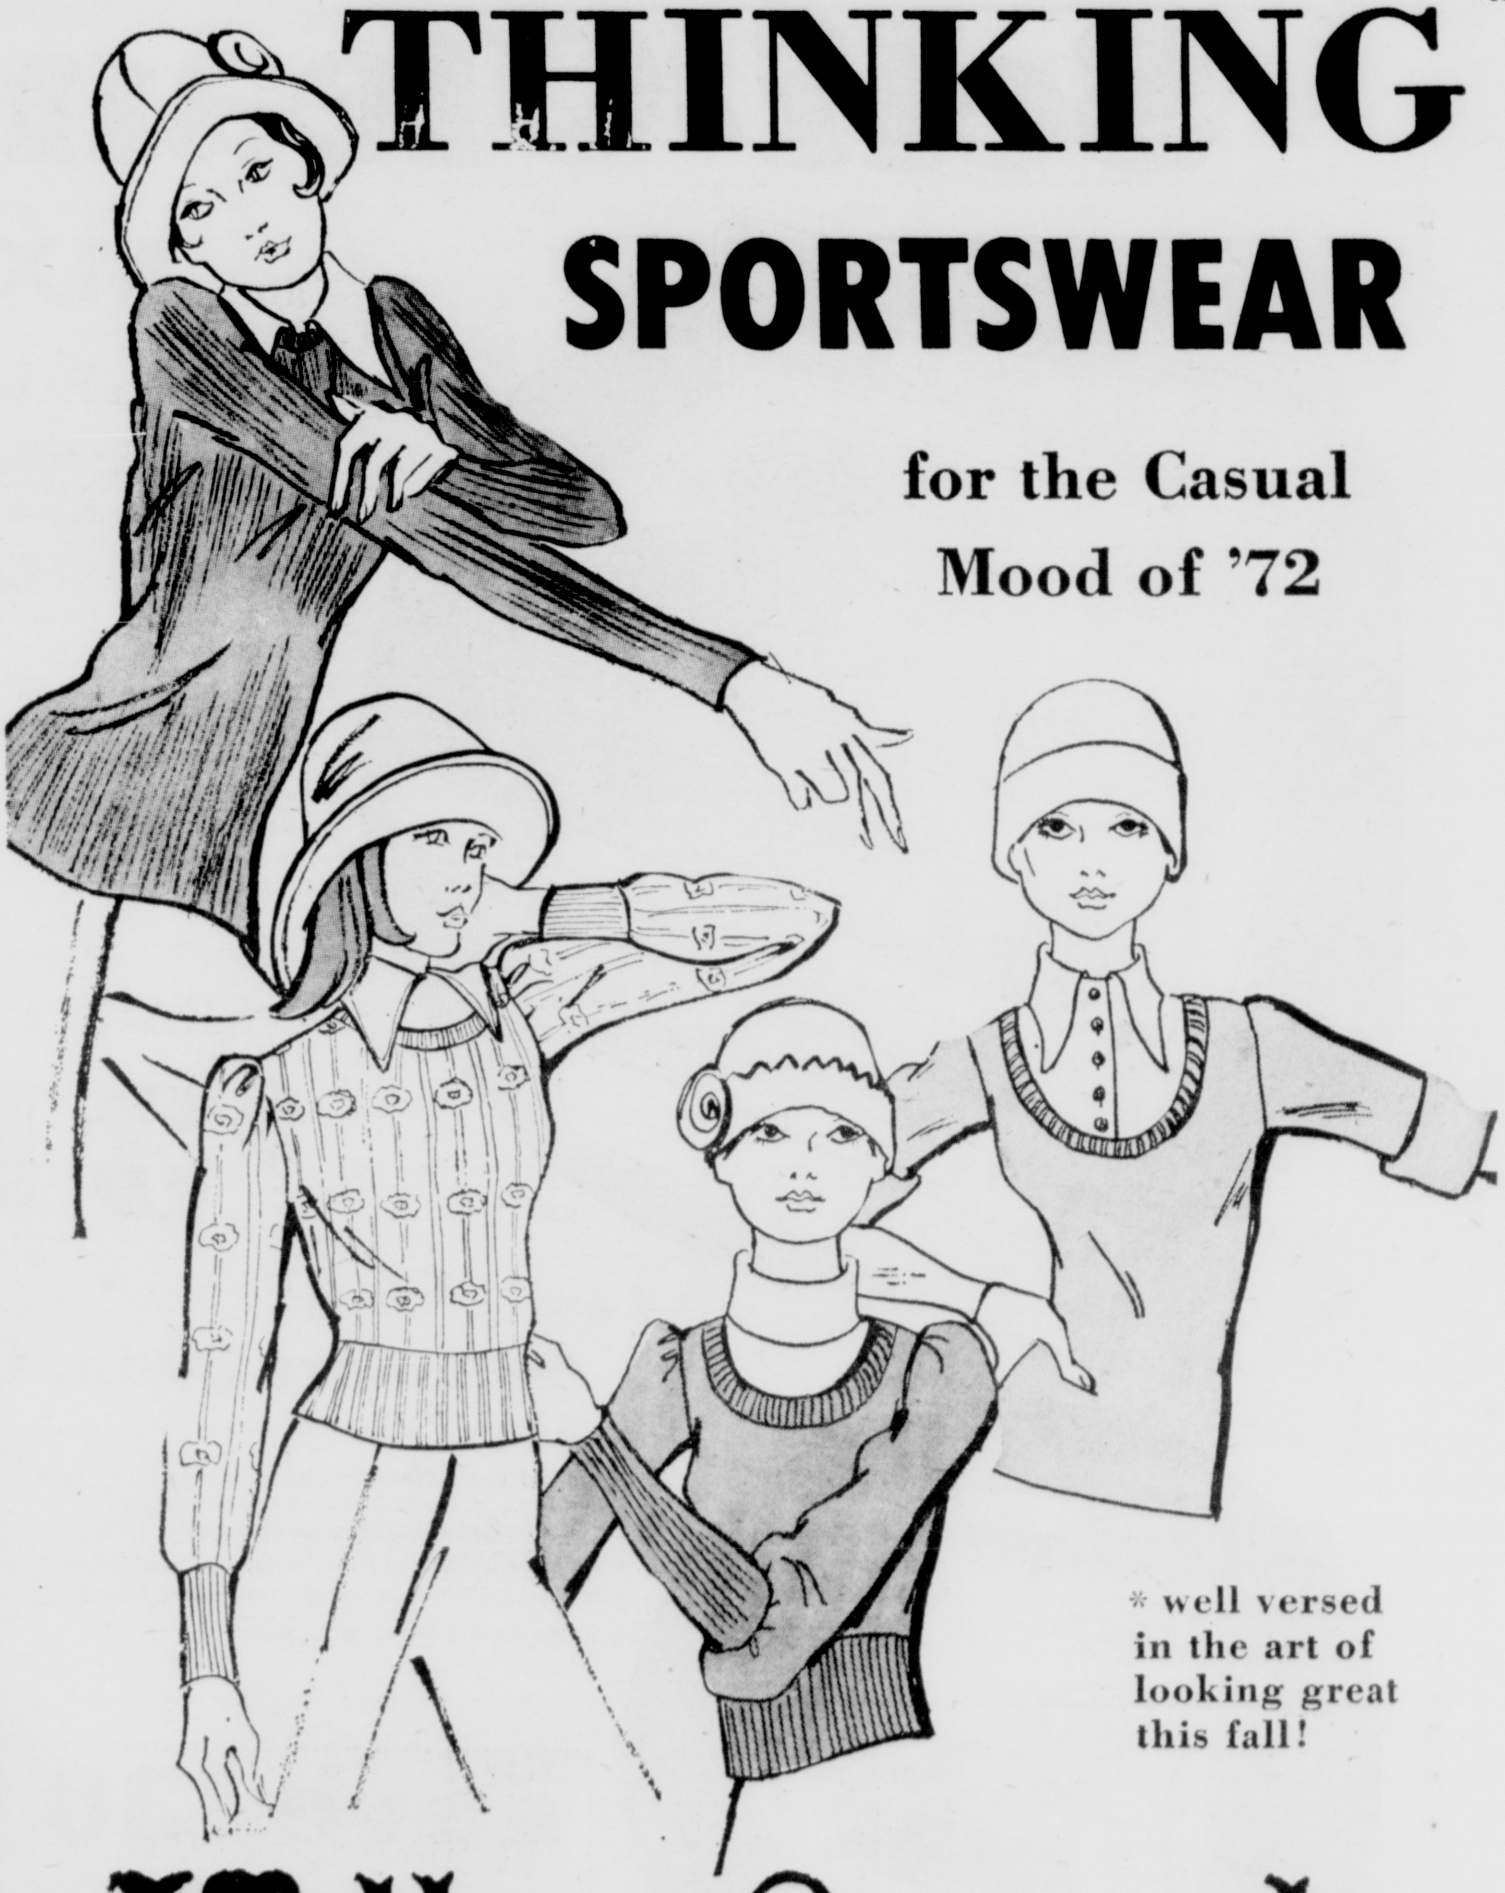

In addition, we have been able to eliminate two classrooms which occupied part of the cafeteria. In addition to that, the Tax Office at George Washington is now a first grade classroom. At the Kingston High School, the pupil personnel offices have been taken over by the principal's office. The foreign language supervisor and the drug education coordinator are also housed in this office. The move of the audio-visual department from the East Chester Street warehouse gives us much needed additional space at that facility.

During the spring of 1971, William Hurley, athletic director, proposed a revision in our athletic program which would involve many more students in our intramural activities. The Board of Education accepted the proposal and during the most recent school year we had a greatly expanded program for the young people of this school district. The students were able to participate in soccer, football, baseball, basketball, and other sports on a much broader scale than under our previous program.

Great Promise Seen

SAUGERTIES

"I am looking forward to a year of accomplishment for Saugerties Schools during 1972-73, Superintendent Dr. Dexter O. Arnold announced this week saying that "some of the areas which show great promise are:

— " 'GOT,' Getting Ourselves Together, which will seek to involve teachers, pupils, parents, board, administration, and community in a cooperative spirit of constructive improvement.

—"The Elementary Curriculum Council which has demonstrated the ability of teachers to work in large and small groups to evaluate curriculum, to recommend improvements,and to implement approved changes.

—"The start of our own program of Child Study Classes and take steps to provide greater assistance to pupils with learning difficulties.

—An expanded elementary reading program through the use of federal funds with two additional reading teachers

—"A Career Development Task Force was started last year and is expected to develop plans for greater attention to the need for career education in the elementary schools. This will supplement our vocatioal program with BOCES and our own work-experience program.

—"We are expecting department heads in the secondary schools to develop plans for instructional improvement in this area.

—"The work of the department heads and the Elementary Curriculum Council should result in better articulation between the elementary schools and the junior high school.

—"We have an Environmental Task Force which is involving staff and pupils in ecology studies and planning," concluded Dr. Arnold.

Courses Feature Variety

KINGSTON — New course offerings have been planned for John A. Coleman High School students this fall with seniors being given opportunity to choose classes in humanities, advance government and advanced biology in addition to a wide variety of already established courses in everything from drama to psychology.

Exciting and popular courses introduced in the past will also be continued, according to Sister Catherine who told of a "practicum" in religion in which students devote two periods a day, three days a week to volunteering their services in Benedictine and Kingston Hospitals and at the Ulster County Head Start day care center.

English and religion are also combined in still another course offered as an elective. Titled "Man and God", it concentrates on the literary view, tracing various religious themes.

Aids in teaching are employed in another senior English elective which concerns itself with communication. Students are given opporunity to employ the use of video tapes and movie projectors in connection with their studies.

There is something for students and those interested in academic courses have a wealth of courses available including math, social studies, physical science, languages (French and Spanish), chemistry, physics and religion.

For those interested in the world of business there is accounting, general business, typing, shorthand, business practice and marketing and management. Art courses are available throughout the four-year program, Sister Catherine said.

The freshman and sophomore courses are fairly well structured, she explained, adding that more choices in subjects are introduced in the senior years where there is a great deal of freedom of subject areas.

Top Slot Changed At Paltz

NEW PALTZ — The chief school administrator's slot in the New Paltz Central School District changed this summer from a supervising principal to a superintendent of schools. Dr. James Hicken is the first man to fill the superintendent's job.

Hicken came to the New Paltz district from the Ramapo district. He replaces Dr. George Smith, who was filling in as supervising principal following the retirement in mid-year of longtime Supervising Principal Federick Dippel.

Hicken said his situation as the new superintendent of schools was "a typical." Instead of being able to concentrate on familiarizing himself with the district, he has had to concern himself largely with finding a high school principal. Theodore Sirko was acting high school principal during the 1971-72 school year, and is returning to teaching. Hicken's familiarization has been hampered, but he intends to have the necessary parts of it done before the start of the school year.

There are a number of "first things" a new chief administrator must do, in Hicken's view. Hicken said he had to see, in detailed analysis, what kind of budget he had to work with. "A budget is just a blueprint of program," he said.

He has to get to know the staff and the faculty when they return from vacation. He has to examine the past history of the district, to determine past and present directions, so that any programs he suggests will dovetail with them.

Once the school year starts, Hicken said he needs to get to know the students as well as the faculty. He must examine the program.

He must develop machinery for evaluating and improving the program.

English Taught Second

NUNAPITCHUK, Alaska (UPI)—In several tiny Alaska villages, native school children in the first two grades are learning their lessons in Eskimo while English is taught as a second language.

At Nunapitchuk in southwestern Alaska, Sophie Parks, 22, keeps the children busy with songs, stories and lessons in the language they speak at home.

Mary Elizabeth Parala, an English teacher from Michigan, is the counterpart in the bilingual education program and believes the children learn more quickly by starting their lessons in Eskimo.

"They are doing much better as far as concept development is concerned," she said. "They are learning more than they possibly could in English alone."

The Eskimo-English program was introduced in seven village schools last year and it has won the praise of the Alaska Federation of Natives (AFN), Bureau of Indian Affairs and the state's school system for rural Alaska.

AFN officials would like to see the program extended to hundreds of other first and second grade children who are being taught only in the English language.

The AFN leaders believe the English-only classes retard the education process and contribute to the breakdown of the strong family life of Alaska's remote villages.

Donald R. Wright, AFN president, said more bilingual classes are needed along with the programs the state school system has initiated to help close the gap between cultures of the white middle class teacher and the native student.

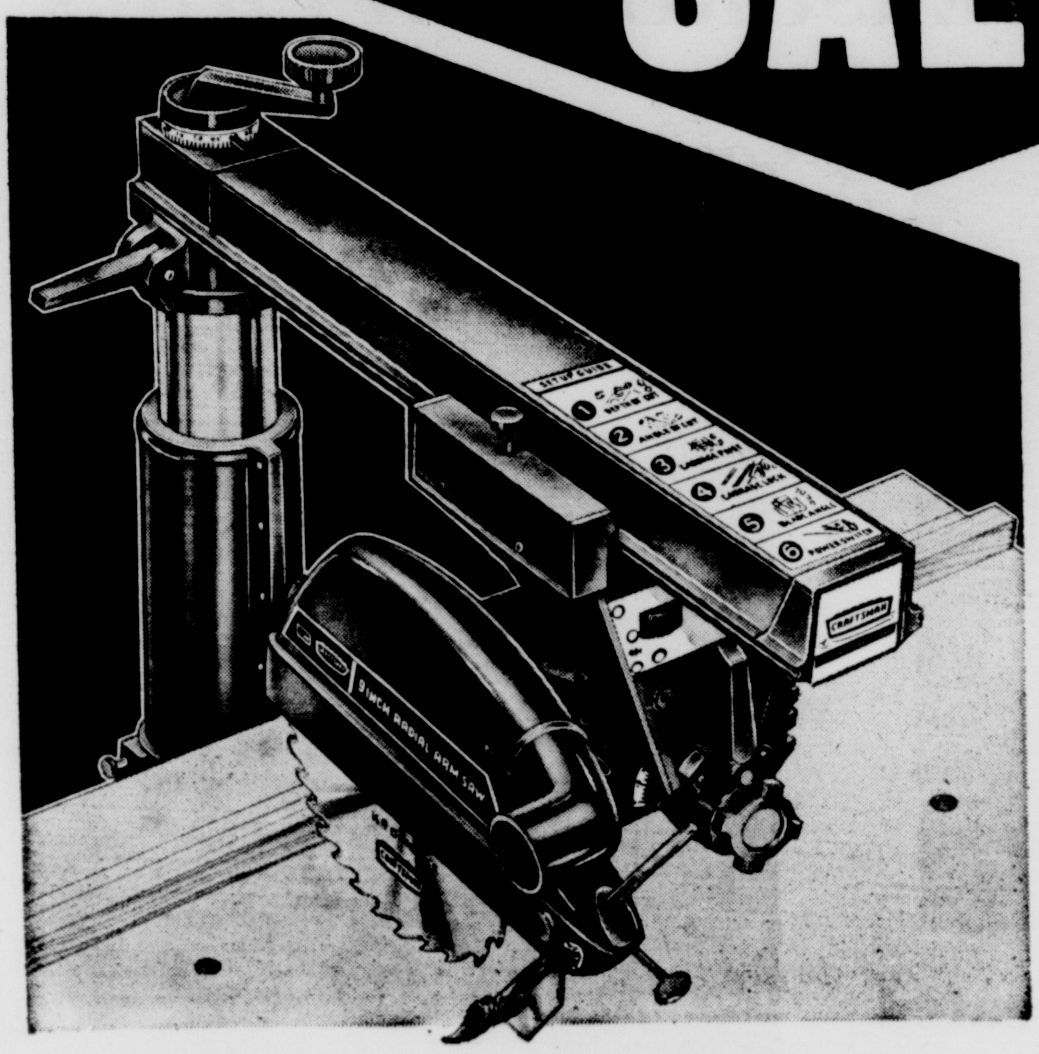

In a tour earlier this year of three southwestern Alaska villages, Reps. Lloyd Meeds, D-Wash., and Victor Veysey, R-Calif., found that books used in the schools were inadequate.

"There is very little in those books that those children have any affinity with naturally," Meeds said.

School Goal Listed

RED HOOK

The Red Hook Central School District goal is to be responsive to change, but conservative in its approach, according to District Princiapl Russell J. Keefe.

One outstanding example of this educational philosophy at work was embodied in the second semester of this past school year.

William Fitsmaurice, junior high school principal, was in charge of a new approach to the exploratory" courses — homemaking, industrial arts, music, and fine arts, so called because students of this age group are traditionally exposed to these subjects in order to determine their preferences.

Instead of the 20-week courses offered in almost all junior high Schools Red Hook implemented a series of "mini-courses' 'that combined various elements of these courses into irregular lengths and had the youngsters choose the combinations they desired.

It was deemed a success by the students and teachers alike. Teachers found it more stimulating because they could work in teams, and students liked the flexibility and informal approach.

Done only in the eighth grade last year, the entire junior high school will use the practice this year. Keefe said that many educators from all over the area and from Albany have been keeping an eye on the program.

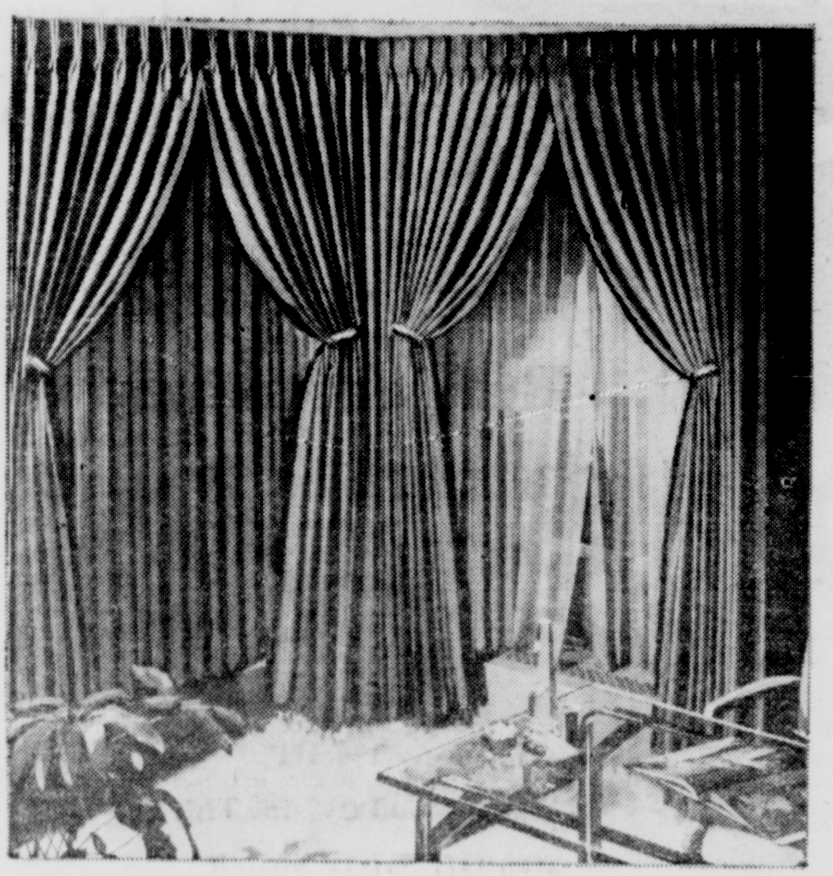

The school population has gown and changed tremendously since Russell Keefe was a student teacher in the district in 1942. Following a stint in the service, he came back to begin 26 consecutive years in Red Hook.

He believes that the present school plant is capable of population growth, as the classes are not growing over the past two years and the influx of people into the district has slowed appreciably.

More Demands Seen

RHINEBECK Public schools have a responsibility to maintain their academic orientation, according to District Principal Ralph Steeves, who has been with this district for six years.

Commenting that student attitudes now demand a more permissive attitude on the part of school authorities, which is largely backed up by parents, he said that this is not necessarily a good trend.

Agreeing that it is difficult sometimes in a small district such as Rhinebeck to present the diversity desired by many, he said that the percentage of college bound youth in Rhinebeck compared to other districts remained high, even though this trend appeared to be slowly reversing itself.

Steeves has been involved professionally in education for some 23 years, having come to Rhinebeck in 1966 from New Hampshire.

Some different values have been evidenced in public education over the past 20 years, he noted. More students stay in school longer.

And there is a trend to modify courses to make them more appropriate. A recent development he approved of is the effort to give students a "saleable skill" upon graduation, which is one of BOCES contributions.

Steeves considered that the quality of teachers had remained high, "especially here in Rhinebeck." The concept of teaching has probably changed somewhat, he said.

One program that has met with success in the district, which is not widely practiced, is the pre-first" and "pre-second" grades.

This concept has been in progress for five years. It selects children who are deemed less mature than their peers from the first and second grades and groups them together for special attention, keeping class size to about 15 children. Most are able to join the regular class after this special treatment.

It takes a lot of care and a lot of time to produce a bedroom like "San Marco." In fact, the finish alone took 18 separate steps. The major ones applied not by machine, but by hand. Only hands could coax this much luster from a wood. Master craftsmen were given the finest hardwoods to work with. Oak and oak veneers which they carved with grand Spanish designs that date back over 400 years. Ornate Moorish arches. But seeing is believing. Why not visit Sears and put "San Marco" to the test?

Federal Funds Cited

ELLENVILLE The Federal governemnt plays an important role in the funding of local school programs. The Ellenville Central School District is involved in these Federal programs somewhat more than many other county school districts.

Ellenville Superintendent of Schools Thomas J. Hayden told The Freeman Ellenville received $81,164 in Federal aid last school year. The figure for the coming year is not yet available, and depends to a large extent on the will of Congress.

The Federal funds came to Ellenville under the National Defense Education Act. The funding received under that act is to be used to help the educationally disadvantaged.

Ellenville's summer program is a good example of what can be done under Title I of the NDEA. The program carried on this summer gave help to students who needed it in math, reading, and English. The language part of the summer program was carried on to help the Spanish-speaking students, giving them greater skills in English, a necessity for taking full advantage of the instruction given during the regular school year.

Under Title II, the district, for the past several years, has received a "couple of thousand a year" to build up the library facilities, said Hayden.

At times, the district has been able to take advantage of Title III of the act, which is generally for new equipment. The funds come to the district on a matching basis. This year, the new earth science course in Ellenville High School was conducted with equipment purchased with joint Federal-local district funds.

A difficulty with Federal funds, according to Hayden, is that they are only given for specifically documented purposes, called categorical funding," rather than for general use by a district.

Onteora Central School...Innovation

BOICEVILLE — Onteora Central School will begin a new year in September, with new goals, new plans and new programs designed to maintain its position as an innovator among academic circles in Ulster County.

"We have always encouraged innovation and experimentation," said Dr. Frank M. Marlow, Superintendent of Schools, "and we will continue to do so. We're always willing to try new ideas."

Nothing exceptionally radical or far-out . . . just some different ideas' that may help make education at Onteora more productive and palatable.

Most significicant of the new programs planned for September is a student oriented junior high science curriculum. Marlow explained that the science students will be allowed to study at their own pace. "It's possible that in a class of 20 students," said Marlow, "there will be 10 or 15 experiments going on at the same time."

"A program such as this," Dr. Marlow added, "offers two major advantages: the slower student won't be frustrated and the faster student won't be bored."

The program was developed and recommended by junior high science coordinator Ron Pape and will be tried in all junior high science classes at Onteora beginning in September.

The "school within a school" concept implemented last year on the junior high school level will be continued this year, according to Dr. Marlow. It entails, in effect, a separation of junior and senior high school students. Although grades 7-12 will remain housed in the same building in Boiceville, a new junior high school curriculum has been specifically geared to the needs of "early adolescents."

"The seventh and eighth grade students will now be able to identify with their own school," said Dr. Marlow. "They'll have their own sports program, their own paper, their own student council. They won't have to wait until the 11th grade to assume a position of leadership in the school."

Several new elective courses are on tap for high school students this year, including anthropology and environmental biology. The latter will place heavy emphasis on field trips, in a move "away from the classroom lecture approach."

A structured drug education program will be started in the fall, with the help of a $5,000 grant from the Ulster County Drug Commission and the Narcotics Addiction Control Commission. Fourteen staff members have been involved in writing and preparing the curriculum that will be offered to all students in all grades in the Onteora district.

Expansion of the facilities at the Bennett Elementary School is also viewed as a highlight of the approaching year. Three modular classrooms will be purchased for the facility to help combat overcrowding.

Marlow sees a gradual leveling off of student enrollment at Onteora, and that will certainly help keep class sizes at a bearable level. The Superintendent projects, for this year, "an increase in secondary enrollment; a leveling off of elementary enrollment and a decrease in kindergarten enrollment." The projected pattern at Onteora follows the national trend reflected in a decline in the birth rate.

Also new for '72-'73 is an educational program for youngsters. "There are now sufficient numbers of children in the district to justify the program," said Dr. Marlow, "I have great anticipation that it will be highly successful."

With the signing of a two-year contract with the teachers several months ago, the "tensions and frustrations" that negotiations will be avoided this school year. Dr. Marlow looks forward to 'greater cooperation" between teachers and administrators as a result.

"Onteora has always been above state and county norms in terms of student achievement," Dr. Marlow concluded. "We're sending our kids to the best schools. Onteora has an outstanding reputation, but education is more than merely learning information and facts; it also involves the development of life patterns and social responsibilities. We're optimistic of continued advances in this area, as well."

Rondout Valley...'Accountability'

KYSERIKE

"Accountability" has become a subject of fierce debate in American Schools these days but Rondout Valley Central School District was into it long before it became a household word.

"We expect the results of our five-year study to be in by February of next year," "Robert Robertaccio, superintendent of schools, told The Freeman. The study, called for by Robertaccio and compiled by a panel of school principals and guidance counselors, "will give us the opportunity to see what we have accomplished," Robertaccio said. "It is very much in line with the whole idea of accountability, but that is not the reason we are doing it, per se. It is not just a study to pat ourselves on the back. If we find we're not doing well, the next step will be revision of curriculum." Reading in the lower grades was an area of concentration for the study. Standardized tests will be available to assess the school district's standing with state and national norms.

The Rondout School District, centralized in 1958, has experienced a 65 per cent increase in student enrollment since 1960 when it serviced 1,940 students.

The latest figures (for the 1971-72 school year), show 3,206 students, 900 in the high school (grades 9-12), 850 in the middle school (grades 5-8) and the rest in the elementary schools, grades K-4. There are elementary schools in Rosendale, Marbletown, Accord and Kerhonkson. The high school and the middle school are on the main campus at Kyserike.

The system employs 177 full-time classroom teachers and seven part-time teachers along with 16 "auxiliary personnel," guidance counselors, school nurse teachers and social workers."

Starting salaries for teachers with bachelor degrees is $7,950 and rises to $13,356. Teachers with masters degrees start at $8,650 per year and rise to $14,536. The system pays teachers $1,750 for each graduate hour earned. Overall, the budget for 1972-73 adds up to $5,217,000 with a true value tax rate of $26 per thousand.

This June, Rondout graduated 177 seniors of which 82 went on to either a two or four year college. The percentage, about 46 per cent, used to be higher, Robertaccio said, indicating to him that students are now seeking alternatives other than college.

"Kids are taking a second look at college," Robertaccio said. "It used to be that they went on almost as a matter of course, perhaps their interests were less defined. Kids are now looking at getting a job, doing something different."

Robertaccio sees a trend developing away from college. Kids will have many opportunities in other areas, perhaps the technical areas, and maybe make as much money. Sometimes there is a tendancy to equate earning power with education, but I'm not sure those studies would hold up with the way things seem to be heading now."

The school district will at least give those students who want to head in that direction the opportunity. "We're trying to build up our commercial program and our business department," Robertaccio said "We feel the trend right now is towards providing kids with something they can actually leave school with prepared for a job, for a specific kind of job." There will be a heavier emphasis on vocational training for those students that want it. Next year, a pre-vocational explatory program will be instituted in the eighth grade. The school is part of the BOCES network.

A good deal of the feel for student needs comes from formal and informal liaisons with the students themselves. Robertaccio works with a student advisory council, made up of members of each high school class, meeting with them regularly once a month. They discuss such things as student dress, the lunch program, curriculum, the school budget. "I think we have a closer relationship with the students, these days," Robertaccio says. "The times have changed, there's a greater sophistication among students. They seem to have widened their vision. We try to be responsive."

Each school principal also works with a student advisory Council. Robertaccio singled out high school principal James Vertucci for special praise. Jim does an excellant job in that respect. He's attentative to what he sees happening."

Robertaccio is a graduate of Fordham University and New York University and has done graduate work at Harvard and Florida State University. Prior to coming to Stone Ridge in 1962 he worked in the New Rochelle School District.

IDEA'S ALL WET—With hot weather there is an urgent desire for water. Sue Tate, (L), and Cindy Swanson of Bedford, Pa. designed a dual fountain with water filled balloons. The system left them dry inside but otherwise extremely wet. (UPI)
